

June 2024 Rory Duff Newsletter

The International Astronomical Union has now recognised 88 constellations in our night sky. This one is known to be the 10th largest and one I am sure that many of you will recognise. However, if you don't, why not use your imagination to see if an image appears.

In our distant past, our ancestors will, at some point, have done this same exercise and, perhaps, collectively came to agree upon the same image and name as a way of helping them refer to this arrangement of stars. Naming it, and teaching other about its changing position in the night sky, would have been important to them for many reasons. One obvious one being that it would come to indicate a season in the year.

In this constellation we find globular clusters, galaxies and dwarf galaxies, nebula's and supergiant stars – all at varying distances from our solar system. We might well also now wonder just how its location affects us in the way that it does. I'm going to look into this further in this newsletter from both the good and not so good perspectives. First though let me give you an idea of what I am going to cover in this newsletter as well as asking you about things you might like to consider.

Headlines of coming events

The next harmony time gathering is on the 19th June and the toroidal energy shape will last for 50 days. The next one after that will start on the 21st September and it is projected to last for 65 days. More details on this can be found in the 'Other' section. I will be at Oliver's castle again at midday and I look forward to seeing you there if you can make it.

Quite a bit of work goes into these free newsletters so, by coming along to my events, doing my courses and buying my books, all helps me to continue to put time into them. Donations too, however small, are much appreciated if you like what your read in them– please just click on the link in the word.

Group meditation seminars There is a choice of the 22nd June or the 6th July for these London seminars with the practical group meditation workshop on the 20th July - further details of the events in the 'Other' section – Special sacred path modules facilitator £100 discount offer when you become a facilitator. The event on the 22nd though is nearly sold out.

Sacred Network update – There is a short message about why the website has been down and how we are looking to rectify what the engineers are describing as an 'attack' that we had recently. An opportunity has arisen that you might like to be aware of – details in the 'Other' section.

The Emerald Awakening seminar in Ireland is from the 6th to the 9th August. I am not running this event but I have been kindly asked to add another talk at this event. This one is about group meditation. Apparently there are still a few tickets left. I have added some further details at the end of the newsletter. <https://www.earthstar.academy/EA888>

Looking for Rowena - The Grail Hunter – my novel has had many people asking if I would do an audible version as it would be easier for them to listen to it rather than read it. I have therefore decided to do this but would ask for your help. I need to find a person who would like to read the part of Rowena – perhaps young aspiring actress - one of you know might be interested I am also looking for short cameo reading roles for every other character in the book. More details in the 'Other' section.

The Constellation

In this section we dive deeper into the theme of this newsletter and the image at the beginning of it and we take a look at its symbol and the origins of that. This takes us down into Egypt and the origins of language, and why and when this evolved. This then forms the basis of an understanding for the struggle mankind now faces in the next section.

Who are the 'they'?

For years we hear people saying 'They' did this and 'they' did that, in ways that might imply that it might be 'the government' or some secret 'cabal' of people who trying to control everything we do. In this section we take a new look at the origins of some deeply inverted and depraved thinking in the 17th century by a small group of wealthy and powerful people and how we see this mirrored today. Knowing this lineage, and sharing it, is the start of winning this spiritual struggle. A last minute synchronicity struck which I have added along with a request for help that everyone can assist with. So please share this newsletter with as many people as you wish. Pdf's of all my newsletters are available as free downloads from my newsletter page

Earth energy section

I take a look at a recent synchronicity that occurred that led me to start investigating the Earth Energy lines in Egypt. Delving deeper into one area of the Giza plateau, before the pyramids were built (even before the Sphinx or the Valley temple), it would seem that some very recent ground penetrating radar research has revealed a site that was once a sacred island in a lagoon. For those of you who watched my recent chat with the Astrologer Pam Gregory, you will have heard a bit about this (Click here if you would like to watch this). With more time here, I am able to cover this in more detail. This new research seems to suggest that the pyramids must have been built less than 7000 years ago. The implications of this are far reaching for many theorists but the question of who built the pyramids and how and why still remains. The idea of advanced civilizations in our past may have to be slightly rethought. The actual phrase 'civilization' may need changing to help with our understanding.

Science section – So many observations, by the James Webb space telescope, have now shown that mainstream physics is in serious trouble. Many of their proponents are desperately trying to find enough sticky paper to try and patch up the holes in their leaking canoe. It was never a canoe though – more like a sunken log. In this section, I wanted to remind you of the phenomenal work done by Ron Pearson and his new science and what we can expect to witness with heightening senses with the increasing intensity of vibrations we are now experiencing.

Book section – One book stood out in an old website that I set up in 1999. I had a list of top 50 books on spirituality. The popularity of one continually stood out and it remained in the number one position for years. I was utterly shocked when I started to read it again recently because of the theme of this newsletter. I had appreciated it greatly back then, but now I am just blown over by it even more. Revisiting key books of our past now we have some much more knowledge and experience is an incredible experience.

Media section – You might have already guessed what song might be the best choice to go with the theme. If not, you will certainly hear why with the links in this section. There is an intense positivity and exuberance for life to be found when watching the videos. They might even rekindle your passion for life if you need that. If not, just sit back and remember what you were doing when you first heard them. I have also added two more to help add positivity and hope for the future.

Next Harmony time Gathering 19th

In our last two gatherings we held balance within us. During the winter harmony meditation, we held peace within us, whilst we are all surrounded by turbulence. In the Spring, we added the intent of hope within, in order to dispel the despair that was all around the world.

This summer time, we find many are in the depths of grief. Grief is a deep form of sadness mixed with despair. Death is what usually brings grief and unfortunately there is plenty of unnecessary death in the World. I cover some of the reasons why in this newsletter and who is responsible but it is more important now in regard to how we react.

We must come together and hold joy within us, along with hope and peace. When we balance all three of these within us, we will influence the World around us.

The tiniest ripple of joy from just one person, is enough to turn into a tidal way that will wash over everyone. Each and every one of us can make a difference. Taking any action will dispel fear, so take a moment at midday on the 19th, wherever you are, to come together with the intent of sending Joy out into the World by holding joy within you. Together, we might just stop the next World war.

To prepare for this, go back to a moment in your life when you were truly filled with joy. Remember it as vividly as you can and notice the feeling reappear, notice too, the upturn of your lips as the smile returns. Keep that feeling in your heart and remember it again on the 19th.

The constellation

Coming back now to the image at the start of this newsletter it should be mentioned that the stars in our night sky are considered to move about a great circle called the celestial equator. If you might like to imagine the sky as a sphere with a North and a South pole, the circle is like the equator, in the same way our Earth has an equator.

When our Sun is directly above the equator, two times a year at the vernal equinoxes, this celestial equator becomes a 'reference point' for the positions of these constellations. As our Earth wobbles on its 'axis of spin' over around 24,800 years, this 'referencing point' for all the constellations position in the night sky as they come back to their original positions.

All 88 constellations will then be back in their same position as they were all that time ago. We tend to measure this with the 12 main constellations and, due to the difficulties in obtaining accuracy with objects so far away, it is always a point of contention as to exactly when we move from one dominant constellation to the next one.

I use the word dominant here lightly, as in truth all the positions of the constellations will have an effect on us all the time to a greater or lesser extent and in regard to many other cyclical factors of other celestial objects.

All this astrology is not new to many people as is the whole astronomical process is also called the precession of the equinoxes.

This particular constellation is surrounded by other constellations all of which have been linked to the element of water. It is found in the southern hemisphere and, although it was given its current name by the Greek writer Ptolemy in the 2nd century AD, it was known about much earlier than that.

To the Egyptians it represented the river Nile and it was perhaps they who linked this constellation to its symbol of two zig-zag lines. It is of course Aquarius.

The Gnostic philosopher Samael Aun Weor said that the Age of Aquarius started in February 1962 with the alignment of the first six planets. More recently others say the Age began on February 2021 with Jupiter & Saturn conjoining the sign of Aquarius & when 7 celestial bodies moved into that region of the night sky.

It is more likely however that we will experience the full effect of Aquarius when we gain the additional effect of other dominant features in our night sky. Astrologer Pam Gregory, writes that Pluto came into Aquarius on the 21st January 2024 and will be in it for 8 months. It then dips out for a while and then enters back in again in November 2024 where it will remain for 20 years. Pam also states that Pluto is a planet of power and that it intensifies anything it is in, so we can perhaps see here that Pluto will really help bring in the full effects of living in the constellation of Aquarius for the next 2160 years.

Pluto also stands for death and rebirth so we can now perhaps envisage the huge changes that are coming at the end of the year as both the lies and the truth is being revealed.

In the Sacred path modules, we look at around 15 Universal prophecies that all talk about the coming evolution of consciousness and how it will arise. It seems pertinent here to add an extract from one of the prophecies as it concerns the time when we re-enter Aquarius.

If you are not sure that prophecy is possible, then read the science section as it all depends on which scientific theory of quantum gravity you find most acceptable.

Elizabeth Haich, in her book 'Initiation', speaking as an Initiate in a past life in Egypt, tells us the following:-

*'Towards the end of the Pisces epoch when the vernal point approached the next constellation—that of the Water Bearer—people made technical discoveries and inventions based on wave energies.

This was one of the early effects of the budding Water Bearer era, an age of technical achievement. The radiation of the Water Bearer constellation, which knows no limitations and swept all obstacles out of its path, reveals itself in the ideas and social concepts of humanity.

At the end of the era of the Fishes, these new energies will cause great revolutions in the places where people react most powerfully to them.

I see thousands of people of the ruling class sitting in prison, while a spirit with the characteristics of the new coming era decapitates or otherwise kills countless people of the upper class.

The vision, when the energies of the Water Bearer are working with full power, shows the coming abolition all the boundaries between the three dominant religions.

*It is proved that the inner core of all religions is one and the same truth, one and the same God.

The boundary between religion and science disappears too, as people discover that everything, even matter, is a wave movement.

They learn that the only differences between manifestations of the spirit and those of matter are differences of frequency, while in its essence everything is only the manifestation of the one, single, prime source of all forces, God.'

There may be some possible misunderstanding here when it comes to the word Wave. As I see it, this is not movement of water, but instead vibration (Aquarius is an Air sign). I go into this in more detail in the science section. This seems to be supported when we look at the Egyptian thinking on this in a moment when we look at the symbol for Aquarius. So, for me, the original waves do seem to be vibratory, but there is a certainly an indirect connection to water and light and all matter.

The meaning of the two wavy lines symbolising Aquarius

Pharonic thinking, according to the Gnostic and Hermetic philosopher Schwaller do Lubicz (who spent 12 years studying the hieroglyphics at the Temple at Luxor), is akin to contemplating and feeling more deeply through intuition and the use of the heart brain rather than thinking with the head brain.

Heiroglyphics were some of the first ways to transcribe (write down) what was previously probably conveyed more by telepathy than by audible sounds via the nose and mouth. Telepathy and empathy were probably on the wane (after mankind last left the state of group consciousness) and humans had to find new ways of making themselves more clearly understood.

We use letters today as symbols that represent a sound or an image. The Chinese use ideograms rather than words but, back in the time of the Pharaohs, it seems that heiroglyphs were symbols that graphically expressed a vital function.

Each heiroglyph did have a conventional meaning for common usage, but it also included all the ideas that could be connected to it as well as including an element of personal comprehension. There was therefore a natural and necessary ambiguity to heiroglyphics.

The Heiroglyphic way of expressing thoughts as 'things that you can see' provides a more direct expression of the true intentions of the person carving or writing them.

The Pharonic mind always chose natural realities for its images and signs and this left open the possibility of combining several of them to bring about much greater complexity and depth. This led to this necessary ambiguity that was needed so as to lead a person to having a chance at finding a truer, deeper meaning.

Each part of the heiroglyph therefore had a natural and a nonconventional meaning. Its symbolism was, and is, never conventional, it is alive and natural and to find out its meaning and its qualities and functions, it needs to be sought out through intuition.

If the heiroglyph is part of a composite group of heiroglyphs, the meaning can therefore only really be uncovered by entering a form of deep meditation. Heiroglyphs are not metaphors though. Rather they can express directly what was intended in a much more profound way. These Pharonic inscriptions were not meant to be read logically. It was as though they demanded interpretation and if this was done correctly they offered up an infinite source of knowledge.

Hieroglyphs can be arranged in both columns and rows and they can be read from the left or from the right, depending on how they were written. One thing to know is which way to read them. First look for the depiction of any living thing with a face. The writing should then be read in the direction of the face – ending at the face. When the figure is facing to the left, then begin reading from the left to the right. If they are facing right, begin from the right to the left.

When there are hieroglyphs are stacked on top of each other, the top sign should always be read before lower sign. One of the features is groups of heiroglyphs. Instead of them all being side to side they are arranged so as to not leave empty spaces. Smaller signs are therefore stacked on top of each other.

Schwaller de Lubicz, in his studies in the Temple of Luxor, found even deeper messaging going on with the heiroglyphs there. All the internal walls to the temple were covered with them and partition walls inside the temple were also covered in them.

With careful height and breath measurements on the parallel internal walls, with the heiroglyphs on each side of the wall, he found that, when he superimposed all of them on top of each other, new messages emerged.

Standing just inside the external wall, he imagined looking through all these partitioned walls as though they were invisible, but just seeing all their heiroglyphics superimposed in front and behind each other.

When he did this he found some parts of the superimposed composite image had created a much more complex single heiroglyph that now added an even deeper and even more profound meaning than all the single messages on each individual wall. What was being conveyed were much deeper truths than could be conveyed to the ones found by interpreting each of the single walls in isolation.

It appears that this was very intentional. (If you are drawn to knowing more, here is a link to short 10min video for you 'TRANSPARENT' STONE Blocks: the strangest artefacts in the Luxor Temple.)

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=dAiHcBxANG8&t=1s>

With these revelations we are compelled into considering the state of consciousness of the people who created them in the first place. They must have been in an almost enlightened state in order to achieve this effect. Indeed the deeper message being conveyed, now also seems to be about how to achieve this same state.

As to what this reveals is something we are still 'coming to know' in a variety of different ways. That though will be for groups to share dialogue around in the future. What Schwaller de Lubicz has done here is shown us here, with these 'composite heiroglyphs', is the potential to know more when the timing is right.

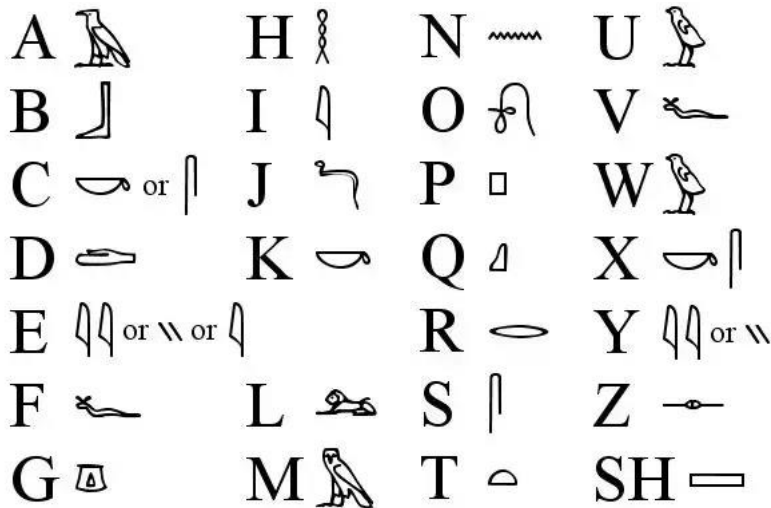

We have now though arrived a point when we can look at the two symbolic, intentionally ambiguous, zig zag wavy lines used to symbolise the constellation of Aquarius.

The common use of a single zigzag line is for the letter N when used as a sound. If you say the letter 'N' in a long drawn out way and you will sense that it has a particular oral vibration. This is called a phonogram. When several common symbols are used as letters or sequence of sounds/vibrations, it will refer to a common name or object.

