

November 2019 Newsletter

Thank you all for your continued interest in my research. This newsletter continues in the same theme as the last with updates in the variety of areas that I have listed below.

1. Earth Energy news

Most of you who have been reading my newsletters will know that, in the preparations for my upcoming trip to the USA for a couple of workshop seminars and dowsing courses, I have been remote dowsing the main type 4 and type 5 earth energy lines that cross over the country. I am still in the middle of doing this but I had got to the stage where I was beginning to wonder which type 4 lines in the US would match up to the type 4 lines heading in that direction from Europe.

We are actually talking here about some seriously important lines as well. Firstly the Apollo / Athena lines head towards the US. The Royston, Anglesey, Newgrange lines head that way too. There were also type 4 lines in France and Spain that also head in that direction.

In normal circumstances, tracking lines across land, it is quite easy as there are landmarks along the way to use to see which side the lines would pass them. The problem with the Atlantic Ocean is that there are no distinguishing marks that can be used.

This led to seeing if I could extrapolate the ley, the alignment across the ocean to see whether it matched up any of the lines I was finding in the US. This was actually where I made a mistake though. I assumed that the alignments would be straight.

Leys, or Leylines, as we all know are straight so why would they not be the same running across the ocean?

Having just made this assumption that they would be straight, I tried to match the type 4 lines up either side of the Atlantic. For many hours, both dowsing and physically aligning the lines on Google Earth, I struggled to work out why they just would not all match up. In the end it looked as though there had been some sideways dislocation. The lines were all running in the right direction but on the US side they were many kilometres South East of where they should have been expected.

I knew the dowsing was correct for several reasons, so there had to be something else going on. It was several days before the thought emerged. I had still had to image of a model earth in my head with the model high and low pressure, great circle, patterns made from the expanding spherical standing waves coming from the inner core. (The model image can be seen on Post 1 on my Instagram #thegeobiologist).

The thing was, the Earth itself is not a model. For starters it is not spherical and secondly the very nature of standing sound waves is to reflect back vibrations at each and every change in rock density. What I had failed to consider, due to my making an assumption that these Type 4 lines must be following a straight alignment, was that the Atlantic Ocean was above a thin Oceanic tectonic plate. Either side of the Ocean were the European and American Continental plates and these were much, much thicker. It is also quite likely that the thickness of the US plate would be different from the thickness of the European plate.

This would mean that spherical standing waves of sound emanating out from the inner core would bounce and reflect off different depths of density changes either side of the Atlantic. One of the biggest density contrasts would be at the base of the tectonic plates and the upper mantle.

With these two large differences, the non-spherical Earth and the different thicknesses of the tectonic plates, there was no way the energy lines would conform to a model. That there would be a natural shift across the Atlantic would almost certainly be expected.

This now not only explained why I was observing the South Easterly shift in alignments but also something else that had been puzzling me for many years.

In one of my first discussions with the great dowser Hamish Miller, at his home in Cornwall, we spoke about the naturally curving alignment of the Apollo / Athena line. He stated quite categorically that the alignment was not a great circle that went around the earth (like the Equator is a great circle). Instead it bent around into a more Easterly direction as it approached the end of the Mediterranean Sea. In other words the alignment (Ley) was not actually straight and the two earth energy lines – the Apollo and Athena – were criss crossing over each other and following a bending lines and not a straight alignment.

This curving line is now possibly explainable with the difference in crustal thicknesses between the European tectonic plate and the African Plate and the Asian plate. All three plates would begin to have a greater or lesser effect on the underground sound waves as they came up through the Earth depending on where the surface location was.

As the underground topographic density contrasts changed, so would the nature of the high and low pressure zones that lead to the actual energy line location on the surface of the Earth.

It just goes to show how much we still have to learn about these energy lines and how much we have to be wary of making assumptions.

