

Introduction

Thank you for reading this newsletter and I apologise that this one is quite a bit longer than usual. The reason is that there has been a whole host of information I felt I really needed to share with you as soon as possible.

Two relatively unknown prophecies are covered and they add considerably to our knowledge on what is going on and what is coming, one comes from an Australian elder and one from a Hawaiian Shaman. The latter also introduces us to the E'epa. The E'epa have other names you will be more familiar with but understanding their role in what is going on is critical to understanding what we must do going forward.

This will bring us to all the Civod manipulation (yes I still need to disguise words to get around the algorithm bots that will stop this email being spread around) that is going on right now and there are some figures and statistics here that will blow your mind. The deceit is truly staggering and yes please do share this newsletter with anyone who you feel would like to read it.

Just knowing this deceit leads us to ask some critical questions in regards to cancer and Civod. I really hope I am wrong on this one, but if not, we are going to see some serious increases in this dread disease where changes to coding that have already taken place will mean that viccanes cannot be blamed.

This leads on to take a closer look at the way death is coded and how they have now planned out the old CT cycle Sars test method for manipulating the figures for positive cases and how they have already planned in an new way to be able to purposely introduce new shutdowns again in the near future with their new manipulations. Building up hopes in people in order to then later on shatter them again is what breaks people down. Knowing this is their plan, in advance, will help stop resolve from being broken.

I will then go on to look at how the Universe and the other 'Beings' are trying to help us in section titled 'An anatomy of a Synchronicity' and how what emerged from a truly group effort led to new understanding of our energy grid systems and their potential to help us in the future – Truly Tesla was right – nature provides both action and reaction to help us.

This leads us to looking at our Sun differently and a something else you may not know about it and exactly how it can help reduce some the common symptoms that are being attributed solely to a virus.

Lastly, I have added a new section at the end of this newsletter that highlights two predictions I have made about the short term and why. This is actually not so much about foresight or clairvoyance here but instead about being able to better manage our expectations in advance as that will help reduce any time we spend in negative territory. This will mean we can move back to being positive far more easily and quickly.

So by way of an introduction this month, I want to start with the following:-

Some of you rightfully ask why I am writing these letters and I would like to answer this now in a way that will hopefully also summarise where I think humanity stands right now. I need to also explain some necessary information for how I come to be now writing these newsletters as this will hopefully also help you to further understand what is going on.

For me science has to play a major role in our understanding. We will never know the full truth, or the full reality, but we must try to seek out as much as is possible within the realms of science. The more solid the information we can obtain, the better and more informed decisions we can make.

All good scientists are curious. I loved the debates at University around the more controversial areas within geology. I took that curiosity with me everywhere and along the way, I encountered dowsing for water and was curious how it worked so I learnt to do this and then tested this through drilling programs and found it worked 100% of the time. I next came across Earth Energy lines and the Ki and Chi forces and spent years wondering about what caused these.

In science you need to make observations so I began to map these lines and in spending time on these energies and in doing that I found that synchronicity in my life was beginning to increase.

This led to more controversial areas of science and meeting and learning about a completely new theory of the creation of the Universe with a complete theory of quantum gravity. Meeting and becoming a friend for 15 years with the Engineering Physicist Ron Pearson, opened my eyes to all the flaws in logic contained in mainstream science and this taught me how to dismiss bad science.

What I liked about Ron's theories was that he considered Mind as Cause and not Mind as Effect. In attempting to come up with a better theory of creation, Ron had stumbled upon an explanation for how a Universal Intelligence (Universal Mind) could arise that would go on to create all frequencies of matter and all the different quantum worlds. Mainstream science on the other hand required that Mind was Effect. This reductionist approach states that Mind must emerge purely from brain function.

With a destructive explosion (big bang theory) starting a Universe and mind later on arising from that did not seem anything like as good as a creative expansive breeding effect (big breed theory) which led naturally to a universal consciousness that then constructed a World around it.

Many years of conversations with Ron as we walked our Boxer dogs together therefore helped me develop a strong decision making strategy for eliciting the truth and this changed my life completely.

What also changed my life was discovering something different about the Energy lines in 2017. Something was us and my curiosity went into overdrive.

It is time to now summarise the way things stand right now:-

The image you see at the top of the newsletter is a recent magnetic anomaly map of the World.

What you see is not normal.

For centuries we have had a strong Magnetic North and South pole and these would be shown up as deep red regions at the North Pole and South pole. What you see here is that these poles are dividing and moving towards each other.

Our magnetic field is dropping rapidly right and our solar system is also exiting a local magnetic field.

The latest thinking is that these fields are coming down because our solar system is entering the galactic current sheet (see past newsletters for more information on this).

Magnetic fields shield us from cosmic energy. Cosmic energy, when it hits our atmosphere, turns into gamma rays and neutrinos.

In short our Earth is receiving much more external energy than it has for a long period of time. This is likely to be around 12,000 years which was the last time we went through the Galactic current sheet.

In addition from increased cosmic energy getting through from a variety of sources, we will also be getting increases in plasma from the current sheet. Both of these are already having an effect on our planets as well as it having an effect on our Earth's magnetic field. It is all inter related and it is a long term cyclic effect.

All of this information can be shown to be factual and there are many scientists that are fully aware of all this.

What should be of major concern for us all though is that no one is discussing this. What is open to huge debate and controversy is how this is going to change things on Earth and no one is asking questions and only a very few people are looking for answers and even fewer are putting preparations in place for what is coming.

The question you should all be asking right now is Why?

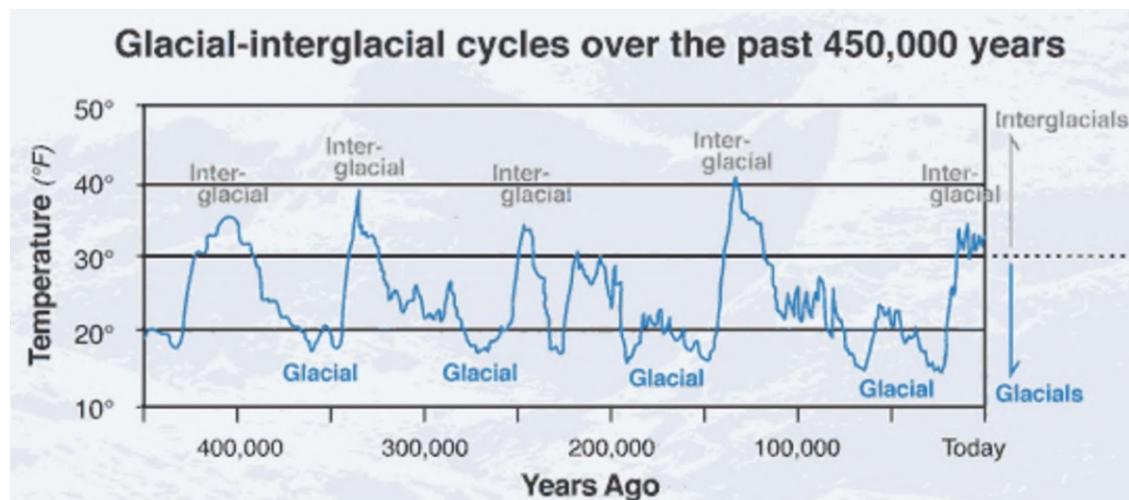

Why are we not discussing this?

I will look at this question later in this newsletter. What I want to summarise here is what the implications are with all this new energy entering the Earth's environment.

The whole debate on climate change rests on where energy comes from that affects our climate. I need here to state at the outset that humans are badly polluting our environment and we have to stop this. However, in regards to our effect on the climate, humanities influence is now likely to be very minimal when compared to the huge amount of energy that is now arriving at our planet.

If you read the research done on cloud formation from cosmic energy by Professor Svensmark (My May 1019 newsletter will help here), you will know that more cosmic energy will mean more clouds and this in turn will mean more albedo effect as the sunlight is reflected back off the top of the clouds. This has a cooling effect on the Earth as the sun provides us with heat energy and if that energy is being reflected away from us, we are going to get much less of it.

We have been in an interglacial warm period for quite a while now (see graph below)

Just because these things are cyclic, we are due to go into a much cooler time period.

(For those of you wondering how this fits in with the International Panel on Climate Change (IPCC) and their perspective on things, the following information may help. Up until their Coupled Model Inter-comparison Project 5 (CMIP 5) was concluded, Total Solar Irradiance was purposely kept as a non-variable in order to learn more about the other variables. CMIP 6 introduced the variable of solar particle forcing. You see the IPCC created the coupled model inter-comparison projects to send out to scientists all around the World so that they could test them with their data in order to get feedback in order to improve their climate model - the idea being to get a model that mirrors the reality as much as possible. These models each take around 3 years to complete. As you can see with the increasing number of models, the science is not at all settled and this last model has only just started to look at the Sun as a non-variable. The next stage will be with CMIP7 where they will likely to introduce total particle forcing. Total Particle Forcing is going to include external energy from all sources external to the Earth. As more external energy is introduced into the model that is coming from outside of the planet, it will mean that what is going on or below the planet's surface, will be shown to have to have less and less of an effect on the climate. It is increasingly looking like all mankind can do is to pollute. It is not looking like it has much influence on the long term weather patterns at all. The climate cycles shown on the graph earlier with the cold glacial periods and the warm interglacial periods now seem to be driven by 'off planet' external factors.)