The zig zag is drawn as two wavy lines, but we also find one represented on its own and also as three lines, all on top of each other. This gives them different meaning, and even more, depending on what heiroglyphs are found next to them.

These symbols can also mean water, flood, rivers, lakes as well as referring to the great cosmic ocean. In regard to the latter this is why it is also found associated with Gods and Goddesses who are associated with this 'ocean'. This 'ocean' has several other names, like the abyss, and it seems that all references to water are purely symbolic.

One zig zag line can indicate a connection to the Tuat (Duat) - the Underworld – a place of darkness and ‘Gods’ and shapeshifters. If you add a U (The quail chick symbol- see below) to the N you get a NU vibration. (The earlier version of Nu is Nenu- the name of the River Nile God) NU is also use to describe the primary watery abyss that existed at the time of creation - the deified primeval water from whence everything came. The symbol here was being used to represent this ‘between-world’ phenomenon. Nenu is shown with three zigzags.

If you are interested in learning more, ‘Voices of ancient Egypt’ is a helpful You Tube channel that makes it easier to understand the basics on Heiroglyphs.

<https://www.youtube.com/@VoicesofAncientEgypt>

If you then add a T to NU you get Nut (Nuit) who was the Egyptian Sky goddess and also the Water Goddess and the God that rule over the Abyss.

It seems that this symbol was fairly universally used at the time – as though there was a freshness in the memory of the mass exodus from group consciousness.

The Dogon tribe found in West Africa was researched by the scientist Laird Scranton and he found them using similar symbols that suggested to him they had the same origin as the Egyptian heiroglyphics. On page 32 of his book titled Sacred symbols of the Dogon, he writes the following:- The spiraling coil in Dogon Heiroglyphics is said by the Dogon to be the shape of the cosmic thread (Galaxy?) in the primordial body whose vibration results in matter. (Just consider the cross section of the spiral, wavy, galactic current to see the similarity here)

In other Egyptian interpretations, the zigzag has also been interpreted as ‘the weaving’ and a force or forces. In other interpretations it also signifies trembling or shaking.

In ways all of these are correct because the symbols themselves are not interpreted in isolation and all display a necessary ambiguity that demands interpretation rather than translation.

When it comes to Aquarius the water bearer – an Air sign - it was perhaps first symbolised with the two zig-zag lines by the Egyptians. We might now wonder why. Is it perhaps referring to a new vibration – one last experienced around 24,800 years ago – two cycles of our solar system passing through the galactic current sheet.

When we look at the work of Nicola Tesla and Ron Pearson, we find they both suggested, through their fully thought out reasoning and theories, that vibration is the founding substance in the universe.

These have now been shown to arise on a sub quantum level of existence by Ron Pearson. From these vibrations it is shown how they interact as wave and go on to produce particles of light (photons). These light particles are found on the larger quantum level of existence. Hydrogen and Oxygen atoms, for example, would now also be recognisable at this level.

There is an illusory aspect to this quantum world due to its indeterminateness. Beyond that, at the larger 'classical' scale, our physical world of matter (or matter frequency system), our consciousness and its perception, finds the particles forming our 'illusion' of water, as well as other combinations and concentrations of energy.

There is therefore a connection between Vibration and Water. The latter now seems to be the more visual expression of the universal consciousness which really operates at the fundamental sub quantum level through guiding its waves to interact and peak – thus – at the top of its peak – creating a droplet/bundle of energy we call a particle.

Where we find large fairly cohesive collections, or concentrations, of uniform matter, like the water in the oceans, or the 'Sun's in the Universe, or the tops of mountains, or mounds or pyramids (Ones that stand up above their flat surroundings), we might well expect a greater potential connectivity to the universal consciousness.

This increased concentration might naturally have led our ancestors into thinking that the Sun was God or that Water held God. It might also explain how they came to think and believe in many different gods in different regions of the Earth.

If we now begin to look at the implications of Aquarius, and its symbolic two zig zag wavy lines, it might now represent a period of time when mankind experienced a particularly stronger vibration.

Like a roughly accurate 24,800 year clock, it might have been deduced by our ancestors that, when we return to this point in the precessional cycle, (where the Earth is bathed in these increased vibrational energies) that this is a completely transformative time - A time that dramatically increases our perceptual awareness.

That this happens during the time of Aquarius may even be completely coincidental amidst all the other effects from the other night sky and its cosmic 'energy emitters'.

The real reason may well be that the timing coincides with the times when our solar system passes through the galactic current sheet – roughly every 12,500 years. Two trips through the current sheet would almost match the precessional cycle but our ancestors, with their memory and recording, may well have made the, just slightly inaccurate, leap in thinking that the associated effects were solely down to the position of the Aquarius constellation.

We may never be totally sure how the two lines were associated to this group of stars, but we can consider now that we are entering a very unique vibration that is altering our consciousness. The single important thing about this understanding is that we can now be more aware of its current and future effects on mankind so we can react in more positive ways than in negative ones.

We also know from the legends and the prophecies what this will mean.

The key thing right now to know seems to be that many people will be adversely affected mentally and they will need help.

The real question we face is how that 'help' will be provided.

Will it be by local communities looking after their own people in a free & decentralised society where we can be creative and spiritual, or are we going to be controlled by a top down world government that will need to enslave us all in order to keep their power and wealth.

Leo, the opposite sign to Aquarius tells us that there will need to be 'conductors' or 'directors' of people. It is now up to us to decide just how we would like to experience this.

The following information is now about what a small group of people want to see happening and, as you will read, their 'inversive' thinking is certainly not going to favour anyone else but themselves.

We need to know their aims and their methods in order to peacefully move away from their distopian outlook. So we need to first look at the following question 'Who are the 'they'?'

Who are the 'they'?

I would like in this section to set out to try and answer the above question. Who might be responsible for the mess we find ourselves in the World today? I will then finish by taking a look at how we might need to reframe our thinking.

Many people might be quick to point to the 'they' as the politicians. However, whilst the clear majority of them are really just selfish, greedy, corrupt, despicable liars found on all sides within government, we cannot really blame them. They have only risen to their positions because they were easily bribed, or blackmailed, or both. (As I write this, I find the UK now has a general election on the 4th July. The only thing I can suggest is to vote for anyone who is not in the main three parties and probably for no one in those three parties who has been an MP in the past – This should send a huge vote of no confidence in parliament)

We could perhaps point to the greedy global corporations. They too are filled with similarly minded individuals – but their leaders are not the 'They'.

However there is a clue for us here as these organisations are run solely for their shareholders and it is here we begin to see who might be to blame for the dire state of the World.

Before I get to 'Who the 'they' are, we need to address the 'why'.

Quite clearly it is about power and money means power. Unfortunately for the 'They', their preferred fiat monetary system is failing. They have known that for decades and have been planning their way out. Their only answer is global domination. If they control the World, they save their monetary system and their power. It is not important to go into the ways they are doing this and the 'headwinds' they are facing – like the demographics of a growing older population and a dwindling younger population, as there are actually many reasons their monetary system is failing.

The first clue we are therefore given is that it is the monetary system and the 'Banksters' that point to who are the 'They'.

The second clue is to look at the state of the Western world and what has been slowly happening of the last couple of decades. When we do that, we find a definite link between the thinking that lies behind the 'they' now and an extremely perverse type thinking that was established back in the 17th and 18th century.

It now seems very likely that this perverse way of thinking had infected this small group of people, and their descendants, right up until today. The depravity of their minds has meant that they have had to have kept themselves shrouded in secret. There are no organisations they belong to. You cannot label them, but you can however follow the infection right up till today.

Right now there are about a hundred families in the World that own around 75% of the World. They have no specified affiliation to any religion today, nor to any one state, nor even to any particular beliefs. They don't even meet up in some kind of Cabal.

All that is left that connects them from the group centuries earlier is this perversity of thinking and of course that is all too easy for them to deny.

The reason this is important is the there is something quite demonic in this perversity and this is certainly something we can deal with, sort out and cleanse.

You might well then think that this association could just be something completely made up.

However, what I would wish to point out here is the following. Their goal today, seems to very accurately match this old way of thinking that a very small powerful group of people who started this and their goals.

Before we start by going back in time a little to see how this modern banking system was set up and by whom, and who seems to have taken control over it all, we need to note one key observation in the World right now.

There is a growing division in the World. It is not between political points of view anymore. It is about truth and lies, Good and Evil. More and more people seek only the truth; others, and fewer and fewer of them, want to stay mired in their lies.

There is also growing division between the Western economies of the USA, UK, Europe, Australia and New Zealand against the Global South and Eastern nations. These are the BRICS+ nations – notably China Russia Iran and India. I mention this because it is now obvious that they too have seen the cause of the problem, they too have seen this division between truth and lies and they too know of the 'They'. This is why they are now slowly separating from the Western countries and why they are developing a new gold backed trading currency for use between individual sovereign nations.

None of these BRICS nations want to run or control the World. They have seen the problems of having a 'World reserve currency' and the eventual hyperinflation it leads to. Instead they see decentralisation as the way forward and a future based on trading nations who respect each other and who don't want to have their main industries based on killing other people and grabbing other people's land and assets. Yes some of the countries still have major problems internally to overcome - The Chinese treatment of some of their people (eg. Falun Gong) is disgraceful. But they too will have to face up to the growing desire for the truth amongst their people. These people too are increasingly feeling this same desire in their hearts due to these new energies.

It is perhaps here you can see the emergence of one of the struggles we are facing a centralised, one world government with n enslaved unipolar world with no sovereign identity, or a decentralised, freer multipolar world with individual sovereign states and individual sovereignty.

Fast approaching is the time when we are going to have to make our own existential choice as to what is best to do. What actions are right for mankind in the long term, should perhaps take preference over what is best for ourselves, in the short term.

It is at this point we need to look at the role of religion and spirituality. Religion has been used for centuries to control and dominate people. The suppression of individual spirituality has been one of the aims of some religions. Amidst this, some religions have allowed all sorts of sects and sub sects to exist within their overall doctrines. Dogma and propaganda have kept us apart for one good reason – war is extremely profitable for the bankers who sit astride and fund both protagonists.

In regards to this division, and the inclusivity of secret sects within larger organisations, we find much deliberate confusion and obfuscation. For example:-

The Jewish people have long since suffered in the World at the hands of some truly evil people. They have had no homeland for centuries and they have been persecuted by many.

There is a deliberate, huge mistake of 'generalisation' in the last sentence.

We talk of the Christian religion and the Islamic religion as though these religions were united amongst themselves. (This 'unitedness' is the generalisation). The fact is that there have been several different sects in each religion that have long been fighting against each other. Just think of the Sunni's and the Shia Muslims and the wars they have had over the years and remember too, the wars between the Catholics and the Protestants.

These religions are not united anything like as much as they should be. If we look at these different sects, most of them have only a few minor differences, however there are always some extremists – groups of people that really shouldn't belong to any religion – especially ones that still have a spiritual side to them.

This is true too for the Jewish people too. Nearly all of the practicing Jews are wonderfully loving, kind and good people, however they have been badly tarnished over the last few centuries by some 'bad actors'. Indeed, on much closer scrutiny, we find one group of 'bad actors' in particular that seems to have escaped without notice over the years.

When you look into this group though, you will wonder just how on Earth they could have been lumped together with the Jewish nation. How they even managed to get accepted by these moderate thinking Jewish people is very, very strange.

When you look at the World today you can perhaps see the ending of an empire, the end of sovereign nations and the end of individual sovereignty. There is also increasing depravity and greater and greater division. A complete inversion is taking place with personal beliefs and it is all being allowed to happen for one reason – a desired collapse in society that cannot be blamed on its governments or any one group of people so they can come up with the proposed solution of one World government run by them.

Take a look at the deliberately planned immigration policies of the Western governments. Immigration is certainly not a problem as it has been done successfully for centuries, but their policy is to deliberately overload a country's infrastructure with the numbers until it collapses. (Chicago for example is about to erupt with now around 700,000 immigrants that have been 'bussed' there from the Southern board to purposely displace the black population in the city)

The NGO's (Non-Governmental Organisations) who are assisting with this immigration are bankrolled in the billions by the 'Banksters' who are also deliberately printing their fiat money until it causes hyperinflation – again to deliberately cause a collapse in Western society.

You see those few people behind the 'Banksters' are still thinking the same way as their forefathers did back in Europe.

This collapse in society was their same aim back in the 17th & 18th century but the formal group that existed then, does not exist today. Instead what seems to have been carried on through their ancestors today, is the infected thinking, and their same goals and plans.

It is as though some kind of demonic presence has been kept alive and burning within them – perhaps even to the extent of some of them displaying this by using the colour red in their symbolic images to show their proud connection with their evil satanic behaviour.

As I wrote in my July 2022 Rory Duff Newsletter we are in a war for our Spirituality and I will attempt to prove this to you at the end of this section of the newsletter.

What I would also like to try and show you is that this is being done according to the beliefs of one small group of people who have found some kind of protection by creeping in under the banner of calling themselves 'Jews'.

Unfortunately, because they now do not form part of any one club or society, it is not easy to point to any collective 'They'. It is more now about a collective way of thinking by many different powerful groups who each have incredible purchasing power that gives them the ability to hide any individual 'digital dirt'. They are also highly skilled at modern propaganda and this has allowed them to hide the evil behind their way of thinking so it is almost unnoticed.

One banking group's origin, and the original protagonists' way of thinking, is found to have begun around a similar date in the early 18th century as this small 'supposed' Jewish sect. The two certainly seemed to be very connected back then.

I will start first with the banking group's origins and then introduce the religious sect they appear to have been initially influenced by after that. You can then be the judge of whether this powerful group became infected with this demonic thinking that we see playing out in actions taken by the powerful today.

The initial protagonists are a secretive family and I am not suggesting that all, or any particular one of them, hold the views of this sect today, but that early influence will have likely shaped the thinking of their ancestors in regards to how they would like to see the World with the help of their money and power. This has then had a knock on effect down through their descendants to some of the key wealthy and powerful people today and those that they influence to do their work through money and blackmail.

It is time now to learn a bit about one particular family.

The Banking group

In the early 18th century a Jewish goldsmith called Amschel Moses Bauer decided to settle in Frankfurt in Germany. He opened a Counting House, and over the door he placed his sign. This was a red shield, featuring a "Star of David". The shield was the same design as the flag of the Jews in Prague that had been granted by Charles IV. This was done in accordance with the new 'Frankist' doctrine and it had similarities to the red banner of the Khazars – who were also named as the 'Red' Jews.

Amschel's business was in trading goods and in exchanging currencies and he soon became the personal supplier of coins to the Prince of Hesse. This connection was later to help his son get started.

The word "red shield" in German is Roth Schild and Bauer's eldest son, Amschel Mayer Bauer (1773-1855), took on the name Rothschild. It was this Rothschild who was to later go on and say "give me control of a nation's money, and I care not who makes her laws."

Rothschild was given a three year apprenticeship in Hanover at the Bank of Oppenheim, at the service to Lt. Gen. Baron von Estorff. The Lt. General was the principal adviser to Landgrave Frederick II of Hesse-Kassel who was the wealthiest man in Europe at the time. Much of this was inherited from his father, Wilhelm VIII, who was the brother of the King of Sweden.

Lt. General Baron von Estorff advised the Landgrave that Mayer Amschel showed an exceptional skill at increasing people's wealth through his investment advice.

Rothschild's wealth was therefore largely achieved with the help of his association with the family of Hesse-Kassel. Through his increasing power and influence he later arranged to hire 16,800 Hessian soldiers to assist the nephew of Frederick's wife - King George III of England - in his attempt to suppress a rebellion against the British in America. Being the middle man, it netted him a large increase in personal wealth.

When Frederick II of Hessen-Kassel died in 1785, Rothschild obtained total influence over his successor. This was Karl's brother Wilhelm IX. Wilhelm soon became one of the wealthiest monarchs in Europe at that time.

