

June Newsletter

Thank you all for your continued interest in my research. This newsletter continues in the same theme as the last with updates in the variety of areas that I have listed below.

1. Earth Energy news

Everything we come across has its own energy field. We ourselves have a gravitational field, an electromagnetic field and several vibrational fields. You could probably consider that all these go to make up our Aura. These fields are constant, dynamic and ever changing. We will probably never fully understand all of it along with all the continuing interrelationships. At best we can get a snapshot picture in time and with consecutive pictures we may begin to understand some basic rules. Learning about these things though, and about the two way influence that results with everything and every being around us, is something that life is all about. Our emotions are heavily wrapped up in all of this, as is our changing mental & spiritual state.

With all this in mind, this month I began to look into how Earth Energies might interact with Tree Energies. Mindful too that behind all energy is Universal intelligence and also of the fact that some trees are several hundred years old, I began to just make initial observations. The trick is not to jump to understanding mode too soon. What helped was working with an Expert Tree Dowser. This was Gordon Field (<https://artistreedowser.com/>). Gordon and I were working on a large country estate where he had discovered 5 'beacon' trees. In England these are Oak trees that are incredibly old (700years) but that have re-seeded several times over thousands of years. Other Oak trees of this age exist but for reasons not fully known as of yet, these have not become 'beacon' trees.

The energy fields from these trees extend for over a mile and their influence on the surrounding environment and its wild life is significant. Having worked on this Estate two years ago and having fully repaired six earth energy nodes there, the place was already buzzing with energy. To have 5 'beacon' trees in one place is rare according to Gordon who is only aware of one or two places like this in the UK.

What I wanted to try and find out what relationship the location of these trees had with the Earth Energies. Although this is early days, in all cases, it seems that only the Type 1 lines were associated with them. Each line in the pair ran either side of these great Oaks to within a couple of meters.

This certainly showed a particular relationship exists between these Trees and the Earth Energies. It is possible that they each would assist the other as time and events perhaps dictated. Why just the Type 1's? Why did they pass either side of the huge trunks? What other relationships might exist? How did the more vertical elemental energy connect with all this? There are still so many questions. Answers to these though could well improve our knowledge of how to get the best out of our Agriculture. If I have raised your curiosity, then I have succeeded here in my aim with this writing. Why not learn to dowse yourself, if you have not yet done so, and then go out and find more questions and answers. More people doing this is really needed.

2. Awakening Consciousness news

This is becoming a massive subject that so few are aware of and even less are talking about. There is an interconnectedness that is growing too. Over the last six weeks what has been grabbing my attention is the synchronicity being presented around the Divine Feminine and the need for rebalancing. This seems to now be also connected to the Virgin Mary and even the Marian prophecies and a delightful turn of events which is unfolding with several unrelated groups who have contacted me from around the World who now seem to be all meeting up at Rosslyn chapel on the same date and afternoon in July – all through no organisation of mine. When you get this happening though, it is a message to act too, so my wife and I will also be heading up to Rosslyn on that date. I will let you know more about what happens in the coming newsletters.

One of these synchronicities also, literally, connected up to the last Emperor Dragon that arrived on Earth this year. (It will be fully here in July too). I was made aware of a beautiful place in the US called Holy Hill (<https://www.holyhill.com/>). Here there is a Basilica and National Shrine to Mary. It is in Wisconsin, USA and as you might expect it sits on top of the only hill for miles around. My 'Earth Energy senses' immediately started to twitch when I saw it and sure enough, after some remote dowsing, there was a broken node there that needed repairing. Having done that, and it is now a 4th Order node (like Glastonbury, Jerusalem, Mecca, St Michaels Mount), it needed connecting up to the new Emperor Dragon that cuts across part of North America.

This little adventure in dowsing led to finding even more interesting sacred sites – some well-known and some connected to early settlers over 10000 years ago. More on that another time though. What was wonderful to hear later on was the feedback from the lovely lady who had been drawn to relocate to this region from living hundreds of miles away. It was her who contacted me originally as she felt I needed to be aware of the place. Her innate ability instantly recognised the increasing and surging energies two weeks after the repair and I only wish I could report more on what she said and what is now happening there, but it was told to me in confidence.