In regards to this increasing cosmic energy we are getting because the magnetic fields are reducing in strength, when it hits our atmosphere, some of it turns into gamma rays and some of it turns into neutrinos.

The increase in the latter is something that I have written about several times. It is the neutrinos that is the increasing source energy for the iron nickel inner core which behaves as a transducer. This then emanated increasing spherical standing waves of ultra-low frequency vibrations which showed up in the surface as wider linear high pressure features that we sense as the Earth Energy lines.

However neutrinos also have another little known effect in the Earth's interior – it increases the viscosity in the upper mantle.

What this means is that the molten rock in the upper mantle becomes more liquid and this makes it flow more easily. This in turn now means the large heat convection cells that exist at those depths can move slightly faster. This in turn means that the solid oceanic plates on the surface can also move more easily. This in turn now means more Earthquakes and more volcanic activity as the plate boundaries move against each other.

The latter is definitely now something we have been experiencing more of recently although if you start looking for charts of increasing volcanic activity over the last 50 years, you will see all sorts of disclaimers and statements that this is not the case. I guess that is just Geologists are being told not to be 'alarmist'.

This increase in neutrinos is therefore showing us the immense power they have to change things on the Earth.

In my previous newsletters I have also written about how scientists are discovering how cosmic energy has a mutational effect on cells and how we find increases in species numbers after strong evidence of high levels of cosmic energy found in ice core samples.

I have also suggested that this increase in cosmic energy could be enough to reactivate some of our dormant DNA. This might then explain a natural increase in certain abilities that were previously scoffed at by mainstream science – like telepathy, empathy and who knows what else.

In my last newsletter, I added one more way we might be being affected. We are receiving much more gamma ray radiation now that our magnetic field strength has reduced so much and as this field is rapidly lowering, we should expect much greater levels of radiation.

We know from radiotherapy patients that they suffer from lung inflammation after their radiation therapy and we know too that there are increases numbers of people with lung inflammation and respiratory problems. I think this is currently solely being blamed on a flu-like virus that has been around for over 20 years and which has mutated several times. I am sure some unfortunate people are passing over due to this but I think that gamma ray radiation is playing a much larger part and this will continue to get far bigger as the magnetic field strength lowers further.

We know there is a seasonal flu that unfortunately kills a few 'immune system suppressed' people each year but now we have to wonder what is additionally really causing the increase in lung inflammation symptoms.

As these gamma rays are increasing, if the virus is being wrongly blamed for the current problems we are seeing from the radiation, I seriously doubt that we are not going to find that any vaccine makes any difference at all. It's a lovely excuse for the manufacturers to give us different ones each year though along with all the side effects we are not being told about.

We have to now wonder if this increasing radiation is the real reason why we are being told that we will still face shutdowns, still have to wear a mask and that the vaccine will not stop the virus being transmitted (something that by definition vaccines ought to be able to do). We are also being told that we may need more and more vaccines every year.

To me it is all looking increasingly suspicious that something else is at play here.

In addition to cosmic energy, we are seeing an increase in plasma (ionised gas) as we enter the galactic current sheet. I have written before about how we live in an Electric Universe determined by Plasma Cosmology and that we have an Electric Sun. This galactic current sheet with its positive and negative currents is what is affecting the Earth's magnetic field and the Sun.

The Sun is likely to go into a grand solar minimum after the current maximum cycle and the chance of a large Earth facing solar flare is getting greater and greater. With our natural defences down, which was our strong magnetic field, we are likely to lose half of the Earth's electrical grid for a few months. The half that suffers will be the side that is facing the Sun when the flare hits us.

So if you add these things up you might really want to ask why this isn't the hottest topic for discussion on Earth right now.

The answer to this does not make nice reading and I cover this in the newsletter. We do need to be aware of why though.

All of these things mentioned seemed to also be connected to what I was finding in Geobiology and the changes in the Earth Energy lines.

In a way, these changes were giving us an early warning system of when we finally fully enter the galactic current sheet and this is what led me to investigate the prophecies.

What is important here is to know that we are in part of a large 12,000 year cycle which means mankind has been through this before and survived. Because this is all cyclic, the memory of all of it has carried on in a variety of ways and this has led to numerous prophecies about what we can expect to happen. (I cover these in my book Grail Bound).

Since I wrote that book, I have come across many other prophecies that have appeared to people in visions and dreams that all link to this universal prophecy. In studying them all, I found out something quite revealing. Each and every one of them has something unique to offer us about the coming events, what to expect and how to prepare.

It is almost as though we are being given all the information we need and it is being shared to us over time from some amazing people. All we need to do is to collectively bring this knowledge together, learn from that and then share what has been collectively learnt.

This now ends my summary of I think where we stand and what we face.

If I am to play any role here, it is to try and help gather the information that is being learnt on geobiology and its related subjects and to then share it with others. This is why I began the social media posts and these newsletters and also why I have started work on group discussion modules and group meditations at sacred sites as well as the sacred site searches so that other groups can form and do the same thing.

I mentioned earlier that I wanted to write about two prophecies that came from two great people. The first one is from a character called Guboo Ted Thomas who was an Australian Aboriginal Tribal Elder.

Guboo Ted (1909-2002), who also had Chinese ancestry within him, was born into the Yuin people and later on he became an Elder in their tribe (https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Guboo_Ted_Thomas)

At the age of 75 he began to hold 'Dreaming Camps' all around Australia to help teach others and pass on his knowledge and specifically to restore the sacredness to the landscape. It was in a dream time state that he had the following visionary experience:-

"I was in dreamtime.

I seen this great wave going.

I tell people about this wave.
It wasn't a tidal wave.
This was a spiritual wave.
So, to me, I believe that the Dreamtime is going to be that.
I believe the revival is going to start in Australia when we're Dreaming.
It's the hummingbee that I'm talking about.
And love.
We've got to learn to love one another.
You see, that's really what's going to happen to the earth.
We're going to have tidal waves.
We're going to have earthquakes.
That's coming because we don't consider this land as our Mother.
We've taken away the balance, and we're not putting it back.
I look at the bush, and those trees are alive.
They're not dead, they're alive.
And they want you to cuddle them."

As you can see, it sends out a strong message of what we must do as well as what we can expect to happen and there are good connections here to the phenomena that I mentioned earlier about waves of energy from space and their effects.

There is one interesting line though that I want to draw your attention to. When in the 'Dreaming' state he is talking about the hummingbee.

You can do online searches for the hummingbee and come up with very little. There is no such thing as a hummingbee. Yes bees hum but there is no species called a humming bee like there is a humming bird. It is this little nugget that I think adds unique information that is necessary for all groups to know about and I go into this in more detail later on in the section titled anatomy of a synchronicity. Just recently, I have had a whole string of synchronicities in this area that I think has some very positive implications for all of us.

Reading what Guboo Ted Thomas said here, in conjunction with the process of Dreaming reveals to us that he too has added a small but significant contribution to our understanding of the Universal prophecy.

What I would like to address next has meant bringing the books section to the front of this newsletter.

It is here that you will find the second person who has made a prophecy as well as a reference to the E'Epa. This begins to tell us why we are not being told what is really going on and why serious questions are not being discussed.

These are things we really must become aware of but we must learn to not worry about. Many people might not wish to look into areas where there is negativity, however this is not facing the reality and in this case the E'epa really need to know that we are fully aware of them and what they are doing.

We need take no direct action in this regard, but there are things we can do to hasten the conclusion of the role they play and these are covered in the last section of this newsletter.

We must act with synchronicity though so we do not upset the delicate timing of the universal grand plan.

Books

I get around 50 emails a day now, many with suggestions on what to read or watch and to be honest I am having trouble keeping up with them all and replying. I have to adopt an intuitive approach with all of these as well as keeping an eye on synchronicity. Consequently, I am unable to read or watch all your recommendations. If by the way, I said I would reply and you have not heard from me, please wing me a reminder email.

One kind person (Thank you Debby C.) recently told me about the following book and my thanks goes to her for doing so as it touched both bases of synchronicity and intuition as it was an area that my spiritual discussion group touched upon earlier this month.

So the book providing us with relevant and appropriate information this month is called 'The Bowl of Light' by Hank Wesselman. The subtitle is 'Ancestral Wisdom from a Hawaiian Shaman'

The Hawaiian Shaman is a person called Hale Makua. He was also known as Hawaiian Holy man, a mystic, a wisdom keeper and a revered spiritual teacher who was directly descended from a famous Polynesian High Chief.

The author, Hank Wesselman, is a skilled and well respected Anthropologist as well as being an accomplished Shamanic practitioner and the two of them were friends for many years.

The book is not just about spiritual wisdom though, it is also about their friendship and what they shared together and it is also about a really important message from Hale Makua on what was about to happen in an Ancestral Grand Plan.

What can be gleaned from reading this excellent book is the following:-

"What we know about the spirit world comes from three primary ways – a direct experience of nature, dreams visions and insights gained through meditation and testimonials of authentic mystics who have been gifted visions in an awakened sense of consciousness."

"To unfold spiritually we have to step up and out of our belief systems."

"The true Golden Age of humanity is a time in which our spiritual revelations will be derived entirely from our individual reconnection to the ancestors and to our Aumakua" (The Aumakua is our higher soul, our Light being).

"This Ascent towards this Golden Age is not an end point but rather the beginning of a new stage in our evolution. This is the 'Why' of our existence."