In 1773, Mayer Rothschild invited twelve other wealthy and influential men from around Europe to come to a meeting. He managed to convince them all to pool all their resources to bring about a new World order. There are some people today who like to refer to these 13 families as the 13 bloodlines. Others have also referred to them as the Illuminatii.

It was said that a man called Adam Weishaupt, a German philosopher, writer and Professor of Civil Law, established the group called the Illuminati. Weishaupt had been brought up by the Jesuits but this order had been recently disbanded by the church so he was looking to start something new.

In 1776, Weishaupt announced the foundation of the Order of Perfectibilists. It was this order that later became known as the Illuminati. Initially, Illumination was said to have been designated for a group of outstanding and enlightened individuals in society. (You might imagine the height of their ego's)

However, the character of the society became an elaborate network of spies and counter-spies who were isolated from each other and where each person reported to a superior who they did not know: This ensured that only the people at the very top knew exactly what was going on. (This is very similar to the US Military Industrial complex with the CIA, the NSA and all the other secret black ops organisations). Not long after he had started this organisation, Weishaupt was then initiated into the Freemasons.

One of the leading members of the Illuminati was Prince Karl who was the brother of Wilhelm I of Hessen-Kassel. Both were the sons of Frederick II of Hessen-Kassel. Karl married his first cousin, Louise, Princess of Denmark, of the Oldenberg dynasty that produced the Kings of Denmark, Norway, Greece, and the later Romanovs, Emperors of Russia. It is here you can begin to see how the new way of thinking might have been connected amongst these wealthy and powerful families.

Keeping wealth in the family back then was the name of the game and this is why many of the wealthy married their cousins. (It has to be noted here that today it is known that there is an 'in-breeding' effect with a 3-6% chance of birth defects when first cousins have children. There are modern scientific papers today that also suggest that there is a greater risk for common mood disorders and psychoses in their offspring.) Might this have assisted with the descent into the depraved thinking?

One of the essential strategies of success that Mayer Rothschild was also known for was to keep control of their banks by keeping ownership within family hands. This also allowed them to maintain full secrecy about the size of their growing fortunes.

Mayer Amschel Rothschild had five sons and they all went into banking. His third son Nathan Rothschild was the one of the few people who gave the impression on the London Stock market floor that England had lost the battle of Waterloo to the French. He sold all his shares at the top of the market. He was known to have a network of spies that could bring him information before anyone else and his selling actions implied that England had lost. Although this has never been conclusively proved, the stock market is an institution where much of the trading done is based on rumours and insider knowledge today. (In my opinion, nothing good can really come of this way of trading shares and there are easy ways to stop these 'acts of gambling in a rigged casino' by incentivising, through taxation, the benefits of holding shares for the medium to long term).

A few hours later, after everyone else had sold their shares, Nathan Rothschild and possibly a few others who were less wealthy than him (who were also gambling on the same so-called advance information that was coming in through their spy/news networks) were able to buy much of the stock at rock bottom prices. This was just before the actual news was announced that England had actually won the battle. The shares of course immediately returned to above their existing value and the resulting increase in wealth made Nathan Rothschild one of the richest men in Europe at the time.

As to what is really the truth in that story, I shall leave up to you to think, but it is one example of the type money making activities of the Rothschild's and part of their story which led them to being part of the richest group of people in the World today.

As wealthy bankers, they, indirectly through off shore accounts, tax havens, secret Swiss mountain vaults, trusts and nominee holding companies, held large shares in the private central banks around the World. All of these central banks are controlled by the central bank of central banks – the Bank of International Settlements (BIS) in Switzerland.

The Rothschild's wealth today extends greatly beyond just banks as they own a large proportion of shares in the biggest corporations of the World – Blackrock, Vanguard and State street.

All this information though does not yet explain, or evidence, any link to a small 'supposedly' Jewish sect and the influence that this sect appears to have had on the Rothschild's and the other 12 wealthy families. To show this, we must start with a past change in the law.

A new law

In 1811, the Grand Duke of Frankfurt passed a law giving all Jews living in Frankfurt equal citizenship with all the other Germans. This came at a cost to the German Jews who had to pay him 440,000 florins. This payment was financed by Mayer Amschel Rothschild, who made another large profit from the payment. This payment made to the Grand Duke was known to include the "exclusive right" to maintain Masonic lodges in the city.

It was this influx of new people and their 'right' to start secret groups that created the opportunity for a new group of people to come together almost unnoticed.

The Shabbatean Frankists

One of these new groups seems to have been affiliated with a much older order that had been developed many years earlier - the 'Lurianic' Kabbalah (This was a school of Kabbalah named after a Jewish rabbi called Isaac Luria. Amongst many new ideas, it included a new creation and a new origin of evil). This new group had amongst them a person called Shabbetai Levi who looked to position himself as the new Messiah.

(My thanks here goes to a lady called Alison F. who told me about the research done by Michael O'Bernicia (The Bernician) who brought the Shabbatean connection to my attention.)

This earlier 'Shabbatean' movement came to be regarded as "the largest and most momentous messianic movement in Jewish History" since the destruction of Jerusalem.

In 1666, a person who called himself 'Nathan of Gaza', proclaimed that he was this new 'promised' Messiah of Judaism - the new Messiah (In a similar way that Shabbetai Levi had tried to persuade people earlier). Nathan of Gaza succeeded in rallying a large following, involving nearly half of the Jewish population of the world at the time. The movement was later completely crushed when the Sultan of the Ottoman Empire forced them to choose either martyrdom or conversion to Islam. Nathan chose to convert to Islam. The movement however seems to have refused to die and a few of them pretended to follow Islam whilst really adhering to a new mixture of traditional and heretical Judaism.

Still today this particular Shabbatean movement is known for it having 'Kabbalistically based' heresies. In other words, it was not really true to the Jewish religion at all.

Many years later, a few of these heretical followers survived and resurfaced in these new secret Masonic organisations. However they re-emerged with a new name but still hiding under the 'banner' of being a 'Jewish' sect. This was the start of the 'Frankists'.

The Frankists, also known as the Zohanists, were led by Jacob Frank who liked to think he was the reincarnation of Shabbatai Levi – the earlier 'so called' Messiah.

Frank was definitely a heretic who had strayed far from the spiritual roots of Judaism. He had rejected the Talmut and maintained that elected individuals were exempt from moral law. He believed that in the messianic age the laws of the Torah were no longer valid.

Everything that was previously prohibited was now permitted and sometimes even mandatory. This included all the prohibited sexual unions, incest and all orgiastic and sexually promiscuous rites.

This was a total inversion of the Jewish faith and yet it had positioned itself as sect within that same faith. (You can perhaps see some of this pervading the upper 'echelons' of Western society today. Satanic looking royal portraits. 'Celebrity' connections to trafficking, paedophilia and members of governments.)

Frank preached a 'Religious myth of Nihilism' (Nihilism is the rejection of all religious and moral principles, in the belief that life is meaningless and that nothing in the world has a real existence).

Frank taught his followers that the overthrow and destruction of society was the only thing that could save mankind. Their aims were to annihilate every religion and positive system of belief in the World and they dreamed of a general revolution that would sweep away the past in a single stroke so that the world might be rebuilt.

If you look at the Western World right now and what is, and has been, going on, you might imagine just how happy Jacob Frank would have been. The book 'See to eliminate the Opiate Vol. 2 by Rabbi Marvin Antelman' also shows how much Adam Weishaupt's Illuminati and Frank's Frankists worked hand in hand to destroy religions and governments.

It would seem now that the Frankist's worked as a secret society within the secret Freemason's society. In my August 2023 Rory Duff newsletter I wrote about this same secret society and have added some of the words again here.

In the book 'Lectures on Ancient Philosophy' by Manly P Hall, a 33rd degree (highest level – on the good side) Freemason, there is a telling sentence that also tells us of the existence of this darker side.

It is found at the beginning of chapter 19 on 'Rosicrucian and Masonic origins' and it states that it is 'A fraternity within a fraternity - one visible, one invisible'. Later on it states 'The invisible side is a secret and robust fraternity dedicated to the service of a mysterious Arcanum Arcanorum ('Secret of secrets').

So, the Frankist's stated aim was, and possibly still is, World domination, one World Government after a deliberate collapse of society having been caused by cultivating a growing demonic behaviour amongst its 'Elites'.

It was not the Jews that wanted to control the World. It's not the Freemasons that wanted this either. Rather instead it is a small group of individuals who have amassed huge wealth who have a completely non spiritual, nihilistic focus to life that stems from the influence of Jacob Frank.

Their anti-moral base views have far more in common with satanic ritual abuse which will include all sorts of diabolical acts that involve underage victims and blackmail. That they have been demonically infected and influenced now also seems fairly certain. That individuals with this way of thinking have risen to positions of governmental power in the Western world, also seems fairly certain (I would include people who genocidal activities and the inverted thinking that these activities are Ok to carry out here. This includes those who those who reframe this in their mind with their own definition of genocide).

I cannot prove the link between the old and the modern groups, but their aims and their methods seem the same and that means that the conclusion is aimed at being the same. We are definitely in a spiritual struggle.

You may now be wondering about the fighting in Ukraine and in Gaza. The key to understanding this is that it is all about materialism. Materialism is the defining feature of Jacob Frank's theology. All wars are banker wars.

There is no war without gain. If there are no assets that can be seized, and no sizable profit made, then you find that wars does not happen.

This is why there is so much hypocrisy in the World. It is not about principles for the Frankists. It's about profit and power.

When we look at Ukraine and reason the 'materialists' are fighting there, we see the huge tracts of incredibly fertile agricultural land in the country and the vast mineral deposits in the East. It is these that the globalists want to own and they nearly won. Cargill, Vanguard, Blackrock and State street, all huge multinational corporations have already been promised the land and the assets and huge payments have already been transferred. All that remained in the way is Russia and President Putin.

Indeed the 'uber-wealthy' few had wished to be able to seize all the Russian assets with their control over the past president Boris Yeltsin. That would have been a major milestone to save their fiat based money printing scheme on their way to total global totalitarianism.

Putin of course has been lambasted with criticism and negative propoganda, but is any of this true? We know the secretive group consists of compulsive liars so perhaps this is just another of their inversions.

From 1921 to 1944 Edgar Cayce gave 29 readings that are described as his "World Affairs Readings". Questions were put to him to seek a better understanding of events happening around them from a global perspective. These readings twice mention that "out of Russia will come the hope of the world."

I wondered about this recently when I saw a report being presented by independent journalists on the ground in Donetsk, two miles from the battlefront. The Russian speaking Ukrainians, who had been fighting a Civil war since 2014, formed their own battalions well before they were joined by the Russian army in 2018.

These battalions are known by the names of the saints in the Russian Orthodox church. A priest visits the men on the front line regularly and gives them blessings. When questioned the Russian troops all say that they are in a spiritual war and that it is all about morals. They say, when their opponents are captured or surrender, that these people are non-believers – nihilists. They also point to the evidence of the Ukrainian Azov Battalion who they say are Neo Nazi's with supporting tattoos on their bodies.

We are left wondering just which side is on the side of good.

You well might say that no war is ever good and no killing is ever right, but what if your fight is an existential one and your very existence depends on winning the spiritual struggle of freedom is opposed to slavery.

Fortunately, there is a way we can all help to counter the demonic influence behind the activities of the 'they'. More about this later on.

Summary

I started this by looking at the question 'Who are the 'They'? We cannot point to any small group of people today who are the 'they'. They are not members of any particular group. They do not meet in secret. They don't even have any agreed plan.

Instead, it seems far more likely that a small group of people have been infected by demonic thinking that seems to have stemmed from some very perverse ideology that was a complete inversion of the Jewish beliefs.

What is becoming clearer is that their ancestors were hiding under the banner and protection of being part of the Jewish way of thinking. They are not Jewish though – no matter what they might say. They are not even Jewish extremists or Zionists. (What is happening in Gaza right now has rightly been termed genocide so I can only conclude that a few powerful people in Israel have also been infected with the same demonic, non-Jewish way of thinking. These heretical 'non-Jews' also now seem to be hiding amidst the true believers of the Jewish religion.)

The original group were a few heretical Shabbateans. Years later their followers re-emerged as Frankists. It now seems that the Frankists, under Jacob Frank, were able to influence some very powerful and very wealthy people who were just interested in material wealth.

They would have certainly had no desire to see spirituality get in the way of total world domination and ownership. They were only too happy to fund wars that set one religion against another.

World domination has been their goal and their generations of their children after them continued to seek the same thing. Throughout all of this time, they have spent billions staying out of sight whilst they amassed their fortunes in really very despicable ways.

They had no need to meet in secret, or even to call themselves any name. What had been set in motion all those years ago did not need management. All that had to be done was to encourage their depraved activities in private. They could then blackmail any political or corporate into doing what they wanted. Right now their final path to total control is put into effect their original thinking of collapsing society.

When this was all going to have been accomplished, they would jump in with their new solution and as money is their game, the programmable centralised digital currency is that solution. (The emphasis is on the word programmable here because it is this that takes away freedom. They could easily not make it programmable and they could also allow us to store it in our own electronic wallets – but that does not give them the control and power they crave. They could even make it immutable and set a maximum limit on the amount of money that is produced – but that don't want that either as they like being able to make up more money when they need it. Indeed though, that form of digital value already exists – it is called Bitcoin.)

We can now see these inverted beliefs unfolding. Today there is an attempt being made to bring about a total inversion of society. Society is beginning to collapse before our eyes today and the governments in the Western World have no desire to address this problem or talk about it. Why should they? Their marionettes want this to happen too because of their own personal selfish gain.

Just look around at the many services that are failing. Phone calls go unanswered for ages, trains are just cancelled at the last minute. Food shortages are appearing and many more people are having to rely on food banks, there are increasing numbers of aircraft faults, there are more and more ways being found to tax and fine us. Demographics are imploding with the falling birth rates. Their population reduction agenda too is all about money as they cannot afford the increasing amount of pension payments.

This is not about scarcity though as they might make you try and believe, it is about their own demonic drive for more.

They would have preferred to own the whole World but the BRICS nations have caught on to their plans and want no part in their financial system and their so called, unwritten, 'rules based order' that only favours the 'uber-wealthy'.

They promote the lies to fight against the truth. They both support and blackmail the people in the Government in order to continue their fight against the people. They want the people to fight back against them as this gives them the excuse to introduce more laws, more lockdowns, more suppression.

They want us fearful, they want us angry, they want us in despair, they want chaos – all because this fuels their demonic desire which just serves to empower them further.

But what should we do now?

What we should do with all this knowledge?

The first part of the answer is to let more people know what is going on. Expose them and their agenda and do not go along with any of their plans – WEF, WHO. The mainstream media, CBDC'S, Big Pharma, Big Ag, The mainstream education & propaganda system, CIA, NSA, MIC etc. All of the people at the top of these groups have been corrupted by this way of thinking.

We must retain our individual sovereignty and decentralise, form communities, embrace freedom, support all the BRICS nations and call for Peace. We know who are the war mongers NATO and the MIC.

We know NATO already have forces fighting in Ukraine. The British Storm Shadow missiles now being used need lengthy training programs which have not had time to happen for the Ukrainian army. They will likely announce NATO will be at war with Russia in a month or two – but the Russians know they are already in a war with NATO.

It is clear to nearly everyone now that NATO is the aggressor. Zelensky and NATO have no desire for peace because this is all about taking down Russia. They continually refuse all requests for peace talks that include Russia.

This Ukrainian civil war began in 2014 by NATO with one goal and that was to expand NATO further East to the borders of Russia – a clear provocation.

What we can anticipate them wanting to do next is to escalate their NATO driven war with Russia in Ukraine. They will probably try to put in a warmongering successor to Rishi Sunak in the UK to help them do just this later in the year. Mandatory army subscription is now being talked about which will lead to thousands of young men and women being drafted into an early death.

We must do whatever we can to stop this as many more lives will be lost.