So in future, Energy lines do seem to follow straight line alignments on a local and even sometimes a regional basis. However over an international scale, and when the line crosses plate boundaries, we must possibly expect these lines to curve and deviate a bit depending on the nature of these plate boundaries and their thicknesses.

Since we technically now do not have straight alignments for any great distances, it is worth remembering that the earth energy lines were on Earth before humans based on the hypothesis that the inner core is producing them.

The sacred sites were found when humans came along as these were places that had some beneficial attributes when meditation on them. After that humans discovered that these sacred sites seemed to be found along straight lines. Alfred Watkins being perhaps the first modern human to find this and write about it in his book called the Old straight Track. These straight tracks, or alignments, then became known as Leys and more recently Leylines.

You can see now that these alignments were nothing more than mental constructs. They don't actually exist (Even though you can dowse them – which is explained on my courses). They are useful to us though as finding alignments helps us to find the locations of their earth energy lines and that in turn helps us to find sacred sites.

2. Awakening Consciousness news

Things are changing all the time with these extra energies and one area we can all look at is dreams. How have your dreams been changing over the months?

Some people report having crazy dreams and that this is a portent to some major change coming. But is this right though?

It is worth, at this point, listening to experts on dreams though. They report that throughout a month, they sometimes have no dreams, sometimes they are very real dreams about something going on in our lives. Sometimes the dreams are very symbolic and are obviously there to be interpreted for our own benefit. Then finally there are the really crazy dreams where interpretation is just impossible.

In talking to my friend Chris Robinson – aka ‘The Dream Detective’ about this, he says that he can have all of these types of dreams within the period of a month. He does not even bother now to try and interpret the really crazy ones. It is as though the medium of communication has just been too scrambled on those occasions.

One thing he did mention though was the moon. That seems to influence the type of dreams he gets.

So what are you finding? Do you record your dreams? Have you tried to find out any relationship to the type of dreams you have been getting to the solar and planetary environment? Would that help? Do we attach too much significance to some dreams and not enough to others?

What interests me at the moment is reoccurring dreams. Have you had a reoccurring dream recently or even in the past? Many people actually have – including me and this is similar to what has been recently reported amongst thousands of Aboriginal people who have also been having this similar dream.

When I was 7 years old I had one dream that reoccurred several times over a period of about three months. I was on top of a wave that was hundreds of feet high.

I can still recall the feeling. It was not one of fear at all. It was not one of exhilaration either (As you have when surfing a wave). No this was one filled with anticipation. Something was going to happen - big time - but I really did not know what or whether it would be good or even bad for me.

It was a ride of a lifetime without the thrills but instead with all my nerves on full alert.

Of course I had no idea of what that meant but it got my attention and I remember the dreams still to this day. From what I read around the World, this was not a vision of some great mega Tsunami. This was much more like Peter Deunov’s Electric Cosmic wave and Guboo Ted Thomas’s Spiritual wave.

It has been said that this is will be a great wave of purification.

Now I know from working with the type 5 Emperor Dragons, we have to purify ourselves before trying to connect with them and work with them. Purification now, it seems to me, is something that is going to happen - before something else happens.

It is at this point we need to look to the prophecies and the common message in them all. Those of you who have read my book Grail Bound will know exactly what I am now on about.

Next year I will be rolling out a few programs that will hopefully help us prepare for all these things.

3. Science News

The Science news that made me sit up most this past month was about the Moon.

Two big questions I had heard spoken about for years look as though they have been answered. - Why does the moon have so many craters? And how did the moon get its craters.

For years scientists thought it was either from volcanism or from impacts. Since the Astronauts, or remotely flown craft with sampling equipment, brought back samples of rocks with shocked and welded minerals, scientists have consider the impact theory to be correct. This though still left out several anomalies that needed explanation – (eg The sinous rille and the long lines of craters in a row).

I personally have always wondered why the craters are always circular as though impact was always direct and straight on. Surely there would be oblong craters from glancing blows.