"It is solely by embracing the positive that we will growuntil we eventually achieve reunion with the great source and infinite intelligence."

"The field existence is a great spiral that can maintain its stability for very long periods of time. But the system can change very rapidly when the energy flows into & out of the spiral."

"It is important that more people become aware of the Ancestral Grand Plan."

However we also learn something else that is equally important and that is all about the demons who are trying to stop our evolution and who are, unwillingly therefore, also helping us towards it too as it allows us to overcome our own fears and negativity. This is what Hale Makua has to say on the E'epa.

"There will be many who will be distracted by the illusions and the belief systems of the old paradigm to notice what is going on."

"The religious realm is now being revealed to be culturally crafted illusion, designed to distract us and keep us from discovering who and where we really are. It is because of these illusions that many have not yet ascended, because they first need to break through the dark control of the E'epa."

"The E'epa are the deceivers. They are not spirits. They are free ranging psychic entities, invisible beings who function as mind parasites. They prey on the vulnerable. They are evil Demons. They are mental forces that have an ability to intrude on the human mind all the time."

"They have no creative imagination. Humans are creators, they are not." (This is how we know who they are and who they have infected – they cannot be creative)

"They have been here a long time. Dealing with them and recognising who and what they are is the first stage of the transformational process" – Hale Makua

"Our belief systems and our faiths have been continually subject to the dominion of the dark forces and their influence upon our religious and political authorities"

"Once we recognise the full extent of this vast deception, our transformation into beings who can consciously create their personal and collective reality is enhanced."

As I understand what Hale Makua is saying in the book, these demons seem to reside in the Astral plane, also known as the False Astral. This is area between all the matter frequency Worlds of Spirit. In Goethe's fairy tale this is represented by the river between the land of the senses and the land of Spirit – a place where truth (gold) causes much mayhem.

These E'Epas, these deceivers, are very similar to what the ancient Gnostics called the Archons. They are very parasitical by nature and this is perhaps now where we can begin to see what is going on in the World right now.

I must restate again here that all we must do is to become aware of the people who have come under the influence of the E'epa. We must let them know that we know who they are and that they need help.

They must willingly ask for that help though in the short term. In the meantime, we have plenty of other things we can do and, when we are successful, we will be helping them in the long term.

What we must not do is to try and fight them. They would love that to happen.

Identifying these demonically influenced people is actually easy. They do parasitical work – work based on the efforts of others. Typically they work high up in the banking industry, high up in politics, high up in the media industry and high up in the religious institutions and in some military groups.

Not everyone in these positions is infected though and we can then judge between these people by how creative we find them. Non-creative people in these positions will be easy to find. Again I would remind you that they need our help, they just do not know that yet.

What I also found interesting in the book was something else that Hale Makue said.

“A river of higher vibrational differentiation has now begun to be available to us and this one has the potential to change the entire World.”

This sentence now connects us with Geobiology, the energy lines and the changes we are now experiencing with the increased cosmic energy that is now streaming through to reach us.

Science

In this month's science section, I want to take a closer look at what the E'epa have been up to in the World of science.

These deceivers love to fuel the level of fear in humans. There is a name for this - it is called loosh. They love to feed off this and they have been putting the mainstream media all around the World into over drive to deliver more of this over the last 12 months.

They also like to turn any possible crisis into an opportunity to gain more power and money. They are truly psychopathic and therefore in need of considerable help.

I mention all this because this section should be read without fear or any negative emotion. As I started off by saying, we need to know the reality, we need to know what the E'epa are up to, in order for us to go on and take the necessary actions to help us move successfully towards an evolution of consciousness. When we achieve that – we know it will then save the humans whose thinking has been infected by these deceivers.

The strange thing is that there are not really that many of them on the World at the moment. They fear our large numbers which is why they want to dramatically reduce the Worlds total population.

The few of them, working inside a few of us, just see the World as an opportunity to make money and increase their control and power so they can continue to feed off our negative emotions.

The E'epa (The Archons) have been around for thousands of years preparing for this moment in time in order to stop this next cyclic evolution of consciousness. Those that control humans in positions of power, for example in the Military industrial complex, have known of this cycle and they have been using science to work out ways to try and stop this evolution. They are desperate to continue to rule over us and to keep us as their slaves.

Holding these reasons in mind, I would like to write about some of the pretty dastardly things going on right now in regards to the Caronovuris.

An early reluctance to do autopsies on Civod death patients – Why?

At the very beginning of the outbreak of the latest version of the mutated Caronovuris, what may seem strange to a few of you is that there was a general reluctance officially to investigate the outbreak by doing autopsies on the dead bodies. What you will read later on is a potential reason why. This reluctance is seen in the paper that can be read in the link below.

<https://www.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/pmc/articles/PMC7382931/>

The paper acknowledges that there was 'a certain reluctance to perform autopsies of patients who died of CIVOD-19'. Organisations like the Robert Koch Institute (a health monitoring institution) in Germany were advising against performing autopsies. There were also clear votes against performing autopsies from people within the World Health Organisations (WHO). We can only wonder why at this stage.

We have to ask if this was something that the WHO did not want to be discovered too soon. (A possible reason that will I cover later on is because of their coding plans).

In a paper titled 'Autopsy findings in CIVOD-19-related deaths: a literature review Oct 2020' (link below) we find that very little is actually known about people who have died from Civod 19.

It highlights one of the things that the WHO was not doing what they should have been doing and that is ensuring there is one carefully designed protocol for these post mortems that everyone can follow in order to get comparable Worldwide results.

Now we have to consider here just how much the WHO can and does influence countries all around World into following their guidelines. It is something they can do quite effortlessly should they want to.

In regards to Caronovuris deaths they seemed to have a particular reluctance to design a diagnostic protocol for Civod death Autopsies. So we really have to ask why that might be?

The three of the conclusions to the October 2020 paper are the following:-

1. The major histological feature in the lung is diffuse alveolar damage with hyaline membrane formation, alongside microthrombi in small pulmonary vessels. In other words it is all about lung damage.
2. The diagnosis in the majority of CIVOD-19-related deaths currently remain unclear.
3. A uniform CIVOD-19 post-mortem diagnostic protocol has not been proposed yet.

The reason for carrying out autopsies is to try and find the cause of death. The symptoms may be clear here, but the cause is not certain at all. The link to the paper is here <https://pubmed.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/33026628/>

My own conclusions in regards to their strange reluctance to investigate the cause of death are covered later on in this newsletter.

We must now turn to what seems most important to these E'epa and that is the viccane. Many of them have openly said that they want everyone in the World to be viccanated before things can return to normal.

This is an incredibly strange and yet revealing remark. This is not only an impossibility but it has never been necessary as herd immunity is reached far before a point where everyone needs a viccane. In addition to that, when you threaten a vuris like this, it mutates far faster and far more aggressively and it comes back to pack an even bigger punch.

So we have to again wonder why such statements are being made.

mRNA Viccanes might be delivering humans a double punch

In August of 2018 Scientists working at the Sloan Kettering cancer institute in New York made a discovery that, at the time, did not make that much news outside of their industry.

Today though, its findings have taken on a more sinister overtone as it shows what is possible with messenger RNA viccanes and what they might be able to do.

Now I am not saying here that the current day mRNA viccanes have been made in order to do what was found out, but on the other hand the pharmaceutical industry cannot and will not, disprove it either. We know this because they will not tell anyone what is in their viccanes, nor how they were compiled and there are some serious questions that now need to be asked.

We are left with having to choose whether to believe them or not. There is no way one should believe a compulsive deceiver.

In a nutshell these scientists found that drivers for Cancer could be found hiding in mRNA.

Christine Mayr, a molecular biologist working at the Sloan Kettering Institute, wrote in a paper published by the journal Nature the following:-

“These mRNA changes have the same ultimate effect as known cancer drivers in DNA, so we believe they may play a very important role.”

It was further written that they had found

“Changes in an information-carrying molecule called messenger RNA that can inactivate tumour-suppressing proteins and thereby promote cancer. The findings pinpoint previously unknown drivers of the disease.”

The article has since been updated with the disclaimer that these changes have not been involved in the mRNA vaccines that have been developed for any Coronavirus disease – but as I have written we have to take their word for that – they will never offer any proof.

The result of all this is that their research now shows that mRNA can carry cancer-causing changes.

More precisely what Christine Mayr and her colleagues found was that many of these messenger RNAs in cancer cells produce things called ‘truncated tumour-suppressor proteins’. The changes seem to be able to occur not only in known tumour-suppressor genes, but also in previously unrecognized ones.

They found that it was possible to inactivate a tumour-suppressor gene at the mRNA level that would lead to a mutation in the DNA that also caused a truncated protein to be made.

The scientists reported that they were only working on blood cancers but they did say that what they had learnt was ‘likely not limited to just blood cancer.’

In other words they had discovered was that it was possible to alter the mRNA in a way such that it would shut down the tumour suppressing properties in our bodies.

What this means is that it is possible, by injecting a specially designed mRNA into our body, to cause the shutdown of our body’s ability to fight cancer.

Now the scientists at the Sloane Kettering Cancer institute were not doing research into how to do this but their research could have easily, and inadvertently, alerted some nefarious groups of people about this possibility.

It has to be further said that the Institutes research was just on learning more about Cancer diagnostics so we cannot blame them at all for their good work.

It does however leave a serious question mark as to what is going on now. It has been long suspected by many people that the E’epa had designed the vaccine to help depopulate the planet.