It is clear now that the 'they' have deliberately allowed NATO to come across as totally incompetent in battle so they reach the position that looks like they are losing.

Losing is not a problem for them because that is not the outcome they are planning. They could have easily sent more powerful arms and weapons earlier on in the conflict but they need to draw the public into thinking that we are on their side. They need our support for their war – when clearly many of us are not.

These 'Neo-Frankist' thinkers want the excuse to escalate this war into something much bigger. They have every intention of escalating up to World War Three. Why? Because they think they will come out of this with more power and control and a greatly reduced World population.

It is terrible to even have to write this, but this is the extent of their depraved demonic thinking.

The ability to print endless money, allows the bankers and their governments to have endless wars and to fund this much more dangerous escalation.

Fortunately the World can look ahead with a more positive outlook if we view it as an existential crisis and support the people on the side of truth and if we view it as a spiritual struggle and act together with the right inner intentions.

I want to take a look at these two aspects and delve a little deeper.

Firstly, we need to counter the financial ways in which the 'Neo-Frankist' thinkers operate. We need to know and understand the alternatives to central bank digital currencies.

On the side of the truth

The new BRICS+ decentralized monetary ecosystem

Pepe Escobar, a Brazilian journalist and geopolitical analyst with a lifetime of specialist knowledge on the politics around the Middle East, Central Asia, Russian and China reports the following about what is coming.

*The key geoeconomic issue of these troubled times is a global crisis of trust.

*The Global Majority has had enough of the centrally controlled monetary framework put in place 80 years ago in Bretton Woods. They have had enough of its endemic flaws, chronic deficits, irresponsible military spending, speculative bubbles, politically motivated sanctions.

Pepe reported the following statement made recently by the BRICS+ leaders about the International 'Rules based International order'

"All countries have the right to independently choose their development models and political, economic and social systems based on their national conditions and the people's will.*

They have the right to oppose interference in the internal affairs of sovereign countries, oppose unilateral sanctions and long-arm jurisdiction without international law basis or UN security council authorisation. They also have the right to oppose drawing ideological lines.*

Neo Colonialism and Hegemonism are completely contrary to the trend of the times. There is now a call for equal dialogue, the development of partnerships and the promotion of exchanges and mutual learning among civilisations.”

In a later statement the following was reported by Pepe on the new BRICS+ decentralized monetary ecosystem.

A new concept in terms of an international currency, currently just termed ‘the Unit’ will be anchored in gold (40%) and BRICS+ currencies (60%). It is neither be a cryptocurrency nor a stablecoin.

“The key appeal for the Global Majority is a full ecosystem offering independent, complementary monetary infrastructure. One can be extended to willing partners in the collective West.

The endgame is that everyone and every country could be able to use the new ‘Unit of currency’ for accounting, bookkeeping, pricing, settling, paying, saving and investing without any one person or group of people controlling it.

This new ‘Unit’ has already received backing by the BRICS Business Council and is on the agenda at the crucial ministerial meeting in Russia in June, which will work out the road map for the summit next October in Kazan. It is likely to be adopted there and in place ready to use early in 2025.

As it stands, the major takeaway is that the ‘Unit’ should be seen as a feasible, technical solution.... ‘a globally-recognized payment/trade system, immune to political pressure.’

This new ‘Unit’ represents apolitical money and can be the connector between the Global majority and the West.”

The following recent statement made this year by the Minister of integration and macroeconomics of the Eurasia Economic union may help explain things in more detail:-

“I have been following the development of the ‘Unit’ for more than a year and can confirm that the ‘Unit’ offers a very timely, feasible solution. It is academically sound, technologically innovative and at the same time complementary to the existing banking infrastructure.

Launching it under the auspices of an UN institution gives the ‘Unit’ legitimacy, which the current Bretton Woods framework is clearly lacking. Recent actions by the US administration and loud silence from IMF clearly indicate the need for change.

A decentralized approach to emission of potential global trade currency, whose intrinsic value is anchored in physical gold and BRICS+ currencies, makes this ‘Unit’ the most promising of several approaches being considered. It balances political priorities of all participants, while helping each sovereign economy develop along its optimal path.

The New Development Bank (NDB) and BRICS+ shall embrace the concept of this ‘Unit’ and help it to become the pinnacle of the new emerging global financial infrastructure, free from malign political interferences while focused instead on fair trade and sustainable economic growth.”

As you might be able to tell from this, this proposed multi-polar international currency is not under any central control and it is inclusive for all sovereign states. It is now on its way and it offers a far better alternative for the World than any central bank digital currency.

On the side of the spiritual struggle

What I would like to ask of you to do now is to consider the next, very recent, statement and how you feel about it.

*“There are secularised cultures, but at the core of all of them, the spirit of Tradition remains, religious or otherwise.

*By defending the multiplicity, plurality and polycentrism of cultures, we are making an appeal to the principles of their essences, which we can only find in the spiritual traditions.

*But we try to link this attitude to the necessity for social justice and the freedom of differing societies in the hope for better political regimes. The idea is to join the spirit of Tradition with the desire for social justice.

And we don't want to oppose them, because that is the main strategy of hegemonic power: to divide Left and Right, to divide cultures, to divide ethnic groups, East and West, Muslims and Christians.

*We invite Right and Left to unite, and not to oppose traditionalism and spirituality, social justice and social dynamism. So we are not on the Right or on the Left.

We are against liberal postmodernity. Our idea is to join all the fronts and not let them divide us. When we stay divided, they can rule us safely.

If we are united, their rule will immediately end. That is our global strategy. And when we try to join the spiritual tradition with social justice, there is an immediate panic among liberals.

They fear this very much.”

It is not important which current day philosopher wrote this but you should know that he is a Russian who recently lost his only daughter who was killed when a bomb exploded in her car. He wrote this after that tragedy.

It is clear that the way the ‘few’ seek to control us is through sowing seeds of division. They also love to pin labels on anyone that opposes them. Their propaganda is supposed to do just one thing – stop you listening to anyone else but them.

This is a false division though. It is not left wing against right wing – nor even rich people against the poor. It is now the ‘Uniparty’ of Western Governments against their people, lies against truth centralisation & slavery against decentralisation & freedom.

For a new spirituality to emerge, we must be free to choose for ourselves our own path.

A solution to the demonic problem emerges

At a much deeper level here, just as the prophets of the past have told us, we find ourselves in a spiritual struggle.

This is a consciousness struggle as our minds begin to change with the new vibrations found at the moment under the Aquarian constellation.

These vibrations come from the returning Galactic current sheet and from our solar system's exit from the local interstellar cloud which is allowing even more cosmic energy to get through to us.

Clues are in the prophecies as to what is coming and the legends on what happened last time.

These new Aquarian energies that are growing in intensity can be used by us to influence the demons. We can work with these new energies in ways that will stop this demonic influence. Without this evil empowerment, there plans will fail.

We know that when we gather and when we hold balance within us as a group, we can bring balance into the World around us. With the group intention to reset to balance, the 'presence' of the demonic beings will move back into their own matter frequency world. By quelling our own inner demons and holding that balance within us and helping many other people to do the same, we will take away the influence of the demons on the few people who wish to own the World and control us all.

When enough of us do this around the World, we will win this struggle – without a shot being fired by ourselves and with peace still in our hearts.

This is what the increasing intensity of the Aquarian energy can help us do.

We, the people, need to unite, stand up and tell our current leaders that we say no to wars between nations.

An Addendum - More synchronicity

As I finished writing this section, I checked my emails, as I do around 2-3 times a day. A friend had just messaged me whilst I was writing and had attached a report from a company called 'Simon Hunt Strategic services' that she suggested I should know about.

The synchronicity that was appearing was the timing of my writing and the report being sent were both about the same thing. This means little though unless there is some further exploration that might confirm the synchronicity.

I decided to look further into the person who runs this company Simon Hunt. It was not long before I found that he and I had worked for the same company in Africa at the same time back in the 1980's. We did not know each other as it was a large corporation, but it was enough of a nudge for me to take the report a bit more seriously and to also now include this incident in this newsletter as I believe there is some action we can all take to help save lives in the future.

Billionaires advance warning information

Before I tell you what it was about, I would like to mention something I learned a few years ago. The extremely wealthy billionaires in the World who employ tens of thousands of people and who conduct business in many countries are important to bankers and politicians. If these businesses collapse for any reason, it can leave a country with huge problems – financially with sudden changes in importing and exporting issues as well as with sudden increases in unemployment. Not just with the billionaires business, but all the other associated smaller businesses that rely on them for their sub contracted work. Any geopolitical decisions that might affect the stability of these businesses are always signposted in advance by a few weeks to the billionaires so that they can take steps to mitigate themselves in advance so they can protect their businesses.

In other words – these people get an advance warning of key political decisions before the rest of us. For example, if a decision has been made to go to war with a country, (Something that is planned at least a month before the public are informed), these business people get tipped off so they can take early action. Advance information like this is incredibly valuable and equally it is important to the decision makers is that the public are not told at the same time. The main reason for this is that the politicians all know that they will get push back from the people and that will mean they cannot then go ahead with their plans.

To give you an example when Tony Blair and George Bush got together to agree a joint war against Iraq, the British prime minister came back to the UK to get parliament to agree with this action. The UK population though wanted none of this and they told their MP's to not vote for war or they would be thrown out of their constituency. Concerned about themselves, first and foremost, enough MP's returned to the British parliament and the Vote to go to ward was defeated. The 'Blair' was not at all happy.

It would seem that the UK establishment has learnt their lesson. The people do not want war so we cannot allow them to influence our politicians again.

The sad situation is that they seem to have now found a way to do just this. These 'few' want a war with Russia and China.

The report

The report was the company's thought for the day that they circulate amongst their business contacts. They are geopolitical consultants.

It was titled 'A global shut down' and the information came directly from the UK's deputy prime minister. It was a warning to the UK to expect several attacks against the country in the next few weeks and to make provisions to prepare for being without electricity for at least 6 days. The reason was said to be down to Russia and China and their new currency and how the West had to oppose it.

The pdf I was sent can be downloaded here.

I decided to look at their website a bit more. The following is what can be read on that page:-

Economic activity moves in cycles; the laws of recession have not been repealed. To make these calls an appreciation of debt, interest rates, demographics and geopolitical developments must be taken into full account, even more so today as some cycles are at critical turning points.

The major evolving cycle is the growing conflict between the BRICS+ group of nations and the Western Alliance led by America.

What America fears is that its hegemony together with its currency dominating the world is nearing the end of its life. What BRICS fears is that America's stance could end in war with its largest supporters Russia and China preparing for that outcome.

The war between Russia and NATO over Ukraine and Israel's war with Hamas, Hezbollah et al. are part of this escalating conflict.

Wars are not confined to military affairs but also include trade and currencies. The powers which control foreign policy in Washington will use their full toolbox in their efforts to at least contain China's growth and to dismember Russia which has been America's foreign policy objective since at least 1991 and even since WWII.

Russia and China have their own resources to combat America's sanction, tariff and currency ploys. For instance, despite the levying of so many sanctions against Russia, her economy has strengthened with the IMF projecting GDP growth of 3.2% this year; and China's economy has more resilience than most commentators give the country.

But, when push comes to shove China is likely to announce that its currency is supported by the gold which its citizens own, north of 23,000 tons; and Russia, whose physical gold reserves are more than 12,000 tons will start pricing oil in ounces of gold.

Quietly gold is emerging as central to the monetary system, at least within the BRICS+ group of nations. Gold is the asset used in trade differential accounts between some countries, not dollars.

These are a few of the trends that we follow closely which allow us to make more accurate forecasts for the future than the usual consensus projections. It all boils down to Reality versus Illusion!

Here is a link for you to read this yourself on their website. <https://www.simon-hunt.com/what-we-do/>

Comment – R.D.

It appears that the 'They' are going to try and separate the people again. There are already at least 10 million people in the UK that support and follow Russia's actions in Ukraine – these people know the truth and what is really going on and how NATO and the NeoCons & the CIA in the USA are the aggressors here.

They want war with Russian and China and the BRICS nations. Their game right now is to divide us and to make us think that Russian and China are enemy. They are not.

The real division here is within the West where the people are now finding themselves opposed to the actions of their 'uni-party' governments. (The good side to this is that the Western World's sovereign nations populations are putting aside their differences of opinion and uniting).

What appears to be happening is that the UK Prime minister has been told to hold a general election. Mainstream news is all talking about the reasons why he has called one this early when he is behind in the polls. They are all over it in order to disguise the real reason.

The government is 'Perogued' until after the 4th July. In other words there are no MP's in parliament for around 6 weeks. That means if there are any, so called 'threats' to the Nation (Including false flag attacks), there will be no discussions in parliament where MP's might be persuaded by their constituents to vote against their desired war (Like last time).

Instead as series of pre-arranged plans are in place with people stepping in, for the 'Emergency' to steer us all along their desired direction – which is another very profitable war where many lives are lost. (Depopulation is one of the things on their agenda too).

The coming elections, both in the US, Europe and in the UK, are all an illusion – it is all about maintaining the hegemony and the unipolar world. The West does now want the newly emerging Multipolar World.

The US cannot be seen to begin this war though. The Uniparty needs the democrats to win the next election or to cancel it through a National emergency. This is why the UK seems to have been chosen to start it off with NATO troops escalating action in Ukraine. (The sad thing is they know these troops will lose and many will die, but it allows them to escalates things further as long as the public are suitably outraged at the loss of their citizens lives)

There is something we can do to help stop this

People don't want war. They need to know what is really going on in advance so they can all be more vocal and speak out against it.

If the politicians know that the majority of their populations are united against them, they will back down.

We must collectively say no to war now.

In addition to holding this thought in Group meditation we can set the intention for unity amongst us all us and then hold that balance within us during our meditations. This will make a huge difference.

We have a wonderful window of opportunity to do this at the next harmony time on the 19th June.

If we all hold this balance with this intent, we can bring people together in great numbers.

A last minute synchronous message

Just as I thought this was the end of this part of this section of the newsletter, the universe had other ideas and I am so glad it did because it lifted me higher amidst all that has been going on.

In a group meditation on the 24th June, I heard a sound that repeated itself again and again. This is not the first time I get auditory messages so, I knew it might be significant. I knew it was an orchestral piece but could not remember the name or why I knew it so well during the meditation. Nothing else came through.

Afterwards, I spent some time trying to remember the tune and eventually realised that I had heard it repetitively when my son was a child and when we took him to see the film Fantasia. He liked it so much we bought him the video tape of the film. He ended up playing the video tape relentlessly in the house and the sound I heard was one of the orchestral pieces on it.

The group intention for the meditation was to see if there was anything we should know about the possible threat to the war in Ukraine being ramped up further by NATO.

It is important to fully explore any insights that you get gifted and in the end the final revelation completely blew me away. Everyone in the group also received insights that contributed to our fuller understanding in regard to the initial intent.

The repeating sound I heard came from the piece called 'Night on Bald Mountain' by the Russian composer Mussorgsky (1839-1881)

On further investigation after we had all met, I discovered that the original Russian title of the 'tone poem' was Иванова ночь на лысой горе. This translates literally as Saint John's Eve on Bald Mountain. Bald mountain in this case means barren mountain.

The Russian word "ночь" (noch') literally means "night" in English, and this, idiomatically, would refer to the night following St. John's day. St John's day is the date of the summer solstice and generally on a day between 21st June and the 25th June.

The night before St. John's Day is usually referred to as "St. John's Eve" in English but in Russian there is not a similar distinction. St John's Eve could therefore be the evening before the summer solstice or the evening of the day itself - the summer solstice. (Back in the early Christian days, the church did not like the early pagan celebrations on this day - the day after their holy day where they gathered in group prayer and meditation. What the church did was to set the days for celebration. This was also because back then, accurate measurement of when the 1st day of the new cycle was not easy as it varied. In Northern Europe it was generally on the 21st or 22nd However in other parts of Europe it was celebrated on the 23rd - 24th.)