Well it seems the scientists forgot to include a third possibility – electrical discharges. I have added a link here to a great 12min you tube video that explains why this is now the most likely reason. https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=ZeDIWaZ_o4

It seems that a Chinese space craft has recently visited the moon and failed to find any Impact minerals and no mantle material in the moons largest crater. At 25km diameter and 13km deep, if it had been an impact crater, it would have been from an object that was so big and dense it would have penetrated down into the moon's mantle and there would have been plenty of impact minerals and mantle material on the surface. It turns out there was none so there could not have been any impact.

Why is this significant you may ask? Well this now makes the Electric Universe an even more important thing we should be researching than the gravity based model.

That our Sun is Electric is now far more likely and the Safire project mentioned in previous newsletters is now far more likely to be proved right in the end.

Finally it also shows us just how wrong the mainstream narrative can be. Their hasty decisions and one theory at a time approach may be great for the pockets of the supporting scientists, but it is fast becoming disastrous for mankind. No one should put all their eggs in one basket and to look to innovate, solve our future problems and many other things, we cannot afford to go down any more blind alleys. It is far better to have competing theories – two three or even four of them at a time - each sharing the available budget for research.

It is time to ditch relativity theory. It is time to ditch the sun fusion model and it is time to also ditch many more mainstream theories that have reached a dead end too.

Anyway, have a watch and see what you think.

4. Social media news

I have just started a new Facebook page called The Rory Duff School of Dowsing. It is for anyone who has been on my level 1 Awareness and Dowsing course. It is closed group though as it is aimed at high level discussions on dowsing observations that are being made as well as personal ones. I will also be pointing out areas of research that need to be done for anyone who is interested. It is also a chance for some Q& A with people how are now fully conversant with the new terminologies, classifications and scientific hypothesis in regards to the earth energy line origin and how dowsing actually works. If you are one of those who have managed to get to my courses, just ask to join the page and that will be actioned. For those of you who have not done the level one course who cannot join, don't worry as it will be a source of earth energy news that I write about in these newsletters.

5. Courses, Seminars, Workshops news

First and foremost, I have prepared two Seminar Workshops of the States - One in Florida and one in New Jersey. More are being planned in other areas of the US for 2020. If you would like to help make one happen in your area, let me know asap.

If you can get to Palm Coast in Florida on the 2nd and 3rd of November I have a talk on the afternoon of the 2nd on the following:-

Leylines, Earth Energies, their sacred intersections, the Knights Templar Holy Grail and how all these things offers us all a chance for a positive future.

Rory Duff talks about his journey of discovery from his time as a geologist in the Gold mines in Africa through to his current work as an International Geobiologist. His unique and ground breaking research into Leylines and Earth energies led him to understanding the science behind them and how they can be either harmful or helpful to us. This led to him discovering why sacred places are found where they are and the rediscovery of the most powerful energy lines in the World. It is the intersections of these lines that allowed him to find the connection with the Knights Templar Holy Grail. A growing realisation then began about the importance of synchronicity in life. Now looking to just follow his vocational path, his journey took him to ancient pilgrimage sites in Europe, a link with the divine feminine and the connection to the Universal consciousness and why all these things are so important for us all today. His talk finishes with a look at some of his most recent work in mapping the main energy lines in Florida and other parts of the States. His main aim in life today now is to help people gather together in small groups in prayer and meditation at sacred sites all around the World on the four key times of harmony each year.

And a morning and afternoon workshop on Sunday 3rd November on the following

Dowsing Earth Energy line workshop

In this workshop you will learn what dowsing is all about, how it works, what benefits it can bring you and how it can help you find your true purpose in life. You will be taught to dowse with rods and pendulums and get a chance to practice this ancient art that seeks to enhance the connection between the conscious and the unconscious mind. In the afternoon there will be a chance to visit the most powerful earth energy lines in the area and to dowse them and meditate on them

If you can get to the Paterson New Jersey area on the Saturday 9th November :-

Evolution of consciousness One day Seminar / Workshop

The World is rapid changing in good and bad ways. On the one hand we are seeing a strong rise in mental ill health, a greater polarisation of views, a huge increase in lies and ever more evident displays of negative emotions. On the other hand, what is not so visible, but still going on, is a greater awareness of the World around us. This awareness extends to more easily sensing these lies and a developing empathy with other people's pain. More people are meditating and turning to inner spirituality and even greater numbers around the world are seeking answers to deep questions about life and its purpose.