Of course if millions of people started to die after taking the vaccine, it would be pretty obvious who to blame so it would not make sense to manufacture a vaccine that would do this – even when you have no financial liability given to you by governments.

However, if you create a vaccine that, later on, greatly increases levels of cancer around the World, you can easily escape blame, still kill large numbers of people and additionally make huge amounts of money in the cancer management industry.

This, if true, would be a true Faustian deal with the Devil (E'epa) and taking your money before your life is a real double punch.

If my memory serves me well, I seem to also remember that at the outset they said that people who were undergoing cancer treatment were told not take the Vaccine. One can perhaps now see why – there may well have been an immediate connection here that might have become too obvious. Sadly this has now changed as they want to vaccinate everyone.

I for one would suggest that all governments should tell all manufacturers to do the following:-

“Prove to us that there are no tumour suppressor genes in your mRNA vaccines”

For more information here is a link to the report coming out of the institute back in 2018.

<https://www.mskcc.org/news/scientists-find-cancer-drivers-hiding-rna-not-dna>

It is time now to turn our attentions to one of the ways the deceivers love to manipulate us – by falsifying the figures and not allowing any discussion about them. If they can get away with this, they can make something out of nothing and as you will see, although the Coronavirus has unfortunately killed some ‘immune system suppressed’ people, it has never been the pandemic they originally would have liked to have seen.

Death by Civod or death with Civod – that is the question

In Monroe County Illinois, USA, coroner Bob Hill said he was utterly shocked after examining a portion of a list of possible CIVOD 19 deaths and he demanded an audit of all CIVOD 19 deaths in his state.

According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention there were 19,893 deaths listed through to the end of February in Illinois where CIVOD-19 was one of the multiple causes. Of those deaths, about 1,830, or 9.2%, had CIVOD-19 listed as the sole cause of death. This percentage was higher than in September when it was about 6%. In other words since September it seems that the death rate from Civod had increased – but why?

Hill reviewed a number of these cases to try and find out what was going on and found that people who had died from clearly non Civod 19 cases were being counted as dying from Civod 19

For example, the coroner found during his review that there was one man who died from an accidental drug overdose. The man died in January from the overdose but tested positive three months prior in October for CIVOD-19. His death was recorded as a CIVOD-19 death.

The sad thing is that wrongly recorded death certificates have become common all around the USA and also around the World.

One crazy & glaring case came from New York in which a 55 year old man was shot 7 times by police officers and he died 5 days later in hospital. His cause of death was not even listed as gun shots.

So what on Earth is going on?

For answers, I have been kindly given some assistance here from a good friend of mine who is entirely on top of all that is going on in this area due to his extensive clinical and statistical expertise. (He is one of only a few people left in the World with his extreme level of skills and I am really glad he is only interested in pursuing the truth. Sadly he has asked that I do not name him as that would draw too much attention his way and he prefers to stay incognito. You will understand why having read what he has to say.)

His own communications with the Office of National Statistics in the UK has shed some initial light on what is going on. The reply he got was as follows:-

"Our data is derived from the death certificate. The Doctor or Coroner certifying a death can record more than one health condition or event on the form. The medical certificate of cause has two parts. Part 1 contains the sequence of health conditions or events leading directly to death, while part 2 can contain other health conditions that contributed to death but were not part of the direct sequence. For statistical purposes one of the health conditions on the certificate is chosen as the underlying cause of death. The underlying cause of death is defined as the health condition or event that started the train of events leading to death and is worked out according to the rules from the World Health Organisation (WHO). Covid 19 is the underlying cause of death in around 92% of deaths where it was mentioned on the certificate."

So we now know that it is the 'bought and paid for' WHO who is responsible for the death certificate charade. They are in full control of something called Coding death and how it is recorded.

This is what the WHO says itself about the process

"With reference to section 4.2.3 of volume 2 of ICD-10, the purpose of mortality classification (coding) is to produce the most useful cause of death statistics possible. Thus, whether a sequence is listed as 'rejected' or 'accepted' may reflect interests of importance for public health rather than what is acceptable from a purely medical point of view. Therefore, always apply these instructions, whether they can be considered medically correct or not."

The last sentence shows the extreme level of deceit at play here. They are fully admitting here that it is not about what has caused a death.

But wait.....it gets worse.

The WHO have been changing their coding requirements during this shutdown period and the last time they did this was this January 2021.

Death Coding

In my January 2021 newsletter I wrote about how the WHO had manipulated the requirement for the number of CT cycles to be used in the PCR test. The inventor of the test said that if you increased the sample size above 30 cycles you would get many false positive results.

WHO immediately recommended over 40 cycles for testing Civod. It massively increased the numbers of positive tests Worldwide – because of the huge numbers of false positive results. The ridiculous result led to many thinking they were going to suddenly die from a mysterious disease that presented no symptoms to give them any warning they might be ill.

However this was exactly what was intended. Worrying millions of people in order to influence them led to the extreme levels of fear that the E'Ppa love to feed off.

It is interesting to now note that at the beginning of January 2021, this little Ct cycle game of theirs had become too exposed – more and more people were catching on.

They had to therefore change their game plan. They did thus by reducing the recommended cycles down to 31 at the beginning of January 2021. Immediately the numbers of people testing positive around the World started to fall – giving hope to millions that this ridiculous economic shutdown might end soon. (That was never the intention of the E'epa).

Unfortunately it now seems that they had another trick up their sleeve. This time it was not changing CT cycles it was changing Coding deaths.

Up to now two emergency ICD-10 codes have been used to code CIVOD cases - U07.1 (CIVOD-19, virus identified) and U07.2 (CIVOD-19, virus not identified).

However, we need to be aware here that several new emergency codes are going to be added and these are going to bump up the CIVOD death counts to much higher levels. (See link to CDC document below)

So when we start seeing much higher numbers of Civod deaths in the future, we are going to need to ask what ICD-10 coding frame has been used to ensure historical consistency.

My betting is that this will begin soon in order to bring in the shut down again.

When you look at the information in the link below, you will see that they have left plenty of room in the wording in these new codes to be able to hide the emergence of any deaths due to the adverse reactions to vaccines.

Here is the link mentioned above https://cdn.who.int/media/docs/default-source/classification/icd/Civod-19/Civod-19-coding-updates-3-4-combined.pdf?sfvrsn=39197c91_3

We could now perhaps see an increase in mRNA induced cancer deaths recorded as deaths by Civod and not Death by vaccine.

So it is time now to look at the reality as best as we can and the good news is that things are not as bad as they are being made out to be. Yes people are dying and yes this will continue but there are things we can do to help minimise those numbers and my past newsletters have outlined some of these.

So what is the reality - Spotting the difference to find the fraud

One of the questions that many people have wondered is what happened to all the influenza deaths of the last year.

Well it appears that there has been a magical drop during the 2020/2021 flu season according to the coding deaths. What is therefore needed is to take a 10 year average for respiratory deaths for the period from 2010 to 2019 and subtract these from the observed results of respiratory deaths for 2020 and 2021.

This is a technique widely used by ONS. The balance we end up with is an estimate of the excess difference generated through clinical mis-coding.

When this and the following statistical exercises were done by my friend, we can see the difference caused by these coding death changes and how fraudulent the WHO really is.

The following are his words but my formatting:-

"When we do this for the period defined by 2020/week 19 (week beginning 2nd May 2020) right through to 2021/week 8 (week beginning 20th Feb 2021) we find a total of 16,794 mis-coded respiratory deaths parading as CIVOD, this equating to an average of 390.6 mis-coded deaths per week.

During this same time frame the CIVOD death count was purported to be 97,626 when in actual fact it was more like 80,832 (83%) - still a lot but the sort of lot that is going to make far more clinical sense than WHO's farting around with coding in the "interests of importance for public health" - by this do they mean nonsensical clinical data are good for us?

Those 80,832 more-likely-to-be-genuine CIVOD deaths aren't necessarily causal CIVOD deaths because they include clinical coding from parts I (causal) and II (co-morbid) parts of the death certificate.

In order to compare apples with apples we have to separate that tangle out so we may compare causal respiratory death with causal CIVOD death; as it stands we are comparing causal respiratory death with causal and comorbid CIVOD death. It is for that reason that more statistical analysis had to be done.

In a recent release of weekly death statistics from the Office of National Statistics they provide a unique table entitled 'Weekly figures by cause' that provides a breakdown of section I and section II figures for CIVOD. Proof of the pudding is in the eating they say and here is some pretty strong proof that not all is well with the death certification process.

On the graph below now we see certified causal (section I) CIVOD death counts exceeding the excess weekly all cause deaths!

A quick stab at my trusty hand-held calculator reveals that, for weeks 1 to 8 of 2021, the total all cause excess death count comes to 36,345 deaths, whereas the allegedly causal CIVOD count comes to 44,599 deaths.

This is 8,254 deaths more than is possible by definition and I offer this as proof that the death certification process is more than a little wonky.