What was intriguing was how Mussorgsky described his piece as follows:-:

"So far as my memory doesn't deceive me, the witches used to gather on this mountain, ... gossip, play tricks and await their chief—Satan. On his arrival they, i.e. the witches, formed a circle round the throne on which he sat, in the form of a kid, and sang his praise. When Satan was worked up into a sufficient passion by the witches' praises, he gave the command for the sabbath, in which he chose for himself the witches who caught his fancy. So this is what I've done. At the head of my score I've put its content: 1. Assembly of the witches, their talk and gossip; 2. Satan's journey; 3. Obscene praises of Satan; and 4. Sabbath ... The form and character of the composition are Russian and original ... I wrote St. John's Eve quickly, straight away in full score, I wrote it in about twelve days, glory to God ... While at work on St. John's Eve I didn't sleep at night and actually finished the work on the eve of St. John's Day, it seethed within me so, and I simply didn't know what was happening within me ... I see in my wicked prank an independent Russian product, free from German profundity and routine, and, like Savishna, grown on our native fields and nurtured on Russian bread."

It is important to know that back then Witches were thought of as evil and they were deliberately associated with the Devil. These days we know differently and that places like mountain tops could well be sacred sites and groups of people meditating in circles are just people connecting to God or the Universal consciousness. Of course the prevailing religions in various countries sought to change people's minds in regard to this practice by labelling them as evil.

With Mussorgski's own description, it now seems likely that St John's eve is referring to the ancient Hebrew holy day which is the last day of the Sun's cycle and the day before the solstice.

This year that is the 19th June – which is the same day that we are all gathering for the beginning of the harmony time meditations.

Here is a link to the Disney fantasia video that includes this orchestral piece. (Thanks Richard G. for finding it) I have to say that watching the first part again it feels quite apocalyptic. Part two though introduces a tolling bell (not in Mussorgski's original work) and this sound seems to dispel the demons. (How telling that a vibration does that)

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=b756FPiLlp8> (4min 40sec) and part two

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=bP7kE_cncEs (4mins) I won't spoil the positive end for you by telling you what that is, but it bodes well for our coming endeavours.

In regard to Mussorgski's description, you can perhaps imagine the moment in the tune where Satan has entered the presence of the witches. (I would recommend you reframe this and consider the great evil in the World – Satan is symbolising those people who love war and the circles of meditators who are trying to keep him at bay in this world.)

That Mussorgski wrote this piece of music, in just 12 days, finishing it on St John's eve, is also quite telling. Inspiration and insight would have been high that day. He also said that he was inspired by the ancient Russian legend of nocturnal revels that take place on St. John's Night in June on a hill called Lysa Hora which is around 5kms South of the city of Kiev in Ukraine.

With President Putin just now offering peace talks again based on Russia keeping the territory they have already gained – what will NATO do? They want war and are desperately trying to prepare the UK population to accept this. Is the 19th June their new D-Day?

Are we all being forewarned here because there is still a chance to stop this madness if enough of us call out the UK politicians and their puppet masters?

When you get gifted insights during dreams, sharing dialogue or during meditation it is important to fully explore the symbolism. The reason is that symbolism has a necessary ambiguity and there is often much more to the message we can come to understand and know.

This exploration took me to one of Mussorgski's best known pieces 'Pictures at an Exhibition' and this immediately took me back to my childhood and some really mind blowing lyrics and the possibility of further symbolism and messages for us to day due to the creativity and inspiration from a wonderful group of modern day artists.

If you are into classical music, here is the orchestral piece for you to listen to.

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=DXy50exHjes>

However, if you really want to go down memory lane try reading these lyrics before listening to the link below them. I would then suggest reading the lyrics whilst they are being sung for an even greater effect they provide.

*“Lead me from tortured dreams
Childhood themes of nights alone,
Wipe away endless years,
childhood tears as dry as stone.*

*From seeds of confusion, illusions dark blossoms have grown.
Even now in furrows of sorrow
the dance still is sung.*

My life's course is guided decided by limits drawn on charts of my past days and pathways since I was born.

The Sage

*I carry the dust of a journey that cannot be shaken away
It lives deep within me
For I breathe it every day.*

*You and I are yesterday's answers;
The earth of the past came to flesh,
Eroded by Time's rivers
To the shapes we now possess.*

*Come share of my breath and my substance,
and mingle our stream and our times.
In bright, infinite moments,
Our reasons are lost in our rhymes.*

The Curse of Bab Yaga

*Doubles faces dark defence
Talk too loud but talk no sense
Yeah I see those smiling eyes
Butter us up with smiling lies*

*Talk to creatures raise the dead
Fate you know sure got fed
Trained apart from houses of stone
Hour of horses pick the bone*

The Great Gates of Kiev

*Come forth, from love spire
Born in life's fire,
born in life's fire.
Come forth, from love's spire*

*In the burning, all are (of our) yearning,
for life to be.
And the pain will (must) be gain,
new life!*

*Stirring in, salty streams and dark hidden seams
where the fossil sun gleams.*

*They were, sent from (to) the gates
Ride the tides of fate,
ride the tides of fate.
They were, sent from (to) the gates*

*In the burning all are (of our) yearning,
For life to be.*

*There's no end to my life,
no beginning to my death
Death is life."*

Source: Musixmatch Songwriters: Modest Mussorgsky. Pictures at an Exhibition lyrics © Northern Music Co., Koka Media, Naxos Ltd., Bis Records Ab, Leadchoice Ltd., Classicool Music, Leadchoice Ltd, Ixion Publishing Ltd

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=cUal4MKFvPk> (5mins)

Of course it is the beautiful singing of Greg Lake on the vocals from the rock band Emerson Lake and Palmer – better known by many as ELP. I cannot tell you how often I listened to this song in my teens. The words are slowly now being re-fetched from the deep recesses in my mind and reading them again today is blowing me away with their timeliness.

'Double faces dark defence', 'Great gates of Kiev', 'Death is life' and the epic phrase 'From seeds of confusion, illusions darks blossoms have grown' linger fresh again like the perennial daisies moving around my windmill.

What a wondrous world we live in. One to be treasured and fought for in the many divine ways that we can.

There is hope. We can make a positive difference. We just need to all stand up and be counted/

31/05/24

It is the day before this newsletter goes out and I am in my final edit (which always seems rushed and my apologies if I missed any errors). I touch on the importance of gold in this newsletter so it seemed particularly interesting to me that I received an email from someone who is going to the event in Ireland in August where I will be speaking. He particularly wanted to let me know about his business and in particular the Irish designs on the gold and silver coins he has minted for the newly awakened Irish people. Curiosity made me want to see what these designs were so I clicked on the link and saw some very familiar and beautiful symbols. Reading more, I could see he was someone who was very much involved with ancient sacred sites and working with the energy of the land – something right up my street. I did not think the timing of him making contact, more than two months before the event, was pure coincidence – especially since I had been just writing about gold.

So, for your own delight, have a quick look at these lovely designs. Heck you might even want to buy a few. He calls them Tara Coins. I will be at the Hill of Tara in August running a short dowsing course and holding a group meditation on the node there – so even I am now think I should buy a coin or two. Anyway, here are a couple of links for you to make up your own minds. If you come along to the event, I am sure Mark. O'B. would be happy to chat further with you too.

<https://www.taracoins.com/>

<https://www.taracoins.com/media/meeting-the-demand-for-gold-silver-bullion>

Science section

Any philosophy on life really needs to stand alongside scientific observations. Over the last 2000 years we have learnt more about the World and Universe around us and, as you might expect, we have found many philosophers seeking to understand the fundamental truths about themselves, the world in which we all live, and our relationship to the world and to each other.

Every now and again though a new scientific paradigm is uncovered that goes against the mainstream narrative and propaganda. Just think about how the church treated past astronomers and scientists who made huge new discoveries like the Earth rotating around the Sun instead of the other way around.

As you know we find ourselves in World dominated by the few. These 'few' dominate many areas of research with their funding and they only grant their monetary favours to those people who support them and their business interests. Research and new ideas are fine as long as they control any new technology. If anything might potentially lose them money and power, they simply ensure those ideas are starved of any investment money such that they don't survive.

Mainstream physics today has long promoted both the big bang theory of creation and the relativity theory and they have received huge grants to help with this. Controlled researching like this though does not benefit mankind.

Two or more competing theories ensure that we don't run into any blind alleys or dead ends. Competition itself is healthy and when curiosity is encouraged it brings solutions to problems. Change though is what challenges those in power as new technology they don't own brings them loss of money and power.

I have started this science section with these thoughts as the World faces new observations from the James Webb telescope. The old paradigms for how our universe was thought to work are rapidly failing. The big bang is dead in the water and relativity theory is on the way out due to its constant failure to fit in with quantum theory.

Physicists resort to falling over each other to turn every possible observation into an acceptable interpretation that fits their money and prestige driven careers. The desire to know the truth was left behind decades ago by many of them.

We are now experiencing huge changes in consciousness itself. Observations in our Solar system are showing that much is not behaving as it always used to.

More and more people are now ditching Einstein's concept of Space time and accepting the concept of an Electric universe. This alone should require us to revisit our philosophies.

However, before we do that we should really start looking for a science that tries to explain all observations and then go on and take a fresh new philosophical look at our World.

One of these observations is going to have to include the effects of things like the Aquarius constellation.

There is also the key question everyone needs to ask. Do you believe in God? If the answer is no, then your science does not need to try and explain the idea that intelligence exists behind the continual creation of all matter in the Universe.

If however, you do, then the science of creation should make an attempt to explain how intelligence must have arisen or, at the very least, how this intelligence goes on to create all this matter.

With this latter approach, science can now ditch the reductionist concept of 'when you are dead you are dead' and that 'mind' is just down to brain function.

Only one full theory of quantum gravity exists and that was the one brought together by Ron Pearson. He alone has explained all the processes involved that show how a universal intelligence continually creates the World we see around us, as well as all the other different matter frequency systems that can be termed 'Worlds of Spirit'.

In short, our 'classical' physical world is a projection of energy at a particular frequency down at the quantum level. Here particles, which are nothing but bundles of energy, rapidly phase in and out of existence. This phasing in and out of the quantum world, is all controlled by interacting vibratory waves at a deeper and much smaller, final, sub quantum level.

Just as the great Nicola Tesla (The man who invented the 19th century) stated – Vibration creates Light which goes on to create the illusion of matter.

The vibrations are the way the universal intelligence creates the universe on all of its different frequencies of matter. Every particle of matter is therefore totally connected to this intelligence.

Where we have great concentrations of matter, it would be entirely natural to think that these would be regions that have a greater connection to this intelligence.

Large collections or concentrations of similar particles in our universe like where we find Suns, Plasma fields and even Water will be places where intelligence and memory congregate. With just that in mind we can explain the phenomenon discovered by people like Dr Maseru Emoto and Jacques Benveniste.

What Ron Pearson also shows in his full complete theory, one with all the mathematics, predictions (proved and modelled), is that each being on each different matter frequency World must have a fragment of mind from the universal mind that enables a form of communication between minds to be possible. Telepathy, Empathy, Prophecy are now all explainable with his complete theory.

The physics establishment just don't like his theory because it does not need to use Relativity theory. It explains all observations in Space including the new ones made by the James Webb telescope.

For an easy to read book on his work try Intelligence behind the Universe III

Having reached this point in the science section, I would like to turn to trying to explain how Ron might explain the coming evolution of consciousness.

Regular readers of my newsletters and social media posts will know I write about this subject quite a bit. I don't see the advancing galactic current sheet as leading to some apocalyptic catastrophe – as some people do. Instead, it will be a period of transformation. There will difficulties and challenges but we will come through it all. Knowing that the mind survives after death is a comfort to many.

I spent 15 years working with Ron Pearson helping him to present his immense work for the benefit of mankind into a language nearly everyone could come to understand. Most weekends we walked our boxer dogs – we each had one – in the woods behind his house in Bathford. For over an hour each time we discussed his work and what it might explain.

Included in these conversations was the idea of great evolutionary cycles of consciousness – just as Rudolf Steiner had written about and many others had prophetic insights on. There are only three dimensions required in this theory. If you use the words 4th or 5th or 10th dimension, just consider this as being the same as different matter frequency Worlds all sitting in the same area.

There is no interference between all these Worlds as each has a different frequency. Think here of a beam of white light hitting a prism and splitting into different frequencies of colour. Our World would be like one of these colours, the other colours would represent other colours. The only difference with this analogy is that all of these colours are in the same path and the beings in each World only see the colour or characteristics of their frequency in their own World.

What Ron said was that our fragment of the universal mind tunes into a particular frequency and it experiences all that there is to experience in the range of frequencies on that World.

When our bodies physically die, our fragment of mind just tunes into another frequency of matter – typically this would be the Spirit World with all of our ancestors on it.

Our mind lives on continually, but it has the opportunity to grow spiritually and evolve and move up into the ‘higher’ frequencies. (In reality it is probably an ultra-low frequency matter frequency vibration in terms of physics.)

You can perhaps now envisage all these different Worlds as ‘habitat for minds’ on one great journey of spiritual development.

With this in mind, we can come back to the evolution of consciousness. This is described by Steiner and others as something that will occur for all being on all the Worlds including the Worlds themselves.

This now suggests some fundamental changes as well as changes to our perceptual awareness.

These changes are in the direction of an increase in what we can see, hear and feel. Our mind is perceiving more about our natural World and all the other matter frequency Worlds.

We will hear sounds, feel feelings and see things that were previously beyond our range of senses – not our physical senses- but our inner senses – our submodalities. Our voice inside our head when we think, will be joined by other voices. The feelings we feel, we will be joined by the feelings being emitted by others around us. We will feel their pain, we will feel their desire as though it is our pain and our desire. When we close our eyes and see what we ourselves normally visualise we will also start seeing things we did not visualise ourselves.

In short our whole inner World will change and for some, this will be hard to handle. Not knowing what you yourself are doing and what is being received by the World around us.

All this is just the first stage of the move back to group consciousness and this is what we are taught by geniuses like Rudolf Steiner.

The trick to survival and mental and emotional stability is to be able to discern between what we are creating and what is being created around us. To do this, we must develop the ability to become heart centred as the heart is the only organ with the heart mind to discern the truth.

To be good at entering into the heart mind, we need to practice and work in groups and we need to learn how to help others around us in order to get into our heart space.

What I have said several times, we will either be able to help others or we will need help.

This is decision we are facing today – the desire to discover the truth by becoming heart centred or to stay mired in the illusions and lies. The latter is present in the World now as our challenge and overcoming this challenge allows us to grow and to become more heart centred.

We are facing the changing perception of the reality around us. The new Aquarian related vibrations are driving this.

When we have learnt to be truly heart centred, we will be ready for the next phase of group consciousness. If not, we will be completely overwhelmed by it all.

Only Ron Pearson's science can explain what we are observing and what we will come to observe. The science may not be completely right yet, but, from this perspective of our matter frequency world, it is the best we have got by a long way.

Earth energy section

I find so much in the World to be interesting. Ever since I was young, I was intensely curious about the World around me. Intense curiosity though can become a problem – especially if you are trying to follow a vocational path. The question is all around the right time to investigate further in order to satiate the curiosity. The reason is simple. It is the ego that wants to know the answer, the information – irrespective of whether it is the right time to know it, or not.

Timing comes down to an order of understanding that is right for you and your journey and what you also then do with what you have learned. Everyone has a path that is right for them and releasing that information at the right time for them too is important. Synchronicity and intuition is therefore really important when it comes to timing.

One example is reading Jung's autobiography Memories Dreams and Reflections. It was first published in German in 1962 after he died in 1961. However, his red book experiences and observations started in 1913 and his Red book was not published until 2009.

If you read his autobiography before spending time studying the Red book, you would be at a loss to understand vast areas of what he wrote about his life. This may seem obvious as it was written in that order. But because of the difference in publishing dates, most people will have read the autobiography first. However if you follow your intuition and synchronicity, and not acted on your own egoic curiosity, you will be guided to read the right books at the right time for what you need to know in your life.