If I could get across just one thing it is this. Meditating on symmetrical, repaired nodes, is very powerful, life changing and vocation filling. Do come along to a gathering on the harmony days and, if you cannot make it, tune in on a sacred site near to you at midday on those days.

3. Science News

This piece of writing here is to test your logic. If you had some money given to you to invest would you go to the casino and risk it all on either Black or Red in a game of Roulette to get rich quickly? Or. Would you look to spread your money over several different investment areas? (Treasury stock, shares, property, fixed interest deposits & precious metals). This would minimise your risk and potentially get a greater chance of more moderate returns over the medium to long term?

Putting all your eggs in one basket is very risky but that is what mainstream science does nearly all the time. Only one theory is permitted and practically all the research money, budgets and grants are given to scientists working with this one theory. Scientific papers in so called 'prestigious' journals will only get published if they portend to support the 'accepted' mainstream theory. This practice is found across nearly all sciences. Mainstream Archaeology will not accept that advanced civilizations could have been around on this Earth 12,000 years ago - despite all the evidence. Psychology will not accept the possibility that the Mind could survive after death. They will only allow 'Reductionism' that states that the mind being purely a result of brain function. Relativity theory has become a religion and its 'Priests' refuse to even consider that the Electric Universe theory is explaining far more observations.

The only way these high risk strategies can be stopped is to question the mentality of having all of mankind's eggs in one basket. It is far too risky when so much new technology could result from new lines of enquiry.

So if you are confronted, or presented, with a conversation that seems to rely on just one way of thinking and research all you can do is to start to sow seeds of doubt. Telling the 'stubborn minded' something different will fall on deaf ears. Instead ask what is the alternative way of thinking? Ask - Could you be wrong? Ask - What are the pro's and con's of each way of thinking.

Mainstream Scientists may not like these questions but Scientists should not be thinking in terms of 'liking' or 'feeling' or 'believing' when it comes to what is real and what may or may not be true and factual. Questions are the way to go as these make people think for themselves.

Opinions too are also of no help when it comes to science. Certainty should also not be present in their way of thinking. There is always at least 1% chance a person could be wrong since we do not know everything. Even the rules or laws of the Universe are really just a human snapshot in time based on recent observations in a small local region of space.

4. Social media news

With so many people being de-platformed on Social media sites for reasons which are just not explainable (Large fitness sites for example being taken down because they advertise healthy nutritional food that is made by companies who are at odds with large multinational food corporations), it has become necessary to look for alternative sites to sites like Facebook and You Tube. Demonetisation is also something that is happening as well. The latter won't affect me too much though. I have 280,000 views on You Tube video Holy Grail Found, which is great for just 6 months (<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=z4ZOzuZy8-E&t=752s>). Unfortunately it's not the numbers of views that you get paid for, it's a percentage share of the advertising. To give you an idea, this video has earned me less than £150, which is a tiny fraction of what it cost to make, but which was not made though for financial gain but to get an important message out. Other regular videos with far less views can make much more.

So the reason I write this is to mention that I too will also not be placing my 'eggs in one basket' and will soon also be putting my video's and posts on other platforms. So please look out for this information in a future newsletter.

If you are not already following me on Facebook though, the last post begins to touch on the civilization before the Ancient Sumerians and Vedic races and the one that could well have come after the last Atlantean age. This is right at the point in time where, according to Rudolf Steiner, human consciousness started to change. 5. Courses, Seminars, Workshops news

This month I ran the first one day long Grail Seminar/ workshop. To be able to attend, you had to have read both my Grail books. It was the only way I could deliver the really necessary, pertinent, relevant and delicate information that had to really be kept out of the books as well as provide the opportunity to practically experience some of the key elements in this lost knowledge.

I am pleased to say that the day went really well and the manual for the key learning points encouraged some really great thinking and debate. For me, I am now encouraged to go on a run another one in August.

I intentionally wanted to keep the numbers down so there were only twelve of us on the day. What was really great though was that we had six women and six men. Everyone noticed the balance this gave the group as well as within the meditation in the stone circle at the end of the day. As I have mentioned earlier in this newsletter, the rebalancing and the growing strength of the divine feminine was already evident to us all in this group.

For me, what was really terrific was the level of knowledge and experience that everyone brought with them and so kindly shared.

Here are just some of the kind comments on the day from a few of them

“a unique learning experience, spent in the company of a very knowledgeable group of people.”