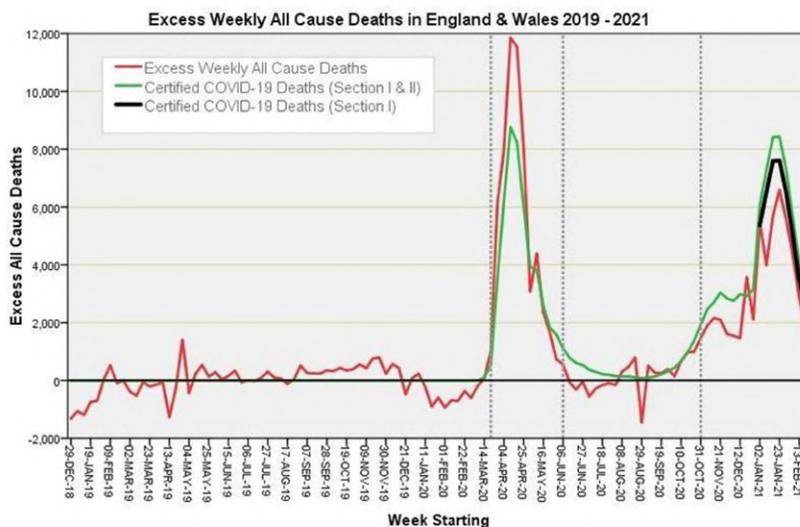

In terms of factor increase those telling first eight weeks of 2021 reveal an overall mean inflation of x1.25 of causal CIVOD deaths over and above what we would expect from historic rates.

This equates to a 125% causal count which, in plain English, means that for every four genuinely causal CIVOD deaths the authorities are generating another causal CIVOD death by applying WHO certification guidelines - this may be a gross underestimate of just how much data manipulation is taking place.

I cannot imagine any physician getting involved in this but I would not be at all surprised to learn that death certification stats are being deliberately altered by those suits who enter them on the system, or perhaps by an automated algorithm in the electronic system itself. An audit of the death certification process is strongly recommended, and I shall remind folk yet again of what the WHO recommends as regards death certification...

"With reference to section 4.2.3 of volume 2 of ICD-10, the purpose of mortality classification (coding) is to produce the most useful cause of death statistics possible. Thus, whether a sequence is listed as 'rejected' or 'accepted' may reflect interests of importance for public health rather than what is acceptable from a purely medical point of view. Therefore, always apply these instructions, whether they can be considered medically correct or not.

... there it is in black and white!"

Source: <https://coronavirus.data.gov.uk/>

Just to summarise here the black line in the graph above shows the total number of Covid 19 deaths recorded on part 1 of the death certificate in England and Wales since this January – when the WHO changed their coding death requirements.

This black line has risen, in an impossible way, above the red line which is death from all causes.

In other words we had more Covid 19 deaths than total deaths. – pure fraud from the E’pa that immediately became visible due to their coding changes. It will not be long before they cover that one up.

The final summary below, titled Mean Historic Weekly Mortality, comes from my friend having completed a full statistical analysis of the deaths in all ages and causes of deaths with data coming from the UK’s Office of National Statistics.

It clearly shows that the recent increase in deaths in early 2020 was apparent but on the larger scale of things, when we look at the stats back to 1982, it was never worth killing the economy and ruining people’s lives and our children’s chances of a good education. The following is again my friends words.

Mean Historic Weekly Mortality

*“In my previous post entitled ‘Historic Weekly Mortality’ I took a look at mortality in terms of weekly registered deaths per 100k population from 1982 to present.

We saw a fair few surprising trends and peaks and concluded that the current pandemic is by no means unique in terms of peak death registration, with little evidence of excessive all cause mortality over the last 12 months.

I drew attention to the vagaries of weekly death registration and the likelihood of peaks arising from administrative delays rather than a genuine increase in fatalities.

In this analysis I am going to melt those weekly peaks down into annual means. To do so we have to compare full years and so the analysis was limited to 1982 – 2020.

BOOM! There we go.

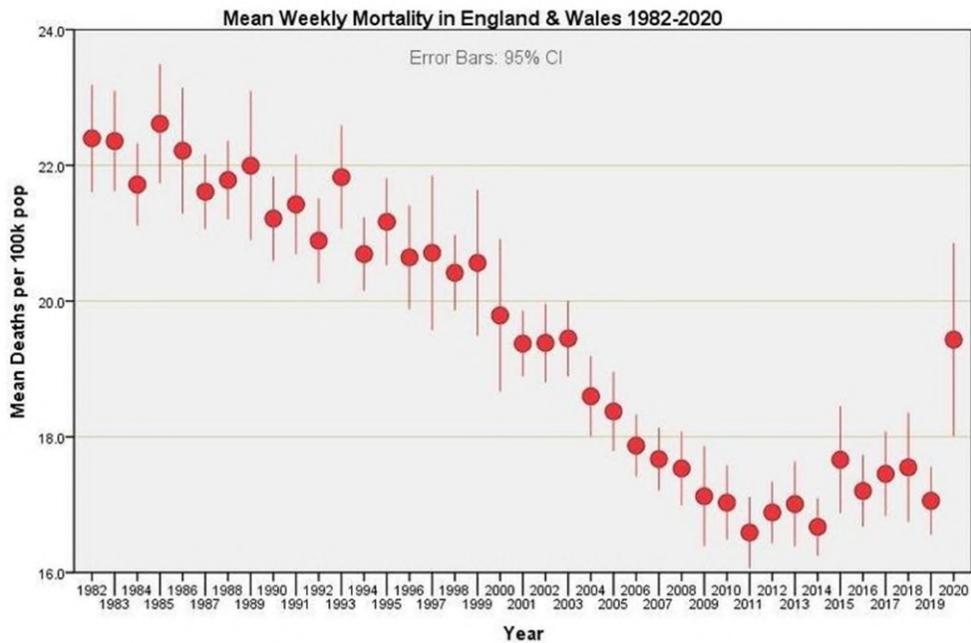

We now see something not so good was definitely going on during 2020 that clobbered England and Wales (and institutionalised elderly folk in particular).

But here is the interesting thing... whatever was going on during 2020 wasn’t any worse than what was going on back in 2003 and earlier.

Sure, we’ve got an elevated mortality rate that sticks out like a sore thumb in the last two decades but this level of mortality isn’t historically unusual for England and Wales, though it’s clear something unpleasant hit the population.

One thing I’ve noted is that analyses being churned by big bods out don’t go back that far.

The splendid EuroMomo project, for instance, starts the data series at 2016 and consequently generates scary looking Z-score humps for England, thereby ‘proving’ the presence of a pandemic.”

Any Government statisticians seeing this will be quaking in their boots – not because of what this shows but because they already know these figures to be true – it’s their job to disguise this information so it does not reach the public by providing analysis that supports the narrative.

Are they deliberately investigating the wrong area?

The most recent common ancestor (MRCA) of all caronovurises is estimated to have existed as recently as 8000 BCE, although some models place the common ancestor as far back as 55 million years or more, implying long term coevolution with bat and avian species. They are constantly mutating every year.

The name caronovuris was chosen in 2019 (Civod 19) because the vuris is genetically related to the earlier caronovuris SARS outbreak in 2003 (Which could be called Civod 3 but they will never let that happen). These two vurises are different because they mutate but they are related.

In a study done by scientists from the University of Edinburgh and written about in July 2020 they state that nearly all C-19 SARSCoV2 studies are focusing on antibody production when this is not crucial to overcome the disease. The link is below.

<https://www.news-medical.net/news/20200708/Study-suggests-natural-UV-radiation-protects-against-caronovuris.aspx>

To my mind, they are deliberately looking in the wrong place in order to advocate a vaccine and make extraordinary amounts of profit. The study goes on to say that there has never been one successful human coronavirus vaccine in history.

Instead of focusing on antibodies, this paper shows that we should be focusing on T-cell responses as these increase long term immunity. It goes on to say that 'de-magnetising blood via sunlight improves the fidelity of the Innate and Adaptive Cellular Immune systems.'

It continues by saying 'Proper solar exposure leads to optimised T regulator cells function.' You see most of our T-cells are found in the skin and this is where the sun hits us.

If you remember from what I wrote in my last newsletter, Tesla stated that nature provides both action and reaction. If sunlight is the 'Reaction' solution to this problem we are currently getting, then it is also providing the 'Action' part too. This is why I think that the main cause of lung inflammation is from the increasing gamma ray radiation from the Sun.

Yes we have had some deaths from viruses both from Coronavirus and Influenza but we are also seeing large geographic variations in deaths and these variations are inexplicable with viruses alone being the cause for lung inflammation. Something else is going on and in my last newsletter I covered what the new thinking is. It is from gamma ray radiation due to the Earth's weakening magnetic shield.

This is set to continue and it is highly likely that the EPA know this and are looking to try and hide the full implications of the effects of the increasing cosmic energy that is also getting through. If they can blame the changes on a mutating and ever more virulent virus and keep the knowledge of what is really happening in the Universe out of the news, then just perhaps they can keep us in a fearful enough state to stop us connecting in advantageous way.

We know cosmic energies drive evolutionary changes and they come with both good and bad – Action and Reaction. Through group meditation we can all evolve with all that is good.

The Sun is our friend too

Just in case a few of you are unsure just how sunlight can be good for you, here is some more detailed scientific information.

In October 2020 researchers at Uppsala University in Sweden found an effective way of treating the symptoms that have been attributed to the Coronavirus by looking more closely at a substance that the body naturally produces – Nitric Oxide.

Their paper in the Journal Redox Biology, says that Nitric Oxide has anti-viral properties but what I think their research really shows is that it has been very effective at relieving a patient's symptoms and that, as I have pointed out, may not be anything to do with a virus.