For me, the curiosity I have had to suppress, is in regard to where the main sacred sites are in the World based on the many type 4 energy lines and their intersecting alignments. There is little point finding a powerful sacred site somewhere in the World when you cannot get there or don't know anyone who lives nearby who can go there and potentially look after the place.

Egypt has long been an area of interest in regard to where the main energy lines were running and where the strong nodes were to be found. Yes, I have known about the node at the Khufu pyramid for many years, but I have never spent time investigating the area – until recently.

In a recent group meditation around the time of the recent eclipse, the question with intent was if there was anything we needed to know about the energetic effects of the eclipse as its path crossed the USA.

There is a natural ambiguity in the symbolism that comes through for people in a group and it is not always anything that can be interpreted until people share what insights they may have been given. I will not mention what came through, but will say that every member of the group contributed to a powerful message.

For me, as soon as I started to move into connection with my subconscious mind, a tune came and kept repeating itself. I could not name it though. Others in the group were able to tell me later. However what ended my meditation was seeing a white goose swooping around in a circular flying pattern as it landed on the top of a post. Having done that it looked directly at me. That was all I got from it – the tune and the goose.

On questioning me afterwards, one of the lady's in the group (Thank you Lily) questioned me in regard to whether it was really a goose and not a swan instead. I thought about it long and said, No it was definitely a white goose.

Shortly after the meditation, Lily mentioned to me that I should read a book by Andrew Collins called the Cygnus mystery. I have read one or two of his books, but not that one. I am glad I did, as I had not made the connection I was supposed to make beforehand. I had figured out that this was to do with the Cygnus constellation and the Northern Cross of stars in the Northern hemisphere night sky, but I had also assumed that it was also something to do with the name of a young swan – a cygnet.

As with all possible synchronicities it is important to explore a bit more, so I started looking through the book. It is about an ancient astronomy around this constellation and the myths and beliefs of the people who lived around 17,000 years ago. In the book Collins was looking to show that the Cygnus constellation was at the root of all the World's religions. Whether that is the case or not, I am not sure, but I would not be at all surprised to find out that the constellation did have some significant effect – a bit like Aquarius is having on us now.

In addition to that, it appears that the Zodiac, found at the town of Dendera in Upper Egypt, also showed what has been described as a cosmic Goose in the same night sky position as the Cygnus constellation.

Several things suddenly stood out for me in the book. The first was the connection to a location on the Giza plateau in Egypt and secondly the Swan/Goose connection.

I had been kindly asked to do a seminar in Ireland in August and had come across an ancient Egyptian/Irish connection at some of the energetic sites and I was wondering just what to include in the talk in that regard. This synchronicity, along with several other prompts, seemed to be the go-ahead to look at the main energy lines passing through Egypt.

One of the chapters of the Cygnus mystery was titled Well of the Souls. In it, he mentions that a bird known as the Great Cackler, a cosmic goose, (Cygnus constellation?) is said to have brought the universe into manifestation by letting out a divine honk or call (Sub space Vibration? – see Ron Pearson's Quantum Gravity which explains sub space). It was said to have laid the sun-egg from which God emerged.

In a chapter called 'The Swan-Goose of eternity', he writes about pilgrims in Northern India going to a location called Pushkar where there is a temple dedicated to the Hindu creator God Brahma who had emerged from a cosmic egg laid by Hamsa – a swan-goose. He also later writes about the Yezidi people and their myth depicting a cosmic bird on top of a sky-pole. (North pole?)

On further checking, it appears that the Egyptian white goose is associated with the Egyptian god Geb – the god of the Underworld. In the city of Thebes, for one particular time period, Amun was considered to be the god of the Sun and the king of all the Gods. His symbol was also a white goose and it was said to represent the souls of the departed as they went Westwards to Amenti – the gateway to the underworld.

It would seem that there was no accident that in our meditation discussions about whether the message had come from a swan or a goose. They were originally held to mean the same and, as just as birds are generally held to be, they were seen as messengers from our subconscious mind.

All these things certainly helped me understand the original message the group, but the book also led me to one other feature in Giza that I had not placed much thought about before. Its name also provided me with another confirmation about a new Universal prophecy I shall write about at the end of this section.

17,000 years ago is an interesting date. It is highly likely that most people would accept that this was a time before the Pyramids were built in Egypt. Consider this now for the moment. If the Pyramids were not there, where might the sacred site be? Where might the current intersection of all four pairs of type 4 energy lines have been found back then?

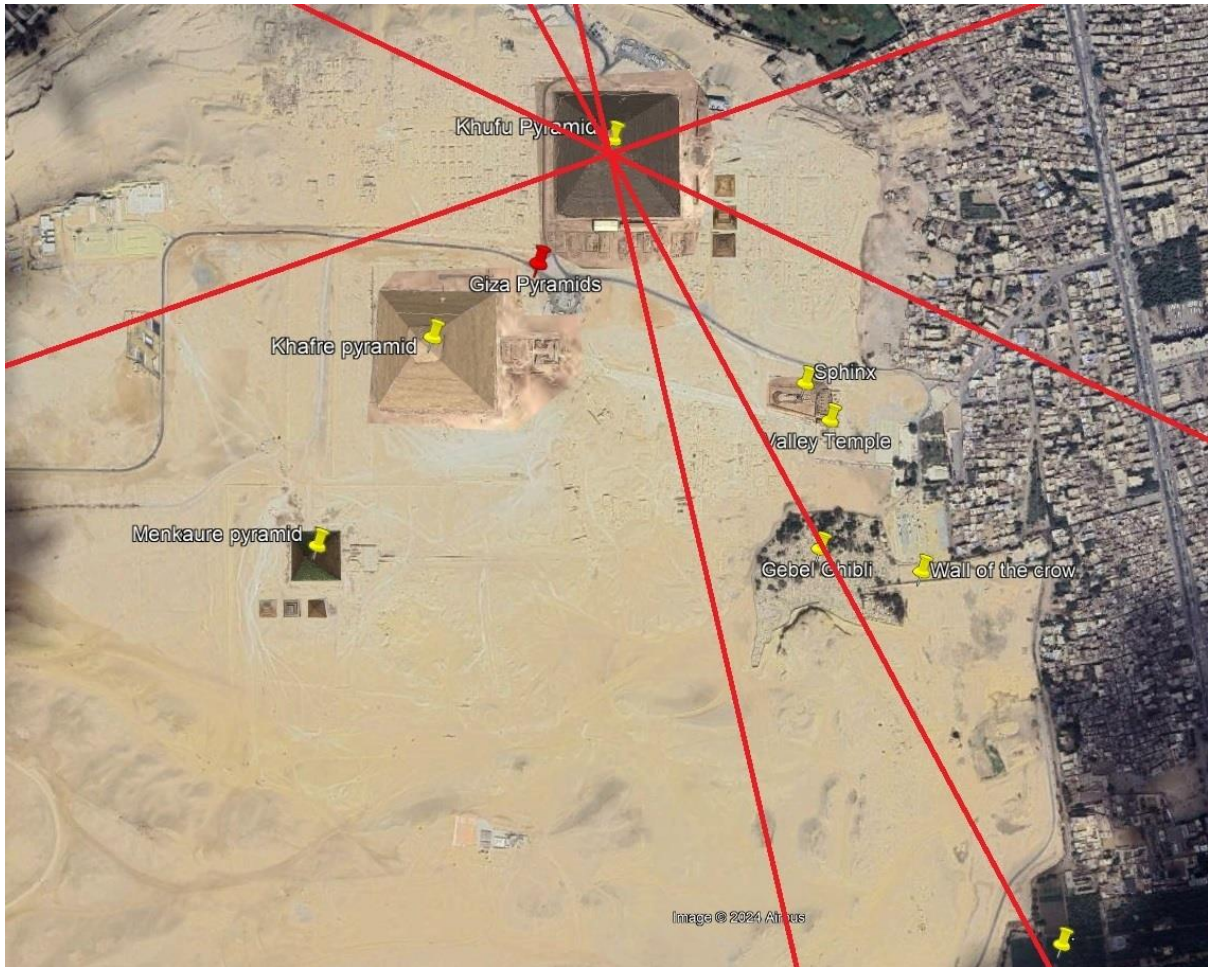

It is actually a question that can be answered by dowsing but we need to try and find some form of confirmation.

Important nodes can often be found at the highest point of a region – especially in fairly flat areas. Indeed, mounds, pyramids and tall stones were likely to have been built to accentuate the free-air density contrast between the denser matter and the air around it. This contrast seems to be what helps anchor the lines at one precise location.

If you look at the image below, you will see the four type 4 alignments (Leys/Leylines) in red. Each red line represents a pair of type 4 earth energy lines that run along the alignment. As you can see they cross at the centre of the Khufu pyramid. As these energy lines curve in towards each other when the node, you might imagine exactly where they run through on their way to the node.

If you follow one of the red lines down to the South East you will notice that it goes through a location called Gebel Ghibli. This hill is shown in an old black and white photo below. When I looked for where the node used to be before the Pyramids, this was the location where it was found.

Each red line represents a type 4 alignment and a pair of type 4 earth energy lines. In other words there are four pairs of lines crossing over at this node. Two pairs of type 4 lines at a node is far more common. There is only one similar in Great Britain and Ireland and this is at Maeve's cairn near Sligo in Ireland. In the USA, I have only found three places like this. So these are potentially very powerful places.

The famous Egyptologist Flinders Petrie spent many hours studying this hill as it seemed to be much older than the pyramids. It is here that Sokar's mound was said to be. Sokar was said to be the oldest God in Egypt. He reigned in the Underworld and was guarded by two lions. The house of Sokar was said to also be the site of the oldest building on the Giza plateau.

The Edfu texts write about a Primordial mound at Gebel Ghibli and that this was where the Zep Tepi occurred. The Zep Tepi is said to be the 'first occasion' and is part of the Egyptian creation myth. (For those of you doing the sacred path modules, this would refer to the last time mankind exited from group consciousness)

Gebel Ghibli was a very special place to these ancient Egyptians and the Primordial mound being their sacred site, this now confirmed the dowsing.

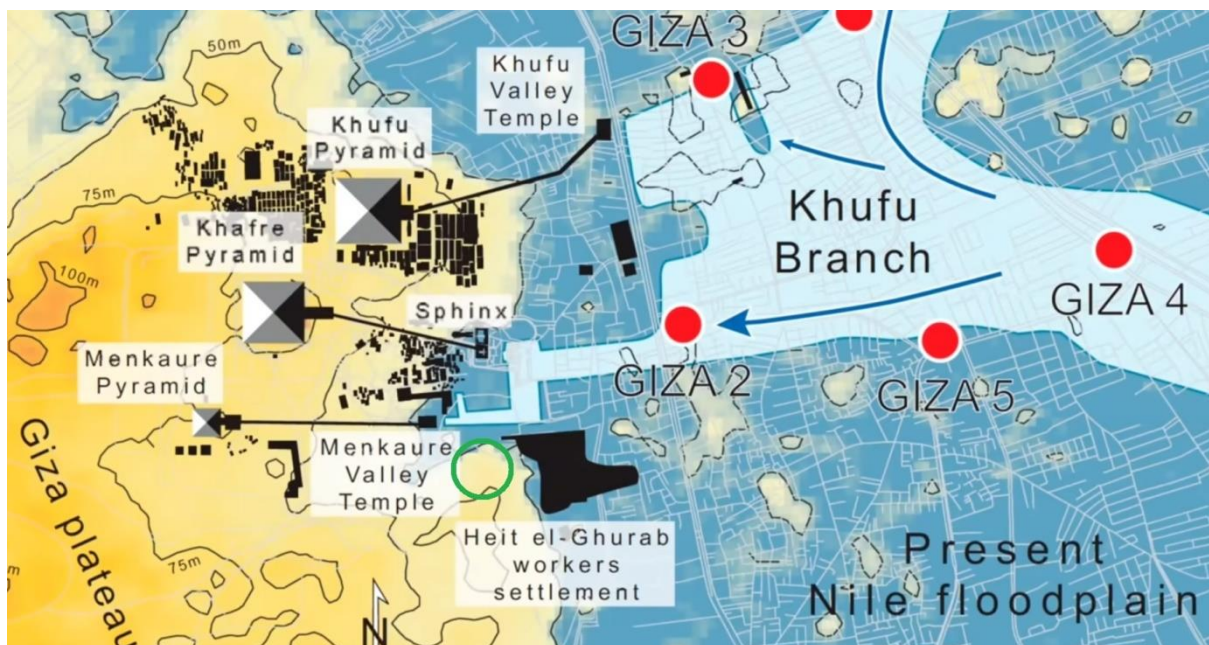

What has been uncovered only recently is that Gebel Ghibli seems to have once been an island in a lagoon in what was later called the Khufu branch of the Ahramat Nile branch – an ancient water channel that used to run to the West of the River Nile.

Recent ground penetrating radar studies have shown this branch of the Nile used to exist from around 7000 to 4000 years ago before it started moving back to the East before finally drying up. Archaeologists now think that it was this waterway that was used to float the huge granite blocks on rafts down from Upper Egypt to build the Pyramids.

Studies of waterfall in the Eocene period showed that water tables were highest around 7000 years ago so this would have made the water levels high enough to float the blocks right up and into the Giza plateau.

The latter information comes from a recent paper titled ‘The discovery of the Ahramat Nile branch: a hidden ancient waterway of the pyramid chain of Egypt’ Eman Ghoneim et al (2023)

<https://researchers.mq.edu.au/en/publications/the-discovery-of-the-ahramat-nile-branch-a-hidden-ancient-waterwa>

The green circle in the image above shows the location of the Gebel Ghibli island. The blue region does not show this but this was representing the water levels only 5000 years ago when the lagoon had a lower level.

The image below shows the cliff edge of Gebel Ghibli with the Pyramid the background. The shape of the cliff may well be due to river water erosion so you might like to imagine it now surrounded by water. The undercutting at the lower part of the cliff is usually a fairly typical feature of water erosion.

For a good synopsis of the paper, here is a helpful video titled 'LOST 'Pyramid Branch' of the River Nile Discovered + Hawass Not Happy' from Ancient Architects https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=jQSlci8_uuQ (14mins)

7000 years ago, the water levels would have been at their highest in this region. This was a time when the Sahara was also green with lakes and forests. This area of high ground called Gebel Ghibli would have been an island in the lagoon next to the plateau.

We can perhaps now see why and how it must have been such a special sacred place as our ancestors used to incorporate water into the design of their sacred sites. Stone circles at Avebury and Stanton Drew in the UK both had deep circular trenches just outside their circle of stones. They knew the energies were amplified by the presence of water.

Coming back to Giza though, this leaves the problem of when the Pyramids were built. Some, like Geologist Robert Schoch, have suggested that the earlier monument called the Sphinx was damaged by rainwater and that this allowed for it to be dated as having been carved out of the surrounding bedrock around 10,000 years ago.

For me though, there is a problem with this dating. Much seems to centre around how much weathering occurred within the layers of limestone (the bed rock around the Sphinx and out of which it was carved) The groundwater seeping down from the surface would have caused this erosion before the sphinx was carved out. Then there is the question of how much weathering erosion occurred after it was carved when both groundwater and surface rain water action would have shaped it into how it looks today.

This difference of the amount of erosion, before and after it was carved out, alone makes accurate dating impossible.

What should be also considered now, with this new radar information, is that around 7000 to 5000 years ago, when the Sahara was green to when it became desert, there were higher water tables in this area and these would have been getting lower and lower. This would have enhanced and deepened the initial, 'before carving', groundwater erosion. I write this as someone who used to work as a surface engineering geologist in hot climates in Southern Africa where I was also a structural geologist underground. Where I worked we had sink holes and mine waste dams. So, before new mine buildings were put up, the surface geology had to be looked at. (Curiously enough the walls of the mine waste dams suffered very similar rain damage features as those seen around the carved out area around the Sphinx – so they are not new to me).