This one day seminar/workshop will provide an explanation for these things, what is happening and what will happen very soon and what we can do ourselves to help bring about a positive outcome.

The explanation is based around unique research that Rory Duff has done on Earth Energies and the science behind them. This led to seeing a connection with recent astronomical observations and the writings of ancient and modern seers and sages around the World - like Rudolf Steiner, Carl Jung, Goethe & Deunov. A common theme emerged that showed that many prophecies from around the World, like the Hopi Indian blue star Kachina prophecy, are all referring to the same coming event.

Everything is now pointing towards a coming change in human consciousness and that this is part of a naturally occurring cycle that mankind has gone through in the past roughly every 12000 years. This time though will be different in that it offers us a chance to grow our inner spirituality and to evolve into a new golden age – but only if we prepare the right way. This appears to be as simple as praying and meditating together at key sacred sites all around the World at the four key harmony times in the year. The increase in the divine feminine is now what is also needed to bring about a necessary balance at this time of harmony.

The Seminar connects up a new understanding about natural Earth forces, sacred sites and our inner spirituality in an inclusive way that allows people of all faiths and religions to be able to come together so that they can make a positive difference for everyone living in the surrounding area.

It also includes a workshop that will also help you build up a powerful mental technique that will prepare you for these mental and emotional opportunities and the challenges that we are all going to be facing in the next few years. This is something that you will then be able to teach others. (It is important to note that although we will be briefly touching upon some past negative feelings as part of learning this mental technique, no one will be asked or required to talk about any past negative experiences). The practical element included in the workshop will also teach you a personal way to gauge how your personal transformation is proceeding.

This is probably one of the most powerful, up to date and relevant seminar workshops that you will have ever attended in your life. If many of us can come together to do these things it will ensure that we not only survive but also thrive in the years to come as the new era is heralded in.

This will be followed by some dowsing courses in the Paterson area on the Sunday. Details will be given at the Saturday seminar.

On a more local front it has been a really busy and successful October when it comes to Dowsing courses.

I have had one person embark on their level 3 course and they are now into their pre requisite mapping project before they can begin the actual course.

We had a really successful level 2 course with Mark, Sally and Hayley all doing really well at the end of the day. All of them reached full competency with ease across all 25 competencies and they all passed the final mapping assessment. This is not easy folks. You have 45 mins to map an area about the size of 2 acres and you have to find any type 3,2, 1 lines and all the moon phase lines and get their direction right.

The following weekend we had a dowsing improvers day at Avebury in Wiltshire in the UK (Where the stone circle is). This is just for those people who have done the level 1 course who are ready to take things to the next stage. 12 of us had a great morning at the central circle tracking the centres of the type 3's in towards the node.

If you know the area energetically, you will know that the node moves to the North and South and back again over time. As to why and how and how to find the node on the day you go, well you really need to do the courses.

After that, we went on the Avenue where we looked at how the widths of lines can change and why. An hour of great conversation was had a lunchtime and then it was on to the Sanctuary where everyone learnt to measure how the side the side movements of the lines changed as they approached the node and also how we each individually have a special key to finding our own unique node. Each of us measures the centres of the lines slightly differently. This is very special to know and to do this you need to have the ability to be accurate to a few centimeters. (This is taught on the level 1 course).

When you do this with the centres of several energy lines, we find we each have a slightly different central point. The result, when done correctly, is a group of people all standing in a circle facing each other. So much more to say on this but you need to come on the courses. I will run this day a couple of times next year and a more advanced one in a new area.