<https://www.sciencedaily.com/releases/2020/10/201002111724.htm>

Their thinking after their research was to provide Nitric Oxide in gaseous form to patients. I am not so sure that this is really necessary though as there has been other research that has shown that UVA light from the Sun helps produce Nitric Oxide in our bodies.

In the journal of Investigative Dermatology (July 2014) and article titled - An Unexpected Role: UVA-Induced Release of Nitric Oxide. (See link below)

<https://www.sciencedirect.com/science/article/pii/S0022202X15368974>

This article showed that a link existed between sunlight and the production of Nitric Oxide in our skin and that this was helping patients with acute respiratory problems.

This is supported by another paper, this time in the International Journal of Environmental research and public health (Oct 2016). The article is titled - Sun Exposure and Its Effects on Human Health:

<https://www.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/pmc/articles/PMC5086738/>

This paper highlighted many benefits found through increased exposure to sun light. One of these benefits is described as follows:-

A little sunlight can reduce the numbers of activated cells that lead to inflammation, and so the risk of getting these diseases.

UVA has also been shown to lower blood pressure, increase blood flow and heart rate, all of which are beneficial to the heart and blood vessels. This is probably the result of UVA causing the release of nitric oxide from skin stores, which promotes widening of blood vessels.

In other words UVA light from the Sun will widen blood vessels and reduce inflammation in the lungs.

If we look at this in a preventative way, a Nitric oxide deficiency is caused predominately by a lack of sun. This is especially true as we age because we lose the ability to make Nitric Oxide naturally as we get older. In other words – We need to get a regular dose of sunlight and more as we get older.

So we find that Nitric Oxide inhibits microvascular inflammation. It controls endothelial permeability in the lungs and it inhibits inflammasomes (IL1B, IL18) and it helps to decrease the chances of cytokine storms – all of which we find in patients with severe acute respiratory problems.

(<https://www.sciencedaily.com/releases/2020/.../200710212247.htm>)

In other words more sunlight will provide us with more protection from acute respiratory problems.

This will of course mean we have to also be careful to guard against the possibility of also getting skin cancer from too much sunlight. In cloudier countries, we may even have to start by not putting on protective skin lotions and cream with high sun factor levels until we get enough UVA light into our skin.

What I find interesting here is this same balance at play in nature. Too much or too little causes us a problem. The sun can harm and it can help us.

This is Tesla's Action and Reaction at work again.

To remind you of what I wrote in the last newsletter – cosmic energy coming from the sun and the universe can be both provide harmful – with its gamma ray radiation and yet also beneficial with its evolutionary effects that help us adapt and make the most of new and changing environments.

So the one thing we should perhaps learn from this is that nature provides us with both problem and solution and it is up to us to find that solution and to maintain the right balance.

In a changing environment though, we must recognise the need to adapt in order to maintain that balance.

So when we come across a problem that Nature is delivering us, we can fully expect that there is a solution to be found. This is why I am not pessimistic when I hear people talk about coming solar catastrophe's, earthquakes and tsunami's.

All the prophecies point to these things happening but none of them show visions of millions of people being killed by these things.

Earth Energy News

In the February 2021 newsletter, I used the analogy of learning to jump off a 10 meter diving board as preparation for what was coming energetically. We should practice first with a 1 meter board and slowly work up to 10 meters. The analogy was all about preparing our bodies for the new energetic environment that is coming.

At the Winter solstice last year, most of us had our first experience of 72hour frequencies. These are ones where the energy lines slow their side to side movement down to 48 hours one way and 48 hours back the other way. You can consider that our iron nickel solid inner core had slowed its rate down to much, much slower expansions and contractions within the liquid outer core.

The reason for this is that the source energy it was receiving, via neutrinos, was so different it was being transduced into these 72 hour frequencies.

It was also the harmony time and this was when all the energy lines start moving at the same speed. You can again now think of the inner core, acting as a transducer, like a loudspeaker, is sending out just one note rather than a whole host of different sound frequencies.

In reality, all the energy lines on the planet start moving more slowly. So if you live on a type 1, 2 or type 3 line – which many of us do, you will all be experiencing this shift to much lower frequencies. (It is rather nice to think that keeping people locked up, under shutdown, in one place for many days, is actually going to be helpful to people living on these lines as their bodies will become much more used to these frequencies because of that and this will help them cope with what is coming.)

I mention this because 72 hour frequencies have not been found on this planet for many centuries, probably as long ago as the last time our magnetic field strength was this low. This is why we are so unused to them and why we need to start getting used to them.

I mention this because the Spring equinox harmony frequency was also 72 hours and it started on the 19th March and it continued until the 29th March.

Personally, I have been hit by much greater levels of tiredness during this harmony time. I do live on a type 3 energy line though and I have done quite a bit of connecting through meditation. I also know many other people who have also expressed similar tiredness.

This, as I see it, is down to our body reacting to these new energy frequencies. It is getting used to them, it is making all the necessary adaptations and probably ones down at the genetic level too as certain dormant genes are being re-awakened. Remember our DNA is changed epigenetically.

So if you are also feeling drained – do not worry, just rest when you need to. Drink plenty of water and try missing a few meals. I have been on a 22 hour fast every day now for 14 months, you have to just try it and see for yourself how much better it makes you feel. Remember here that fasting lowers any inflammation and that is going to be increasingly important as the magnetic field strength lowers more and we get increasing gamma ray radiation coming through. (A necessary disclaimer here is that we all have different metabolisms and different levels of health and ill health and our diets also vary from being healthy to unhealthy so some of you may need work up to fasting for these lengths of time otherwise your liver could store up toxins and that would be detrimental to you.)

With the diving board analogy, we are probably at the 2 meter high point. So if you are joining in now, that is your starting height. Next year in Spring 2022, I suspect we will be nearer the 4 meter height. What we have experienced in tiredness now at 2 meters, will prepare us well for the tiredness in a year's time. My concern for some people who start on this journey much later is that it can hurt if you jump off a 5 meter board into a swimming pool if you get your jump wrong. The equivalent is a bit of an energy shock when you start opening up to these energies in meditation for the first time in 18 month's time.

Hopefully now, you will be seeing what I mean by the diving board analogy so that when we are all looking to jump together off the 10 meter height, we have all worked up to that level and we will be well prepared. This by the way, will be when we are immersed in these new frequencies 24 7 for 365 days in the year – probably by December 2024. This is now the part of the cycle where the underlying driver for change is outputting its highest level of harmony.

The anatomy of a synchronicity

There has been so much shared synchronicity over the following subject that I felt called to tell you more about it. The study of synchronicity has only really just begun and it has been discovered to be both complex and yet wonderfully revealing is you learn to spot the events and explore them properly. There are even ways now of initiating synchronicity and the fact that I am in the middle of running a synchronicity module for a discussion group at the moment is a nice little extra here.

If you have read the blueprint for life (see the February newsletter for that), you will see that I equate synchronicity with being close to, or on, your vocational path in life. That though is a very simplistic viewpoint because, as I said earlier, synchronicity itself is an intriguingly complex subject.

Essentially it can be seen as the Universe helping us by guiding us in life to do what we came here to do and to learn what we came here to learn in order to improve ourselves and others.

It is not a one way process and it is not a one person process and it is something we can influence ourselves by asking for more synchronicity, getting better at spotting it and also exploring it. Key to this is having good curiosity and looking to help others where you can.

The following is a recent example that shows several of these different aspects. It one that has culminated in the last few weeks for a group of us and, for this reason, it is also a good example of why working in groups has become so much more beneficial in order to enhance our learning. Indeed, I believe our very future relies on this and what can emerge within groups.

This particular synchronicity began back at the end of last year when I was doing a sacred site search for James H in Dubai. This required looking to see where the local type 4 lines connected to the type 5 Emperor Dragons. The Northern Emperor that headed South West from Mt Kailash crossing through Pakistan, Iran and the Gulf of Oman and into Oman. There a 3rd order node was found and the type 4 alignment from that node headed out towards the United Arab Emirates. Just after it crossed this border it ran through a very ancient place. What I soon learnt what that it was also known for its Bee hive tombs.

It was one of several in the area and it triggered an intuitive thought that I needed to explore this further. Looking back I can say that this was the first event in the minimum of two that is required for an acausal connection. The first event of two is almost impossible to spot at the time but we can set intuitive 'alerts' for them. (Level 2 synchronicity module)

Nothing came through for a while and in a way, this 1st event was really just a heads up about a theme that was coming along. One of the things I have been searching for was some mechanism that the Earth had that might be some kind of a natural protective feature - remembering Tesla's Action and Reaction occurring in Nature here.

I have long suspected that this protection might be found in our earth energy systems and grids and that it was necessary to understand more about these and their functionality.

The next event, that I did not spot was connected to the 1st event (ie synchronicity), occurred a little later on and this was when I was working on the Benker Grid in a location check in the UK. This time I was unfortunately unable to help the occupants in any way at all and had to advise them to consider moving and living somewhere else. I rarely have to do this but when the Benker grid is dense and there are several intersections in one property and also when this building is in a very built up area, my hands are tied. Normally I can expand the grid and anchor it in place but I was not even given permission to do this on this occasion.

Having had to tell the occupants this, they asked me again if there was anything else I could think of that could possibly be tried. If I had been asked this around 5 years ago, I might have said no. However, my mind suddenly thought of the Elementals. I had become aware of them around 4 years ago and how they could do some pretty amazing things. So, because of that thought, I set out to see if there was an Elemental near to the property and if they could do anything. The answer was in the affirmative. They could improve the situation but only for 5 months. Before I could stop myself I asked Why. (Asking an Elemental for anything to do for yourself, can be tricky and can often come with a rather dubious 'Quid pro quo'.)

