

August Newsletter

Thank you all for your continued interest in my research. This newsletter continues in the same theme as the last with updates in the variety of areas that I have listed below.

1. Earth Energy news

As part of my ongoing research, and whilst still trying to follow a vocational path, I managed to get up to Rosslyn chapel last weekend. It was lovely to meet some terrific ladies from the US up there as well as new friends via some delightful synchronicity. I am also very grateful to the Director of the Rosslyn chapel Trust for allowing me to film inside the chapel before the public were allowed in. The reason for this was that I was aiming to do a comparison between this Knights Templar chapel and the one at Montsaunes in the South of France (as seen in my Holy Grail Documentary). There are distinct similarities and differences and, when time allows, I will be producing another documentary to outline these and to try and summarise what I think was going on in the minds of the builders of these two places. The reason for mentioning this now though is down to one of these differences – the Energy lines. Whereas Montsaunes chapel has extremely strong energies and a powerful node inside, a rather strange and surprising observation was found at Rosslyn.

What you might have rightly expected was that this special Scottish site would also be situated on a strong earth energy line node. Indeed though it was not. It is stranger than that though. There is one type 3 line running through the place, two type 2 lines and two type one lines. None of these though crossed over in one place. In other words there was not even a node at the site but there did seem to be room for one. There were enough energy lines and pairs of lines in the vicinity such that a node could be repaired. On asking permission to do this though, I was given a No. I asked if anyone else should do this and also got a No.

On the few occasions in the past when I have encountered this same situation, I have gone on to ask if it should be repaired in the near future. Again in this case I got a No. I have learnt over the years to not worry about these responses as I cannot possibly begin to work out the complexity of whether it is right or wrong to move the lines and repair nodes, but I have often wondered why I get the No response.

In this case, as I was already in curiosity mode looking at all the symbols in the church, I began to ask the why question. Sometimes the answers just do not come though until other information is obtained. In this case I had one more place to visit as two people, independent of each other, had suggested I visit a nearby place called Temple. It is also called Ballandtradoch and it used to be the HQ for the Knights Templar in that region. At Temple there are the remains of an old small, Kirk. It is a beautifully peaceful place and indeed there is a small node inside it made from Type 1 and type 2 lines. This is in clear contrast to the energetic situation at Rosslyn chapel and likely showed that serious prayer and meditation took place at Temple. What then for Rosslyn? Why no node there? At the moment, and I have still to study the footage, I have come to consider that the chapel plays a much more different, but still very important, function. This place seemed to be built as some kind of celebration. It was a place that opened the mind to new thoughts on the true nature of reality and its divinity. More on this will be covered in the documentary.

2. Awakening Consciousness news

In previous newsletters and Social media posts I wrote about the waves of cosmic energy that are coming and that in particular we will be hit in the last two weeks of July. The first thing to say is that this last wave was very different from the last one. Back in December the wave felt very heavy on the heart as though reprogramming or some kind of change was going on. This time, it seems to have affected people differently. For those who did not feel much in December, it seems they felt like they were being hit harder this time. For those who were hit hard last time, this time the waves of energy seem to bring on a form of light headed dreamy quality as though our perceptions were being targeted.

On a personal note, there have been even more synchronicities occurring. If you are trying to follow your vocational path, this would naturally be expected. This time though there has been a serious jump in quality and number.

With regards to the next wave, it seems likely to be coming this December.

3. Science News

A big thanks to Noel and Lucy who guided me towards the Dynamic Earth International conference at Bath University in July. There were some excellent speakers including one from Wal Thornhill – Mr Electric Universe himself.

Of particular interest to me at the conference was the Safire project. This is a project that has set out to mimic the conditions found within the Sun in the laboratory. This is based on the Sun being formed by plasma reactions (Electric Universe theory) rather than fusion reactions with hydrogen explosions.

What was interesting was that the team has now managed to produce a number of different elements from the Periodic table. Previously it was thought that these elements could only be produced by fusion reactions. Folks, this may not seem much, but this is serious stuff. At stake here is the whole future of physics and Astronomy. It seems now we are in for a huge shift in thinking in regards to what is going on in our Universe and in Space itself. Plasma (ionised gas) seems to be at the very heart of the creation of galaxies. It is not going to be about Space Time any more and the 'curvature' of Space. Thousands of theoretical physicists are already working as hard as possible to stop this, but so far all efforts at finding Dark Matter and Dark Energy have failed.

Why I am also interested in this is that at the heart of the galaxies we see toroidal plasma shapes. This is a natural shape that can be expected throughout the Universe. If these Torus shapes ring any bells here it is because it is the same shape as the sound energy found at Symmetrical nodes during the harmony times.

It will not be long now when plasma physics can explain the production of all the elements found in the Universe. When it does and the Holy sacrificial Relativity cow has finally brought down, we might begin to also see a revolution in new plasma technologies.

4. Social media news

My Facebook page 'Leyline Science LeyLine Science Links Secret Societies and Hidden Knowledge to Prophecies', is currently looking at how the Pyramids were built and it is beginning to attract a lot of attention. The main difference from all the other theories is that I am suggesting they were not built by the Egyptians at all but 6500 years earlier when the Sahara was green and the water levels were much higher. Why not see what you think.

Coming up in future posts is why they were built. The answer may well shock you as it has relevance in our lives today. Again – no one has put forward this theory before. Motivation to build such a large monument must have been huge. This can only mean something really dramatic must have driven these people to do this.

5. Courses, Seminars, Workshops news

I am running the Grail Seminar on Saturday the 17th August at Stanton Drew. I still have some places left so, aside from the discount you can get via signing up to these newsletters, I will be offering each person a free Leyline guide booklet. If you would like to see what others thought of the day – click on this link

6. Book news

Having finished Stephen Hoellers book 'The Seven Sermons to the Dead', as written about in my last newsletter, I have started on Jung's Red book. This is an absolute must read for anyone thinking of doing Shamanic journeying. It is packed with revelations and there seems to be more interesting information in some of the footnotes sometimes when compared to the actual text.

I will be writing notes on this at the end of the year and doing a seminar on what can be learnt from Jung next year. In the meantime though, Did you know that Jung had his own Holy Grail dream? In the beginning of the dream we find the Grail had not appeared yet in the Castle. This is perhaps another sign that the Grail was actually something invisible – just like I surmise in my Holy Grail Found documentary. What many people do not know though is that Carl Jung's wife – Emma Jung spent 30 years researching the Grail Legend and then writing about her work. Her husband agreed to stay out of her work so never investigated it further himself.

7. Extra

I am planning a very special trip to Spain next year where I will have eight places available for people to come along on. It is not going to be cheap though and will be priced on a par with most similar ancient tours that are held in foreign countries. We will be visiting all the key places mentioned in Grail Found in Spain and I will be teaching some dowsing and doing some lectures. If you are interested in coming, please let me know as it will give me an idea of the level of interest. It is likely to be in June 2020.

All the very best and thanks for your time reading this.