This does not rule out the concept of a period of time where 'more 'knowledgeable' beings may have been able to help build the pre-megalithic structures we find in Egypt and elsewhere in the World. How this might be possible and when is for another time. So Graham Hancock may still be right in some way with his interpretation of there being a period he describes as when there was an 'advanced civilization'. I would perhaps just change that term to 'Beings being amongst us who were far more knowledgeable than humans at that time.' (This would fit with the concept of cycles of group consciousness to individual consciousness and back to group consciousness).

Further online research uncovered that this part of the plateau used to be called Rostau. (This translates to 'mouth of the passages'). This mound of creation was said to be a secret part of the underworld where the souls of the dead passed across to the next World. This was also now why Sokar's temple was found here.

Across many other areas in the World there are stories of how the souls of the departed travel to the nodes to depart to the World of Spirit. This was why the burial mounds were hardly ever built on the nodes, but instead on the lines leading to the nodes. By burying them on the lines, the souls could find the way to the nodes, or entrances to the other Worlds.

Now finding this here in Egypt, it was clear to see that, if you could find where the main nodes were, and where the main energy lines were that led to the nodes, you would find the tombs of the kings.

A quick check on this, showed this to be true, but more on that another time. For those of you who are going to the seminar in Ireland, I will cover that there as one other particular fascinating location in Egypt links up with one of the main alignments found running through Ireland.

What was interesting was that the alignment that currently runs through both the Khufu pyramid and Gebel Ghibli was one I have written about before under the title of the World's most significant type 4 Leyline. That is covered in one of my past newsletters Rory Duff Newsletter for October 2021.

I mentioned earlier about final confirmation with a link to the Universal prophecies. For those of you who are unaccustomed to that phrase, the Universal prophecies are prophecies about the same series of linked events that will occur as we return to group consciousness. These prophecies come from different cultures over different time periods and even today people are being given glimpses of the same future point in time.

These glimpses are all slightly different as they show us a different aspect of this future series of events. The connection between them all is really quite obvious, just as there are many legends and stories around the World from different time periods and cultures about the last time we exited from group consciousness. (If this is of interest to you, it is one of the main reasons for writing the sacred path modules)

To get glimpses of the future, to effectively become a prophet, and to accept the validity in this, you first need to understand the science behind how this is possible.

This is not possible with the single narrative being forcibly presented by the physics community. If you have not already read the Science section of this newsletter, I cover this new science in that section but it is a science I have talked about many times before.

Once you have accepted the possibility of prophecy, it is actually fairly simple to go about getting these glimpses. Rudolf Steiner writes about it by saying you need to start with a question and a firm intent to find out an answer. You then allow your imagination to begin, and inspiration to follow with your creativity and finally you will gain insights from your subconscious mind. Jung followed the exact guidelines and he too got given a glimpse of this universal prophecy. He even wrote about prophecy and him being a prophet in his Red book.

Very recently, I came across what may be the very latest Universal prophecy. My son and I went to the cinema to watch a new film that had come out from Studio Ghibli. As you will have immediately guessed, it has the same name as the hill on the Giza plateau and watching this film happened just before the whole Egypt synchronicity started.

As I sat watching the film for the first time, my jaw got wider and wider as I sensed the ambiguity in the symbolism and what was being inferred.

Since I have only seen it once, and I am now waiting patiently until it comes out again, I have not had the chance to try and look at the full interpretation. I also would not want to try to do this on my own. It is a group message that can only really be interpreted by a group who can see things from different perspectives.

However, why not try yourselves and see what you find. I have added some notes here to get you started on how this whole project came about. As you will read, it appears that the formula for seeking out a possible prophecy was carried out almost exactly by the creator.

'The Boy and the Heron' is a film made by the 82 year old Hayao Miyazaki from Studio Ghibli. The title of the film however is the English title. Its original Japanese title was a question that translates to How Do You Live? This was actually the same as the title of Miyozaki's favourite book by Genzaburo Yoshino that was first published in 1937 which became a Japanese classic selling over 2 million copies. The book though is not like the film.

It is Miyazaki's 12th feature film and it comes after his 'retirement' nine years ago. The making of this film was therefore something that drew him back out of retirement. Only a project that is exceedingly important and significant can make someone do this and we may like to wonder why he wanted to make the title a question.

When Miyazaki begins his films, he is known to say that he never knows how they will end. He starts with drawing the storyboards and the characters and then sees how their journeys evolve. In this process he often admits that sometimes he is not even sure on what they are about.

In 'How do you live?' Miyazaki set out to create a film that was very personal to him. The young boy's father – Shoichi represented his own father (Who was the wartime direction of the Miyazaki Airplane factory). The boy's quest in the film was also a personal quest for him too. It has been noted that Miyazaki's own fearlessness and empathy are qualities that can also be seen in the young boy Mahito.

In the first part of the film it is clear to see that it is based on his own childhood but, in the latter half, it takes off into an imaginative world where life and death and time are very different from the physical world around us. It is well reported that the creativity in this film was Miyazaki's alone and without any external instructions or suggestions. This is significant when it comes to the symbolism found in the film.

When Miyazaki was asked about the answer to the Japanese question in the title 'How Do You Live?', he responded by saying 'I am making this movie' because I do not have the answer.'

It now seems clear that Miyazaki, like many creative people before him, was searching for inspiration through his art and seeking insights from his subconscious mind in order to try and find answers to this question.

By starting an imaginative journey, like Steiner, Goethe and Jung and artists like Dali and Blake, he was led to produce an epic, heavily symbolised, piece of work that is littered with clues for us. In this case, he seems to have tapped into the theme of the moment in the World of the Numinous – the evolution of consciousness.

The film can be quickly seen as analogous to several of the other universal prophecies but it perhaps most closely mirrors the hero's journey within Goethe's fairy tale. Indeed there are similar character representations as well as similar interpretations.

There is also one more similar hurdle that needs to be overcome and that is the translation from the original Japanese into English as it appears that the Japanese version of the film originally came with English subtitles and these have since been discovered to be different from the English voice overs done by famous actors in the English speaking version of the film. Goethe's Fairy tale was originally written in Old German and there is always a small loss of understanding in any translation.

What this film potentially offers us is a tantalising glimpse at a new perspective, a new piece of the puzzle, about our return to group consciousness.

Book section

As soon as we enter this World we start gathering information around us through our experiences. As we learn to read, we become exposed to the opportunity to expand our knowledge in many ways. The trouble is, we cannot read all the fascinating books out there in our lifetime. With work and family and other ways of having fun, reading time is cut quite dramatically to about an hour a day if we are lucky.

We may read over a thousand books in our lives and some people have libraries with more than that in them. However, if we really had time to assess what we had read, that really influenced us in life, in positive ways – perhaps reading that led to personal success in a particular field, we are down to probably under 100 books.

Do we really know those 100 books though? Of this number, under the ‘pareto’ principle, there are probably 20 books that stand out for you.

My question to you all is what books would fall into your personal top 20 under the parameter of what has influenced you in your life.

Making your list is not the subject of this book section though. What I have recently been discovering is the importance of timing when it comes to reading a book.

I have bought several books many years ago, knowing they were important, starting them, but not finishing them.

I have also read books fully around 25+ years ago and found them to be hugely influential. If asked to describe their content now, it would be hard to say more than a few lines.

As I sat down to write this newsletter, I had in mind a book that would go with the theme of this newsletter.

Back in 1999, I experienced a profound synchronicity. I had been doing some work for a premiership football club (I was a communications coach at the time) and decided to take a detour on the way home to visit Silbury hill in Wiltshire for the first time.

It was Monday afternoon and pouring down with rain as I pulled up in the layby nearby. In my dark suit and black shoes, without an umbrella, something made me decide to climb over the fence and slip, literally, up the steep side of the hill to the top.

I was surprised to find three people at the top all also getting thoroughly drenched. Dressed like a ‘man in black’, in my now very wet suit, they admitted later being more than a little shocked. It was not long in our conversations that I found out that the day was also the spring equinox – the time of the birth of new things. (Silbury hill also has this ‘new birthing’ connection)

A lovely chap from Venice beach in Los Angeles was the man standing between the two women. He was called David Alexander English and we soon became good friends. David had the idea of an Evolution day that corresponded to the Mayan calendar. It was said to happen in the year 2012. Together we started the Evolution day website. (It was the very first one I build using Microsoft Front page).

On the website I had the idea of having a top 50 books page for people interested in this concept of the Evolution day. Each book also had a link to the new Amazon book site (Which only sold books back then). Depending on the books purchased, their positions on the top 50 changed.

My website only ran for a few years unfortunately, but the one thing that stood out was that one book remained at number one all the time.

This last month, I picked up my copy and began reading it again and was immediately quite shocked. How had I missed so much of the depth within this book? I knew it was good but I was struck by just how much I had forgotten.

With the knowledge gained in my last 25 years, reading is was now also bringing forth so much more. Insights connections and new thinking were soon springing up like daisies on a mown lawn after a light shower of rain.

It made me completely re think about my book collection. I would need, at some intuitive future point in time, to re-read my own top 20. Books that I had intuitively bought in my 20's still stood out and had become even more relevant in my life today – books like the 'Evolution of consciousness' by Rudolf Steiner – I have already re-read and written about in an earlier newsletter but there are others.

In addition to re-reading your old books, consider now the timing of when to read a person's books. Should you read an autobiography written at the end of genius's life, or should you read their earlier work first. It is not easy to say. As I mentioned earlier in this newsletter, I am currently reading Memories, Dreams and Reflections written by Carl Jung at the end of his life. If I had not spent over a hundred hours now studying both his red book and his black books, I would have never fully understood an appreciated his autobiography. Millions of people though will have read the autobiography first because the red book was not published until 2009 – decades later than the former book. It makes all the difference in the World which books you read and in what order and at what time in your life.

To me book buying now has to be both logical and intuitive, but when you read that book should be solely intuitive. Many great books are unavailable now, or hard to come by, or exceedingly expensive – so choose well and buy early. Much in the future will be lost in the digital age as legacy systems fail and past memory devices cannot be read anymore due to evolving technology. Books will be very investable in the years to come.

So my sincere message to you is to find your own top 20 and if there any you have not read in the last 15 years, put the kettle on and intuitively dive in when you get the 'nod'.

As for the number one book on the Evolution day website – that was the Aquarian conspiracy by Marilyn Ferguson

Marilyn Ferguson (1938 – 2008) was an American author, editor and public speaker. Her best-selling book was published in 1980.

Marilyn saw glimmers and patterns of a new movement emerging in the World and said the following about it.

The paradigm of the Aquarian Conspiracy sees humankind embedded in nature. It promoted the autonomous individual in a decentralised society.

The Aquarius conspiracy is the term she coined for the network of people working for social transformation based on personal inner change

After a dark and violent age, the Piscean age, we are entering millenium of love and light. In the words of the popular song 'The age of Aquarius' the time of the minds true liberation

Pierre de Teilhard prophecied the phenomenon central to this book; a conspiracy of men and women whose new perspective would trigger a critical contagion of change..... The future is in the hands of those who can give tomorrow's generations valid reasons to live and hope.

From a chapter in 'The Aquarian conspiracy' on premonitions of transformation, we can read of the many great people foresaw this coming. For example, of Pierre Teilhard de Chardin (1881 – 1955), a Geologist & Palaeontologist, she writes the following:-

"Teilhard was undeniably a pioneer and visionary in thinking universal evolution, suggesting the unity of cosmic evolution and development, as well as anticipating modern evolutionary thinking about human, cultural, technological and planetary evolution.

His posthumously published book, The Phenomenon of Man, set forth a sweeping account of the unfolding of this and the evolution of matter to humanity, to ultimately a reunion with Christ. The church forbade it being published in his lifetime. In the book he warns that the mind may experience fear and disorientation. It must create a new equilibrium for everything that had once been tidy in its inner world. It is dazzled when it emerges from its dark prison.

"We are not physical beings having a spiritual experience; we are spiritual beings having a physical experience. It doesn't matter if the water is cold or warm if you're going to have to wade through it anyway. Remain true to yourself, but move ever upward toward greater consciousness and greater love!"*

"The most satisfying thing in life is to have been able to give a large part of one's self to others"

"At the centre of his philosophy was the belief that the human species is evolving spiritually, progressing from a simple faith to higher and higher forms of consciousness, including a consciousness of God, and culminating in the ultimate understanding of humankind's place and purpose in the universe."

"Humanity is still advancing; and it will probably continue to advance for hundreds of thousands of years more, always on condition that we know how to keep the same line of advance as our ancestors toward greater consciousness and complexity."

"Mind has been undergoing successive reorganisations throughout the history of evolution until it has reached a crucial point – the discovery of its own evolution

The only way forward is in the direction of a common passion, a conspiracy.

Nothing in the Universe could resist 'the cumulative ardour of the collective soul' a large enough number of transformed persons working together. (It is my use of bold and colour here in these quotes -R.D)*

There is so much more within this wonderful book, so much that I really cannot hope to do it justice in a short review. Click here for some reviews on Amazon

One point I would make here is that this the positive side to this evolution of consciousness will not happen if we sit back and do nothing.

Media section

The lyrics to a couple of old songs kept coming through to me as I wrote this newsletter. You might like to read the words from the first before listening/watching them. Although ambiguous, they seem most appropriate, even prophetic, for this moment in time we are all facing.

*“We starve, look at one another, short of breath
Walking proudly in our winter coats
Wearing smells from laboratories
Facing a dying nation of moving paper fantasy
Listening for the new-told lie
With supreme visions of lonely tunes
Somewhere, inside something; there is a rush of greatness
Who knows what stands in front of our lives
I fashion my future on films in space
Silence tells me secretly everything, everything*

*Manchester, England, England
Manchester, England, England
Across the Atlantic Sea
And I'm a genius, genius
I believe in God
And I believe that God believes in Claude (Claude is a character in the film - R.D.)
That's me, that's me, that's me*

*We starve, look at one another, short of breath
Walking proudly in our winter coats
Wearing smells from laboratories
Facing a dying nation of moving paper fantasy
Listening for the new-told lie
With supreme visions of lonely tunes*

*Singing our space songs on a spider web sitar
Life is around you and in you
Answer for Timothy Leary, deary*

*Let the sunshine, let the sunshine in, the sunshine in
Let the sunshine, let the sunshine in, the sunshine in
Let the sunshine, let the sunshine in, the sunshine in (Oh)
Let the sunshine (You ought to let), let the sunshine in, the sunshine in (Why don't you let?) Let the sunshine (You ought to let), let the sunshine in, the sunshine in (Oh)*

(Why don't you let?) Let the sunshine, let the sunshine in, the sunshine in (Oh)
(Why don't you let?) Let the sunshine, let the sunshine in, the sunshine in (Oh)
Let the sunshine (Oh), let the sunshine in, the sunshine in (Yeah)

In the light of all the US Military Industrial Complex & NATO driven offensive wars around the World – all for the profit of these ‘Neo Frankist’ thinking, lying Banksters, you might now find listening and watching this video quite emotional. In the sad parts, just let the sunshine and the love in.

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=fhNrqc6yvTU> (6mins 30s – 39million views)

If you have not already guessed it, this extract comes from the film Hair. The next song also comes from that musical. This song is called- ‘Open up your hearts and Let the Sunshine In’. The lines that follow are the original lyrics by Stuart Hamblen in 1954. These really are appropriate today when it comes to the need for groups to come together in meditation.

Open up your heart and let my love come in
Open up your heart and let my life begin
The sun's gonna shine, there'll be blue skies again
When you open up your heart and let my love come in.

I know you've been hurt by an old love affair
But darling, don't blame me I wasn't even there
Your long lonely nights I will bring to an end
When you open up your heart and let my love come in.

Open up your heart and let my love come in
Open up your heart and let my life begin
The sun's gonna shine, there'll be blue skies again
When you open up your heart and let my love come in.