Anyway the answer quickly came back "Because of the timelines" – which I knew did not come from my conscious mind as I did not understand what it meant initially.

This was enough to alert me to the connection of moving these lines with what was going on in this World and in the other Worlds. Something about these energy grids was linked to World events and that now meant that these grids potentially had functions I was not yet aware of.

The next part of this stream of synchronicity did not actually start with an event. It started with an idea that came to me when I was looking to write a social media post. This was post 354 and the one with the castle like structure emerging from out of some low clouds. The place is Sacra di San Michele in Northern Italy and it is another 4th Order node. It is not a castle though but rather it has always been a place of reverence, a sacred site and for some time a monastery.

The reason for the post though was a bit of a stab in the dark. I have found sometime that when you put yourself out on the line with a question where you do not have an answer, that answer sometimes emerges.

The question I posed was about why this structure was built in the shape that it was. I knew I was going to get replies to this, but at the time, I had no really idea where this was going to lead. The thought to do this stemmed from an idea that the pyramidal shape had been popular over 12,000 years ago when the pyramids were built (No – not by the Egyptian pharaohs – see my earlier posts on this).

What was on my mind was that possibly in this last 12000 years, some persuasive influence had driven the inclination to build different shaped buildings. Circular ones perhaps to begin with, followed by more cubic and then rectangular shapes and then later on ones that were being built higher and higher – up to the sky scrapers we find today. The question I wanted to look at was what might be coming next and whether some kind of progressing could be identified.

My own background in Geology and years of studying mineralogy had taught me about the 7 crystal systems - tetragonal, cubic, orthorhombic, triclinic, monoclinic, hexagonal & trigonal. Something in me made me wonder if this was connected in any way.

The answers in the comments that I received from that post were enough to look further in the direction of these crystal systems and this led to looking at how crystals form and how the same chemical formula could end up with different symmetry and being in a different crystal class.

My next post was on the Analcime crystal and how that could emerge with excellent symmetry or none at all and this led me to thinking that the difference could be found at the subatomic level and the universal intelligence itself.

What if there were cyclic changes at a sub quantum level that moved from a more chaotic environment to one that was more harmonic – just like these 12,000 year cycles as the Earth moves through the galactic current sheet. Would the initiation of new crystals from the same chemical formula into different systems be driven by type of energetic environment at the time they began to form?

If something like this was happening at the sub quantum level, would not all life and all matter be similarly affected by these changing environmental conditions? (I develop this line of thinking further on in this newsletter)

My thoughts now turned to the cubic nature of the Benker Grid system and I wondered about other energetic grid systems that may exist or come to exist and even used to exist.

Perhaps the crystal systems, the grid systems and indeed all systems are being influenced from the energetic sub quantum level upwards.

The idea of the tetragonal grid systems seemed to sit well with the pyramidal structures, the cubic systems seemed to fit with more modern day structures and more modern day architects were already designing more hexagonal systems.

Perhaps some common driving force, one that changed over time in a cyclical way, led to these changes.

It was around this time that I was asked to do a location check on a property in Ontario in Canada as the occupant was having some difficulties there. After quite a bit of work, one problem still persisted. I had looked into all areas and found nothing untoward. I had already repaired a nearby node and moved an energy line out of the property.

It was perhaps because of my recent thinking of different grid systems that I thought to ask more about the hexagonal grid system and I was pleasantly surprised to get an affirmative when it came to the problem. It was soon found that this shape was very constricted at the property.

I knew from expanding the Benker grid that there was a specific visualisation process that had to be followed to widen it. It is quite complicated and it takes more than one person to do this. I was now discovering that the same visualisation process would not work with the hexagonal grid. I now know why.

It was right at this point in time that all sorts of synchronicity began to kick off in regards to hexagonal grids and honeycomb information and beehive and bees. Information was coming in from all directions and from several people.

I belong to a dream group who share relevant dreams and information and it is quite remarkable at how many of us get given critical similar information at the same time. So thank you Rosemary T, Julia Y and John D for your timely dreams of hives, honeycombs and related information that came through over the next couple of days that you also drew in wonderful images.

Thank you too to Lily B who also revealed a strange vision/dream she had in a conversation that was nothing to do with hexagonal grids but, as soon as I heard it, I instinctively knew that she had been drawn to tell me about it as it was exactly what I had to visualise in order to expand the hexagonal grid.

What is worth adding here is that Lily had not connected this vision up with all this bee hive activity at all but yet her own physical and esoteric experience with bees, humming and bee hive domes over the years had been immense.

Armed with all this wonderfully insightful and helpful information I asked the lady from Canada if she was up for helping to do something pretty pioneering (I say this from a personal standpoint as it is quite likely that there are other grid workers who already know how to do this).

She wonderfully agreed and together we expanded the hexagonal grid and fixed it in place. All that was left was to now wait and see what difference that might make.

If that was all, I would have just chalked that up to a nice bit of synchronicity but it still continued. Conversations with my friend and colleague Tim G, who has joined me initially on my first trip to Spain and the 1st order node out there, led to him telling me of his experiences with honey combs and bees and how much they used this shape in their directional abilities and even possibly flight.

I also recall Otto Rahn's thoughts on Bee's being the gatekeepers to the portals. (Grail Found)

What followed next was a group meditation experience on the 19th - The harmony time.

The place we went to has been known as a fully functional sacred site for a long time so I was keen to see how both the Benker grid and the Hexagonal honeycomb grids were positioned in relationship to the node itself. The node sat right in the middle of both spaces of both grids. This was a good starting point when you know what good looks like.

In the following hour we all experienced an incredibly peaceful divine feminine feeling in our meditation. In the middle of this, a small black helicopter was heard flying towards us.

I immediately thought of putting up a dome of protection around us – a dome that would hopefully make us all invisible to the occupants of the flying black insect like machine. What surprised me though was that the dome I had visualised was bee hive shaped. I had not expected that. Normally they appear in a perfect half sphere shape.

The next moment, I heard a helicopter veer off to the side and away from us, I glimpsed at it as it passed. It was as though it had not seen us.

A little later on it felt right to chant some vowels and I knew there were some good singers in our midst. What was strange this time though was that everyone chose to hum instead. As soon as this happened the Sun appeared and shone right down on our group for the first time in the two hours we had already been there.

After meditations, we discussed what each of us experienced and I was amazed to find how many people had had the same experience of the bee hive dome of invisibility at the same time. The singers also all said that they were about to sing but something made them hum instead.

In subsequent conversations with other people who were meditating at other sacred sites, it was found that many of them also found a connection to bees and the desire to hum rather than chant the vowels. Some of them also reported bee hive shaped domes.

When you get so many people contributing to a shared synchronicity like this, you just know it is both relevant and important to us all. Not only that, but it also shows the power of people coming together and working in groups.

I know that if more people do this, we will get given timely and appropriate information that we can act upon in the future that will help guard, protect and direct us in a positive way forward.

Social Media

At the start of this newsletter, I wrote about the changes going on in the World right now and how we need to start debating them and talking about them.

I have also written about the E'epa who are desperately trying not let us have these discussions and debates.

They fully know what is going on with the decreasing magnetic fields and all the implications behind that and what will come in the future from that.

The time now is to refresh your memory about another area they have been desperate to cover up and not discuss and that is what life was like on this Earth over 12000 years ago.

The above two pictures come from some of the many posts I have made on this subject. I am not alone in saying the following as others have also been saying the same for years – There used to be an advanced civilization on this World 12,000 years ago but that, due to some catastrophe, they nearly all disappeared.

Their abilities in some areas were far beyond ours today. Finely shaping and carving and moving 100+ ton polygonal boulders is to produce walls and great monuments is something we cannot do today even with our modern technology.

It is my thinking that the energetic environment changes cyclically and that the Universal Mind has a grand design that we are all part of. As we all learn, develop and grow, along with all the 'Beings' on all the other matter frequency Worlds, so does the universal mind learn develop and grow.

So although there are cyclic catastrophes, a Universal Mind would have no desire to kill us all off.

Instead it would set up new learning environments for us where both problem and solution can be found.

The E'epa are also part of this plan, just as they are the problem, they are part of the solution. They provide us with the motivation to be curious, to find new ways to overcome the challenges that life presents us with.

Personally, I think we are at the cusp of a major step forward in our learning as our energetic environment is changing. We will soon find that our minds have expanded capabilities, far beyond what they used to be. Group meditation and what we can learn so much faster when we do this, is the way forward that will help us discover how to evolve and how to survive whatever physical changes come along.

This is why I do the work that I do. Finding the sacred sites and getting people to work in groups at these places is the key to this. Anything you can do to help with this is gratefully appreciated.

Just in case any of you are unsure of where the places in the earlier images are in the World, the first picture is of the walls at Sacsayhuaman, the second image is a close up of a wall in the streets of Cusco which is a town in Peru that is actually situated down in the valley just the other side of the walls you see in the first image.

Universal Intelligence and twinned Crystals

In my post 355 I looked at the different symmetries in crystals in the seven crystal systems and asked the question how could the same chemical composition yield crystals with the maximum symmetry found in the cubic system and yet also crystals with no symmetry in the triclinic system.