“The day was absolutely packed with relevant information.”

“unique course content”

“.....weaving together so many modalities and pieces of information to make sense of where we are headed”

“I came away having learned a great deal more about the Grail Journey”

“was genuinely saddened to have to leave the company of the group and go home”

The next Seminar I am preparing for though is the Evolution of consciousness Seminar. This is open to anyone and it does not matter if you have not read any of my work. This is the second of three seminars I am planning (The third is the Grail Quest Seminar).

The Evolution of consciousness seminar is perhaps the most important one of all three of them as it concerns what is happening to us right now. We look at the science in detail and how it affects our mind and our heart and we look at the great cycles in time and how these related to all the major prophecies. More importantly though there are a series of practical exercises that we build up throughout the day that you can learn and even go away and teach others. The importance of being able to do these well, will be critical if we are to mentally survive what has already started as it builds in intensity towards the transition.

I have to say that recently I have been shocked at what I have come across. Each of us will be affected at different times with these things. I knew from reading and understanding what was coming from the prophecies what to expect. Some more sensitive, perhaps more psychic people, will be moving into more advanced stages of this transition, whilst the rest of us have a longer journey before we get to these stages. What has shocked me is that only this last month, I have come across people 1:1 and remotely who have already experienced these advance stages of transition. When dreams and reality waft and weave together when you are wide awake and walking across a field, you need a strong mind to cope with the experience. When you slip in and out between Worlds, you need to know what to expect when that happens and how to cope. This is scary stuff and this seminar hopes to prepare people as best as possible for things to come.

There is a link to a discount page at the bottom of this newsletter if you would like to come along to the very first one on the 15th June. More details can also be found here <https://roryduff.com/evolution-of-consciousness-seminar/>

I ran two more dowsing courses in Bath this last month and have to say that it constantly amazes me at not only how everyone works so well together in a learning environments but also how people seem to connect up on these days. What is commonly heard said afterwards is how much they enjoyed being in the company of other like-minded people. So my message here, if you are feeling surrounded by too many materialistic, selfish, TV & Social media addicts, then why not join us on one of the next courses.

In my classification of Earth Energy lines, there are over 10 main categories of lines, I teach people to attune to four of them in and around the inner city centre of Bath. The day is finished by taking the group to an area where they are told to find what they can and that any of these four lines could be in this area and going in all possible directions. The success rate so far has been that everyone has found at least one of the four lines and got it heading in the right direction and over 80% of them got it all right. I might add that I get a few seasoned dowzers attending the course occasionally and they have never considered trying to differentiate between the energy lines before. This is an important thing to learn if we are to progress the art.

Anyone calling themselves a competent dowser of Earth energy lines should be able to distinguish between at least 8 different lines and be able to map them. Why this is important to me is that finding their intersections, the nodes, and learning to repair them, if necessary, is crucially important if we are to increase the harmony in the land. Repairing the nodes is partly about knowing what types of lines you have coming together and this is why it is so important.

6. Book news

I have no updates here at the moment but the third book in my Grail series, which is called Grail Ground, contains information on the locations of the Emperor Dragons. This knowledge is steadily growing as I have been mapping them remotely. I will soon be planning to visit some of the key sites for more local material for this book.

My novel 'The Grail Hunter', which is not available yet, has been entered into the Bath Novel Prize. The deadline to do this was the 2nd June and they announce a shortlist of winners at the end of July. So if you would like to send out positive vibes about this into the Ether, that would be very kind of you. The story is about a young woman called Rowena Colleen trying to find her way in life. She discovers the Cathars and their concept of the Grail and realises it is about becoming a better person by trying to follow her vocational path in life. I am hoping it will be ready to come out later this year.

7. Extra

Just a reminder here about the coming Harmony day on the 20th June. I will be at Oliver's castle in Wiltshire for a midday meditation if you would like to join us. If you cannot, please join in wherever you are at 12.15 for about 30 mins. If you can get to a nearby sacred site that is even better and if you know you can get to a symmetrical node, better still. Remember be careful what you wish for, don't stay in the energies too long, they are powerful at these times. Ask permission of the site guardian too and their help and a key part is to send love out into the World. Imagining you are part of a network of people all doing this at the same time seems to power up everything too.

Wishing you all the very best

Rory