After the Sanctuary we stopped off at Silbury Hill to discuss all the past locations of energy lines and nodes at Avebury before going on to the Longstones and rediscovering the Beckhampton Avenue of stones and why they were placed where they were and why they were subsequently all taken down. It is a very seldom visited site in the Avebury complex and many of the people with me had never been there or heard of the place. They were shocked at the size of the two standing stones as they were pretty much the size of the biggest stones at Avebury itself.

It was certainly a fun filled day, made so much better by being with a lovely group of people.

A week after that and I was down to Cerne Abbas in Dorset – where there is a large giant drawn into the side of a nearby chalk hill. The small village below the hill was where I was headed. Here another group of 12 enthusiasts, kindly brought together by the lovely Jane, were eager to discover the energy lines in the village, where they went, and how they related to the Giant and the hill fort next to it. The weather was against us with gales and tempestuous rainfall but what was amazing was how well everyone managed in these conditions. Even though we were all very prepared in advance for the conditions, we were all soaked through by the end of the day.

Having said that, there was some great success with synchronised dowsing becoming very precise towards the end of the day as we centred in on a type 3 node with two pairs of lines. Again some great learning was done on the day and I left filled with admiration for everyone for being able to stay so cheerful under such difficult conditions.

If you would like something like this to happen next year near to where you live, please contact me and we can perhaps see if there is room in the calendar for it.

6. Book news

In my last newsletter 4 weeks ago, I released a link just to readers of this newsletter for an advance opportunity to buy and read my new novel The Grail Hunter. I also asked for reviews and I am delighted to be able share the first review I have had in.

It came from Sally who, it has to be said, is very kindly supportive of my work, but even then, I was surprised at how nice the review was.

"I really enjoyed this book! It is rare for me read a book more than once but Grail Hunter is an exception.

The central character is someone I could immediately relate to, just an ordinary person who realises that life is going nowhere – but then reaches crisis point and decides to make some major changes for the better.

The various challenges, doubts and fears that she encounters are familiar to all of us in our everyday lives and this is a major impact of the story – the exciting realisation that you can reclaim your life too!

The storyline moves along at a good pace and keeps you engrossed for 'just one more page' because there is also so much practical, thought-provoking and valuable information all interwoven here too.

When you have to put the book down and go and do other things it feels as if Rowena is a friend you've been speaking with and you're eagerly waiting for the next update from her!

There have been a steady stream of books on the market in recent years which claim to explain the power of concepts such as 'intuition', 'life-purpose' and 'synchronicity' but ultimately leave you feeling baffled and unconvinced.

Grail Hunter is very different; the author lets you actually watch over Rowena's shoulder and learn from her as she gradually creates her new way of living. You experience with her the ups and downs of learning to be truly alive and making a difference in today's world, which soon sparks many ideas in your own mind of how that would work in your own life.

Even after finishing the book, you'll find yourself having 'lightbulb moments' while recalling past events and encounters in your own life which now seem to make a lot more sense.

As an added bonus, you'll find that you now have clear insights into how to tackle current situations in your life in a slightly different way. Enthusiasm, optimism and satisfaction become part of your daily life once more!

I need to order a second copy of Grail Hunter to lend to friends and relatives, so many of whom have told me that they've achieved all the usual goals in life but have no sense of fulfilment. I'm confident that they will find inspiration of their own within its pages.

Overall, this novel has uplifted me, surprised me and made me think. I hope it does the same for you!"

Sally Stamford

So a big thanks for that Sally.

7. Extra

Again this month, I have gone well over the desired length of these newsletters so I will hold other things back until the next one.

Thanks for reading this and please let other people know and to sign up to future newsletters if you think they may be interested.

For discounts off Location checks, Seminars and my Dowsing courses, please click here to go to the discount page on my website <https://roryduff.com/discount-payment-page/>