What I was suggesting was that perhaps there is some underlying driver of formation that moved from a state of less harmony to harmony and back to less harmony again and that depending on the amount of harmony we might get different levels of symmetry appearing within the formation of a lattice structure.

This was being considered because this driver might then explain how other natural systems with symmetry might also change over time and, in particular, the energetic grids like the cubic benker grids and now an emerging hexagonal honeycomb grid.

Perhaps it is possible that these different energy grids appear and disappear over time as the underlying drivers of change also undergo changes.

All this thinking is perhaps not so strange when we consider another phenomenon found in crystals – twinning.

The above is a twinned crystal of Staurolite – a mineral commonly found in metamorphic rocks.

The name "staurolite" is from the Greek word "stauros," which means "cross." The mineral commonly occurs as twinned, six-sided crystals that sometimes intersect at 90 degrees to form a cross. (An intersection angle of 60 degrees is more common.) In some localities these twinned crystals are collected, made into jewellery, and sold under the name "fairy crosses."

There are several other types of crystal that can also twin – Quartz is one of them. What is curious about them is that it can look as though one crystal has penetrated the other one. They must though have crystallised out at the same time.

Geologists say that there are quite a few laws at work here when trying to explain how this arises.

Several modes and mechanisms for their formation are put forward and aside from different temperatures and pressures and growth changes, all explanations though have had to come down to the atomic level to explain these twinned crystal formations as this is where the process must start.

At the atomic level, we are now in quantum territory and the energy behind the formation of particles. It is here that we must go back in time and look more closely at the work of one of the great people in our past.

This theory about crystal twinning formation was actually first thought about by the great Walter Russell (1871-1963). Russell was famous for many things, like painting, buildings and philosophy but also his unified theory of physics and cosmology.

The mainstream physicists disliked this theory though because he, like Ron Pearson, considered Mind as Cause (Universal Intelligence as a creator) and not Mind as Effect (Reductionist mind is just brain function – the 'when you are dead you are dead' brigade).

Walter Russell was also a great writer and he wrote a book called The Universal One. In this book he examines crystal structures and how he thought that they must have responded to both Mind and Geometry.

One of the reasons he thought this was because he had made a detailed study of these twinned crystals. With them looking impossible to form, he considered that crystals must have secret keys that were held in their atomic memory. At the time though, he had not formulated sufficiently strong mathematical support for this, nor had he come up with a strong theory of creation and how intelligence might naturally arise.

With Ron Pearson's theory of Quantum Gravity and the existence of a sub quantum World providing the intelligence and the energy to make the illusion of particles on the larger quantum World, we have a strong and solid theory. This now also provides us with an understanding for not only how these twinned crystals form, but also how they might form differently over different times.

Russell's secret keys were actually just the programs created by the universal intelligence itself and the changing energetic environment it also created. This was just part of a whole cyclical effect that could be found occurring in all the different matter frequency system (quantum) Worlds.

So in way, these twinned crystals can only be satisfactorily explained if there is intelligence behind the Universe.

Now that was not something I expected to be writing in the future when I got my geology degree.

Predictions

In this newsletter I have pointed to the future on a couple of occasions. What I would like to start doing is to write more specifically about what is likely to happen and how it may well be connected to these changing energetic conditions.

I wrote earlier about their being a changing driving force behind the way crystals form and energy grids adapt and that this was linked to more symmetry and less symmetry which in turn seems to be being driven by the universe working in cycles of more and less harmony as we pass through different regions of Space.

As we are entering the galactic current sheet, it would appear to indicate a return to more harmonious conditions where the energy lines will be at one harmonic frequency all year round and probably for over a thousand years.

This will have an underlying effect on all things and all minds and it is unstoppable.

As we experience more harmony ourselves the desire for freedom and less control will emerge as levels of fear will fall. We will perceive ourselves as part of the Universal and the need for wars and centralised control systems will also fall away. Instead there will be smaller freer communities all working inter-dependently with one another adapting in their own best way to their local environment.

In essence this is a natural move from centralisation to decentralisation, from a unipolar World to a multi polar world. This is the very anti-thesis of a one World Government and it is why we are seeing a rise in people wanting to break away and form smaller countries. This multipolar World will continue to decentralise and countries will go back to being collections of states and regions and further on along the line they will move to smaller communities – all peacefully and all because of this new harmonic driving force that is at the heart of everything.

In my December newsletter, I write about the Waterhole management process and how that emerged from the controlled fencing system that failed because of the desire for animals to be free. This is where we are now and heading nicely along T1.

The E'epa do not want this though and they are doing all they can to get back to T2. It is because of this their actions that are now becoming more evident and predictable. They have clearly shown their hand with this so called pandemic.

The World's reserve currency is US dollars. It allows the privately owned Federal reserve to print as many of them as they want and that other countries around the World have to buy them and use them in order to trade on a global basis. It is not just the US, the British, the French and other countries before them held the World's reserve currency all did the same thing and they all eventually lost that status.

Countries like Russia and China do not like foreign money being printed out of thin air and then being used to buy hard assets like engineering companies, mines etc in other parts of the World including in their own countries.

It's a bit like the Spanish conquistadors in South America exchanging colour glass for native gold. One is far rarer than the other and it can only be done until both sides recognise the difference is scarcity and value.

This recognition is slow and gradual to begin with, but when it happens, people get upset and stop playing the game. On a one to one basis this can lead to a fight, when countries discover this, it can lead to war.

It is fairly obvious that the rhetoric is anti-Russia at the moment. The dollars position as World reserve currency is dropping fast and this means it will soon be unable to freely fund its Military Industrial Complex (MIC) which has for many years been completely separate from US party politics. It seems to now only serve the E'epa to obtain more money and power.

To further that aim they seem to be currently looking to expand their warring into Ukraine and Syria. With recent arms shipments through the port of Odessa, it is likely that we will have war in the Donbass region of East Ukraine on the border with Russia. The MIC will fuel this to exert control over Russia to stop them developing an alternative World financial system to Swift (the name of the financial system the World currently uses for its transactions).

Russia, China and Iran are putting in place their own system to help reinforce their new Silk Road Initiative that aims to expand trade routes all across Eurasia. If the countries involved all across Eurasia do this successfully, they become richer and that is bad news for the E'epa as this upsets the balance of all global trade and it will mean further loss of the dollar hegemony and an inability to continue printing fiat dollars that will fund their MIC.

Therefore, the E'epa have to stop all this and they are getting desperate because they also know of the deadline when we fully enter the galactic current sheet and the point at which humanity will fully begin to evolve (T1 – from my last newsletter). They need power to stop this – hence the shutdowns, the collapse of their old fiat currency system that they can blame on a virus and the introduction of their new digital centralised fiat currency aka –Their great reset (T2). It is their stated aim to have one World government with one World currency but as you can perhaps now see, this is going against the way of nature.

So destabilisation is the name of the game with the E'epa. In a destabilised World your competitor has trouble growing so the balance in World trade is sustained for longer and that gives them more time to try and force their favoured timeline.

So my first prediction, which I hope is wrong, is that fighting will break out in a far greater way in Eastern Ukraine and this will mean more fear-mongering about World War Three in the newspapers – all good for the E'epa. There will be no WW3 though, that is in no one's interest – including the deceivers.

My second prediction this month will be that there will be more shutdowns again before the summer. They are gearing up for it with their coding death changes. Soon they will announce new figures saying that things are not working. They will say that not enough of us are getting viccanated.

The Germans will blame a new UK mutation of the virus and the UK will blame a new German mutation of the virus and so the charade will continue with maximum pressure being put on those people not complying and not getting viccanated.

The unviccanated can expect to be made public outcasts – remember these people are psychopaths who need help.

We must stand firm though, our numbers are much higher than they would wish us all to know. That is why they are getting more terrified of us. Somehow, we must allay their fears. Killing them all, like some past French revolution does not help at all – their souls will just come back again with more Karma. It is best to help them change in their current lifetime.

I would love shutdowns to end, but this does not seem to help the E'epa to get to their desired timeline and they know we are on T1 at the moment.

All of these things for me though are just the signs of positive long term change. All we have to do here is to stay positive, have no fear and spread the reality and the truth.

We should come together in groups – even online groups and online group meditation has proven to be just as powerful as when that group was once together at a sacred site during the time of harmony.

If we set regular times to do this, we can all tune in on these times even without being on line. This is something we will need to start practicing as the E'pa will be getting ever more desperate to stop us doing even this activity over the next couple of years.

Other

This newsletter has been longer than I had expected but things have emerged that needed saying and I have also found out how much other work I now have coming through and this will have to mean postpone my next newsletter until the 1st June.

Since January I have had to cease taking on new requests for sacred site searches and location checks. I have nearly completed the backlog since then so will be able to start accepting new ones probably in mid-April. My apologies for the long wait for some of you.

What has been very satisfying though is that I had been asked for many searches to be done in states all across the USA and my mapping project to find all the major type 4 alignments and their intersections – the 4th order nodes, has taken a major step forward.

When one finally connects up a line from one side of the country to the other, it is very rewarding as well as finding some incredible sacred sites along its path. I hope to cover more of these in future newsletters. There are many of these lines though and it is taking longer than expected because of this.

In the meantime some of the Southern and Northern central states need more attention so if anyone would like to make use of the sacred site search service in those states that would be gratefully appreciated.

Thank you for the time you have taken to read this newsletter and please do share it and mention my website www.roryduff.com