Someone before me has treated you like dirt
Someone before me has made your heart hurt
Your long lonely nights I will bring to an end
When you open up your heart and let my love come in.

Open up your heart and let my love come in
Open up your heart and let my life begin
The sun's gonna shine, there'll be blue skies again
When you open up your heart and let my love come in.

When you open up your heart and let my love come in...

It was sung by a group called ‘The Flesh Failures’ (Galt MacDermot; Tom Pierson) in 1979 when the film Hair came out in the cinemas.

The beginning of the film opens with the following lyrics and I have added a link to a video so you can watch it and be as inspired again if you watched it all those years ago. You will of course see the obvious link to the main theme of this newsletter – Aquarius & the ending of all the lies and the beginning of truth.

*"When the moon is in the Seventh House
And Jupiter aligns with Mars
Then peace will guide the planets
And love will steer the stars*

*This is the dawning of the Age of Aquarius
The Age of Aquarius
Aquarius! Aquarius!*

*Harmony and understanding
Sympathy and trust abounding
No more falsehoods or derisions
Golden living dreams of visions
Mystic crystal revelation
And the mind's true liberation
Aquarius! Aquarius!*

*When the moon is in the Seventh House
And Jupiter aligns with Mars
Then peace will guide the planets
And love will steer the stars*

*This is the dawning of the Age of Aquarius
The Age of Aquarius
Aquarius! Aquarius!*

*Let the sun shine, Let the sun shine in
.....ditto a few times*

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Cb8luHdpR84> "HAIR" - "AQUARIUS" (6mins)

It still stirs my heart today and it feels particularly poignant as one of the stars in the film, Treat Williams, was killed in a car crash last year. (Dec 51- June 23). It was Treat that played the character 'Berger' in the film – the character who never returned from Vietnam.

Group meditation Summer harmony time

It seems right to now mention the group intent at the coming harmony time meditations. It is to transform Grief into Joy. All around we are witnessing the imbalance, so to counter this within by creating an internal balance. Joy is part of love, as is peace, positivity and courage.

Again, these are silent meditations, except for the occasional intuitive humming or vowel sounding and we do sometimes prepare in advance with drumming. We also ask that no one attends if they have been taking any mind altering substances.

Future hope

I wanted to also leave something that reminds us of hope in this World and just what extraordinary things humans can do – if they remove themselves from all the lies and the evil few. All the billions spent on building more and more weapons must become a thing of the past. All the billions spent by global agricultural corporations on pesticide driven non organic toxic farming is not the way forward. The largest shareholders of these businesses have this 'Neo-Frankist', parasitical way of thinking and it's time for humanity to wake up and know the alternative is so much better for our future.

Here are just a couple of videos that I find really positive and which gives us hope for the future.

The following is a short video titled 'How They Transformed Desert Into Fertile Farmland & Forests'
<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=RBP2uRQk5pQ> (10mins)

I particularly liked the quote in it "The solutions are embarrassingly simple"

How They Make 6 Figures Turning Sandy Desert Into Farmland Oasis

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=MFADnpUXxUQ> (14min30s)

Other section

The London seminars- What is happening to the World and what must we do – The evolution of consciousness and learning the secrets of group meditation.

This is the second of the two 'What is happening to the World?' seminars. The first was held on the 20th April and this was on the Universal prophecies. It covered what we have been told us about what is coming. This seminar looks at what we are being told about how we should prepare in our meditations and specifically group meditation.

This will be the first time the different functions and roles that each person has in a group in order to work with both the energy lines and the energy grids

We will also be looking at some of the things that have been learnt from alchemy, Black Elk's great vision, Jung's communications with the Elemental Ha and his suns, cones and his enigmatic runes/glyphs.

Group meditation now seems to be an extension to individual prayer and meditation. What is covered will help you come to improve what you are currently doing individually.

There are two chances to come along to the group meditation seminar and these are on the 20th June and the 6th July. There are only a very few places left on the 20th and the moment you should definitely get a place on the 6th. There is also a one day workshop on the 22nd July when we look at each of the practical steps in group meditation and the three progressive models. By the end of the day you will be able to tailor your own preferred way of facilitating a group that is meditating together. This will also help you identify that natural roles and functions that each individual in the group will be drawn to. To gain admission to the workshop does mean you attended one of the group meditation seminars.

All attendees will be eligible to a sacred path modules facilitator £100 discount offer when you become a facilitator.

The Emerald Awakening 6th – 9th August 2024 <https://www.earthstar.academy/EA888>

I have been kindly asked by Xi Earthstar to do a couple of talks at the Hotel where the Seminar is being run (The Johnstown Estates hotel) and to run a group meditation at the Hill of Tara - an ancient seat of power in Ireland. The first of the two talks is on the main energy lines in the World – The Emperor Dragons and the larger type 4 alignments that cross Ireland and where their intersections/ nodes are. The second is on what we have learnt about group meditation and how groups of people working on these sacred sites can awaken all Ireland into an evolution of consciousness.

The Hotel is in a beautiful part of the country just to the West of Dublin. If you would like to come along, ticket information can be found via the link above and some more details about it are found below:-

The Emerald Awakening was birthed out of a Dream, to reconnect with ancient Soul Family, restore the Earth's Connection to the Universal Tree of Life & amplify Eternal Union codes of Creation into the Planetary Grid to Inaugurate the Emerald Prophecy.

The Hill of Tara is where Kings are crowned. Through this week of workshops, activations & Planetary Grid ceremonies, you will initiate your own True Inner King & Queen Codes & step forth as a Union-Centered Leader of a new Civilization of Peace, Harmony, Divine Creativity & High Consciousness.

In this talk, I will be talking about my observations of the most powerful energy lines on the planet, the Emperor Dragon Lines, and how they are changing and growing in intensity. I will also show you the most up to date maps of where these dragon lines and where their intersections can be found. The main energy alignments and their sacred sites in Ireland will also be discussed and why group meditation at these places helps us so much to prepare for what is coming.

Ciara Young – an Irish Gatekeeper & Wisdom Story Keeper will be holding a workshop on Ressurrecting the Soul of the World

Over aeons of time, Ancient Ones have gathered on this sacred land of the Emerald Isle, remembering always in the core of their hearts the promise to meet again at the turning of the tide and turn the page together to a Holy Order long-prophesised to be forthcoming at the end of times. Sacred codes of the Holy Mother have long been held safe in these lands, awaiting the divinely-ordained moment for their full restoration as gifts to humanity and all of life. Together, we will resurrect the soul of the world through putting back what has been lost, turning the keys to ignite Ireland as the luminous beacon of hope for the Earth she is destined to be.

Zoë Daly – An Oracle for Eriu the Goddess of Eire & Founder of Eriu Wool will be holding a workshop on the Celtic Goddesses of Sovereignty

Ériu Wool was seeded and guided by Zoe's ancestral lineage of the Celtic Sovereignty Goddesses. In this workshop, you'll discover the history and mythology of these benevolent Celtic guides. Weaving in the wisdom of these solar goddesses and gods of the Tuatha Dé Danaan, Zoe shares how they have shaped her life's mission and guided her spiritual and physical work. You'll learn some of their teachings and how they are here to guide us at this time of prophecy.

Charlie Battin from the EarthStar Academy is an Ancestral Tale Weaver, Somatic Wizard & Mystic DJ. He will be running a workshop on Ancient Celtic-Hyperborean Soul Retrieval

In this Activation, we will enter a space of compassion, reverence, and receptivity to the living memories of our Soul's Ancient Celtic roots. We will open our bodies to become a safe home for the stray fragments of our lineage to re-join the blood flow of our living current - so we can be truly rooted and remembered in the wisdom and belonging from which we have come. Through this process, we each become a living Pillar of Magic, Remembrance, Wisdom & Activation for these ancient Codes to re-awaken in the Earth.

Lyle Cates of Jaguar Rose Medicine – a Celtic Oracle Priestess & Chinese Medicine Dragon Scroll Keeper will be running a workshop on ReBirthing the Cosmic-Planetary Tree of Life

Souls of beings and planets are similarly seeded into form through a delicate process of Incarnation. Through the lens of ancient Chinese medicine, the meridians are a sacred geometry map for how our soul purpose gets expressed into form.

Ireland holds the seed-atom blueprint for lightbody of the World. In this activation, we will travel back to the moment of conception of the primary meridians of the earth. We will simultaneously activate mycelial- tree communication networks within the Earth and our human bodies. This is the ancient knowing with our bodies that carries the codes to Re-member what has been dismembered.

Niels Rouwen from 'Adventures in Quiet Places' is an Archaeologist / Tranceworker & Storyteller.

Niels will be running a Sacred Sites Tour: Ireland is ancient. It was already old when there were fewer stars overhead. Before the forests were cleared. Before the mighty megaliths got erected... Before the great Irish Elk found a home here... There was already power. Flowing. Seeking. Pregnant with potential.

You are invited back to Inis Fáil - the Isle of Destiny - to once again dwell among the places of power. As stewards. Megalithic stone circles. Ancient passage tombs. Ruined monasteries in long-forgotten valleys. To do ceremony, bring your gifts & bear witness to the Emerald Awakening.

Finding Rowena – The Grail Hunter - <https://roryduff.com/the-grailhunter/>

Several people have kindly asked if I was going to turn my book 'The Grail Hunter' into an audible book. A chance opportunity has now opened up to do this in a way that I had always been drawn to.

Rather than one person read out the whole book – including reading the voices of each character, I really wanted to have different voices for each character. This does of course make it a much longer piece of work to produce due to all the audio editing, but I feel it will be enjoyed more because of it.

The challenge now is to find someone with the right voice to play the part of Rowena.

Some very lovely people have in the past kindly offered to help me in my work, so I thought it would be fun to ask readers of my newsletters to help me find the right person to read the character of Rowena.

So, if you think you know someone who could do this really well, and would like to do so, please send an email to admin@sacrednetwork.org registering an interest.

I am looking for a young female voice that sounds as though they are in their mid 20's and without any particular English accent so that it will appeal to everyone. I will then send out three short pieces of dialogue from the book that can be read and recorded and sent back to this email address. We can then sort the most appropriate voice from those that are sent in. We will then be in touch after that. A new aspiring actress with talent would be absolutely wonderful but it all comes down to the voice and a person's reading ability to make the story come alive as it is written in the 'first person singular. (The 'I')

There are also many other characters in the story and if you fancy reading for one of these 'cameo' roles, please also get in touch saying which character you would like to record for. For example you might be someone who can speak with a broad Australian accent and feel you could speak for the character Ethan Parker, who Rowena meets on the train to Paris. Anyway, I would love to hear from anyone who would like to help.

For me, this book is not just a novel. It was written to also help introduce people to the subject of Geobiology and to also introduce people to the fine art of Synchronicity – how to spot it and how to explore it in order to find your own personal journey in life that is appropriate for you.

Founding members Sacred Network update news

As you may be aware the Sacred Network website has been having some problems recently and is still not fully functional.

I have recently had some detailed discussions with the engineer from Edge who has been looking into how the website can be repaired and brought up to the full specifications we had when we originally set out on this project.

When the site was built it was done using the Word press system and it had over 50 plugins to give it all the functionality it needed. Indeed it was quite a feat of web design

However is was one of these plugins that was found to be where some 'bad actors' had got in and uploaded some malware code. A deep clean of all the code was carried out and the site was loaded back up last week-end for testing. Within minutes, there was another attack. This allowed the engineer to find and source where the code was hidden. It is now thought to be the last piece of malware coding on the website. I would like to add here that at no point was anybody's individual data was breached. The database was completely secured at all times.

However, in discussions going forward, it was felt that as it is in its current state, it is still a slight security risk with the engineer saying that this could happen again as it was a word press site. Word press is quite an old system now and really only used for small and local business that do not have that much traffic. It was also felt that the 'attack' could have been much worse and that we had been lucky.

Initially we thought we could put the original site back up albeit with a slightly reduced functionality in the meantime. New registration would have had to have been curtailed as the email notification system was one of the problem areas with the problematical plugin.

Our aim with the original website was always to complete a second phase of development that would put the site on a firmer financial footing. This now has had to be side-lined because of the problem.

We had also identified an area that we knew would be massively helpful and user friendly – that of enabling the messaging between members. A mobile app with notifications could mean a departure from emails and having to use other systems.

Our discussions now on how best to move forward have led to the thinking that we need to put up a completely new foundational site – one not using Word press but instead open source programs that offer much more security and protection and one that can have much greater potential to grow.

To be clear, although some of the functionality is being replicated it does require a complete redesign and rebuild on a new open source CMS, so it's not a quick patch up job or a "temporary" site, rather it is the foundations of the full new site which we will be putting the funding proposal together for.

The Initial site has shown that the concept is successful with nearly 5000 members registered world-wide without any real marketing. We have also now identified areas that could bring huge increases in members – like the enhanced member to member communication.

This of course will take time and money and we are mindful that the goodwill and support of the founding members needs to be taken into consideration and protected going forward.

We also have to take into consideration the headwinds that we have encountered with trying to implement the second phase of the website and the difficulties we found trying to set up a charity with today's banking terms and conditions.

What we are now looking at going ahead with is to turn the Sacred Network into a business with a foundation where that foundation starts with the goodwill 'share value' based on the existing website and its achievement based on a proportion of the full amount of the investment needed. An initial percentage of the shares, to be determined, will also be offered first to existing members - if any of them would like to invest in the new company.

The remaining capital will then be sourced from within the tech finance industry who are used to investing in these ventures. This offering will follow a little later after the members have a chance to register their interest.

The total sum is needed is yet to be fully formalised but it will allow the Sacred Network to be placed on a much firmer footing that will facilitate its membership growth to over a million.

This of course will mean looking at ways for how investors and the foundation might benefit financially from their investment.

What is envisaged is a free tier of membership that will give similar benefits as the initial site provided. Then a couple of other subscription layers offering more benefits for a small monthly or annual cost.

A service payment system is also envisaged as well as an affiliate scheme that will allow people to either earn commission themselves or to divert those earnings into the foundation account. This account can then later be used to help build its share ownership with a first option to buy back shares from any investors looking to sell their shares in the future.

In this way, the foundation could eventually become the majority shareholder of a successful company whose values are aligned with the original mission of the Sacred Network website.

We are now looking at putting together an investor prospectus that will show how long this will all take, and at what cost and what potential profit there is.

What we would like to do, to make a start to this, is to put up this new foundational site. We can then migrate everyone's accounts into that. We are aiming to have the sacred sites map up with the comments so that people can still access that. What we might not be able to do initially is to get to the same level of functionality as the old site at this stage.

I am sending out this message to you now, as a founding members and your initial generous commitment to the sacred network, as you have a right to know first about the problem we have encountered and how we propose to deal with it.

I intend to also send this message, along with its opportunity, to all the sacred network members shortly afterwards. At that point we will be looking to collect any early commitments to funding into a new limited company that will be set up to get the first phase of the new site up and running.

The allocation of initial shares for this initial 'closed' shared offering has yet to be worked out but is expected to be announced in mid-June.

If you would like to register an interest in being one of these early investors, please email me on 2@sacrednetwork.org

I would like to end by saying how positive we feel in regard to the future of the Sacred Network and all the benefits it can offer to everyone who is looking to find similar spiritual thinking.

The concept of finding and joining groups around the World is becoming more and more popular for many reasons – not least for the way that it helps the growing awakening of mankind. The numbers of people visiting the sacred sites has also been incredible as well as their comments. Many more sites will also be put up on the map over the next years as we believe that this is a really important part of the awakening process.

Many thanks for your time in reading this and I look forward to hearing from you if you wish to become an early investor in this new venture.

Conclusion

As usual I set out to write a short newsletter this month but synchronicities struck and it compelled me to add in further information – hopefully it will resonate with you all the more because of that.

Thank you for your time reading this, it is much appreciated. Remember that all my newsletters are in pdf form on my website. Please do forward them on to anyone who might enjoy reading them.

With gratitude

Rory Duff